

MEMBERSHIP IN C. OF C. TREBLED FIRST FEW HRS.

New memberships in the Chamber of Commerce to the number of 219 were secured this morning by the so-called team in the membership campaign. This with the previous membership of 86 makes a total of 305 to date. Two days remain for adding still more names to the roster.

All the team workers and many of the new members had luncheon this noon at the Hotel Medford. The score of the different teams as announced during the meal is as follows:

In answer to a question put by Division Manager B. E. Harder, Vernon Vawter, president of the Chamber of Commerce, said that it would be proper to tell prospects that the Chamber in the coming year would get out a booklet to advertise Medford. While, he said, it would be up to the new members to decide finally, the consensus of opinion was so overwhelmingly in favor of such a booklet that there was not the slightest doubt but that this would be done.

Problems encountered by the team workers during the morning were discussed, and it was urged that team members start out from the Chamber of Commerce tomorrow morning at nine sharp. Paul B. McKee, manager of the membership campaign, announced that the organized soliciting would end tomorrow and that on Thursday the field would be thrown open and everyone without a membership tag would be fair game to the workers.

F. S. Bramwell, a newcomer in Medford, made a short talk saying that he was glad to become a member of the Chamber and that he liked the spirit shown. Delroy Getchell dis-

SOCIALISM THROWS DOWN GAUNTLET HOUSE COMMONS

LONDON, March 20.—(By the Associated Press)—Socialism throws down the gauntlet to capitalism in the house of commons tonight when Philip Snowden, one of the leaders in the independent labor party, puts a motion that the "present system" is a failure and that legislation be directed toward its gradual supersession "by an industrial and social order based upon democratic control of instruments of production."

It will be the first time in history that socialism has launched in the British parliament a direct formal challenge of the existing order and the event, discussed in the press for several days is regarded as one of the most significant happenings in a long time.

All the other parties in the house are united in opposing Mr. Snowden's motion and their whips have urgently called their respective supporters to attend tonight's session.

Amendments have been framed by every party. Philip Snowden, laborite, plans to introduce in the house today a bill for the nationalization of land in Great Britain and the abolition of private property in land.

AUBREY G. SMITH RE-ELECTED SUPT. LOCAL SCHOOLS

Aubrey G. Smith, present superintendent of the Medford public schools who has been serving in that capacity for the past three years, has been re-elected by the board of education in regular session assembled for a term of two years at the same salary as last year, $3600, over that of the year before.

While a certain element of citizenship, said to be opposed to the proposal for a new high school building, had for some time past been quietly working to prevent the re-election of Superintendent Smith, when the vote was taken there was only one dissenting voice, that of Dr. I. D. Phipps. The vote was by roll call. The members of the school board are Mrs. E. E. Kelly, John C. Mann, A. B. Cunningham, Mrs. Milton James and Dr. I. D. Phipps.

At the next annual school election to be held June 18th next, which date falls on Monday, two new members of the board will be elected to fill vacancies caused by the terms of Messdames James and Kelly expiring. It will be remembered that Mrs. James was elected, and that Mrs. Kelly was appointed by the board to fill out the term of Mrs. Richard Smythe, who had been elected but only served a few months because of removing from the city.

The coming election in June is expected to be a very warm one, as both the adherents of the new high school building and those opposed to erecting such a structure are expected to be out in force to vote for their respective candidates for the two board memberships. The campaign is already quietly on with each side looking carefully for suitable candidates.

CIVIC DINNER BIG SUCCESS

place of brotherly love, of citizenship, of co-operation and work."

In closing his speech Mr. Duryea quoted "The Brotherhood of Better Things" by Edgar A. Guest. In beginning his speech he stated that he hoped the reporters would state that "a big party representing the state chamber of commerce was present."

A beautiful vocal solo was rendered by Mrs. S. M. Scott, accompanied by S. M. Scott. The audience was delighted and so hearty was the applause that Mrs. Scott sang two encores. The three numbers were: "Bird of the Wilderness," "Irish Love Song" and "Nancy's Answer."

"Big Eruptor" Robert Boyd of the Crater club then appeared on the stage, which had been erected on the east side of the big dining room. He represented "The 2 Busy Business Man." Carl Tengwald, as a Chamber of Commerce solicitor for Boyd's membership, arrived in a moment and after many questions and answers (questions by Boyd), answers by Tengwald) sold him a membership in both the Chamber of Commerce and Jackson County Farm bureau.

Following a splendid vocal solo, "The Bandolero," Harry Scougall gave the meeting a comedy touch by singing four verses dedicated to the membership drive, the Crater club members joining in the chorus. The final verse was:
"Now Frobach wears a happy smile,
I'll say he does.
He has six hundred names on file,
I'll say he has.
The Chamber of Commerce is going strong,
And Medford's growing right along,
The Craters tell the world she is."

The audience gave the original ditty a big hand and as an encore, Mr. Scougall sang "Rolling Down to Rio." Mrs. Scougall was the accompanist.

ment of the organization among which were, less dependence on personal initiative of individual members and forced co-operation, the use of coercion to get members to work. Other suggestions were the reclamation of dead heads by a process of coercion and extortion and the eradication of the "Satisfied With Oregon" spirit. He gave Webster's definition of satisfied, "Nothing more is wanted."

At a mention of the new high school building and the chamber's so far indifferent attitude toward such a project a burst of applause interrupted the debater and he was unable to continue for several minutes. He explained the advantages of a new high school building and the importance of the schools in a community.

In rebuttal Bragg had little to say except that he was sure if the Chamber of Commerce received the unqualified support of the people of Medford which it has not received in the past, that his points would be proven in practice.

High School Favored.
I. E. Vining, the speaker of the evening was introduced by chairman Paul B. McKee and was greeted with hearty applause as is always the case when he appears in Medford.

"A real high school," said Vining, "consists of the ability and enthusiasm of its students. From what we have heard here tonight I am convinced that Medford has a real high school and that the ability and sense of civic pride and civic duty displayed by these young men will ultimately gain them the realization of their dream in the completion of the structure for which they are working."

"There is one date that will go down in Jackson county history and that will be remembered by our son's sons. That is that in 1923 Medford started to become the city that it should be. This is not an idle dream, but is in keeping with the spirit here tonight and if you support that spirit it will be the fact."

The drum beats of progress are sounding to the north of us, to the south of us and to the east of us and yet Oregon has not had the sagacity of a New York Jew who put out the sign, "Main Entrance." Oregon has not even gone that far in the advertising campaign.

"The railroads on the north of us are inaugurating a million dollar advertising campaign to bring people down from Canada and out from the mid-west and yet when $40,000 was asked from the Oregon legislature for the fund, that Oregon might be mentioned in this tremendous advertising campaign, Oregon could not afford it."

"We have talked of California and Los Angeles, the metropolis of that state this evening, but have not mentioned the metropolis of our own state. Why can't we mention Portland? Portland is raising a $300,000 fund for nation-wide advertising of this state. Portland is the metropolis of Oregon in population, but yet I believe that Medford is the metropolis of the state in progressive spirit and initiative."

The Too Busy Sheath.
"We have a task before us. Let us see what it is. When we look at ourselves we may find that we are unfit that a sort of sheath has grown about us and that we are confined in the narrow commonplace channels of routine, everyday work. The sheath of selfish prejudice, narrow viewpoint and the sheath of 'No time for this, no time for that,' the 'too busy' sheath."

"We are encased in this sheath and look out through tiny slits of windows that are necessary for the routine work. We must throw off that death. When we solicit a member for the Chamber of Commerce, he may have no window through which he may gain the broad vision and he may endeavor to draw himself within his sheath.

"We must show him that, 'He profits most who serves best.' We must tear the sheath from him and when we do this we may find a shriveled, shrunken being as the result of long imprisonment. We must inflate the tube of civic pride and civic duty and expand him until he can see the light. We must make him new, plastic, vigorous, active. The Chamber of Commerce makes it possible to look through the window of civic duty."

"Los Angeles is touted as the home of the contented millionaire. Washington, our sister state to the north, is widely advertised as the home of the Carnation contented cow. We want Oregon to be known far and wide as the empire of visioning people. Sometimes when I look at our state metropolis, I believe there is something in the theory of propinquity."

"Any individual acting as such is always on a lower plane of efficiency than if under a superior guidance. An organization always reaches a greater plane of efficiency than the individual and things, impossible for the individual are accomplished by organizations."

"There are only two views to take of the Chamber of Commerce question. If it is not what it should be, join and make it so. If it is what it should be, it is worthy of your support."

"The balmy breezes of these March days remind us that spring will soon be here and that the goddess will come tripping down the canyon from the mountain top, leaving in her wake wild flowers which will perfume the breezes. The orchard will bloom in its new dress, the song of the lark, the chirp of the robin and the babble of the swollen stream all tell us of the resurrection of new hope and life. Cannot we say a resurrection of civic pride and civic duty?"

Women Need Swamp-Root

Thousands of women have kidney and bladder trouble and never suspect it.

Women's complaints often prove to be nothing else but kidney trouble, or the result of kidney or bladder disease.

If the kidneys are not in a healthy condition they may cause the other organs to become diseased. Pain in the back, headache, loss of ambition, nervousness, are often times symptoms of kidney trouble.

Don't delay starting treatment. Dr. Kilmer's Swamp-Root, a physician's prescription, obtained at any drug store, may be just the remedy needed to overcome such conditions.

Get a medium or large size bottle immediately from any drug store. However, if you wish first to test this great preparation, send ten cents to Dr. Kilmer & Co., Binghamton, N. Y., for a sample bottle. When writing, be sure and mention this paper. Adv.
