

EASTER OBSERVED LOCAL CHURCHES, SONG AND SERMON

Easter was a red letter day at the First Baptist church with record breaking attendance at both services. All the seats in both auditoriums were used in the morning and chairs were placed to take care of the crowd who came to participate in the special attractions of the day. Dr. S. J. Reid, the evangelist, gave a strong and convincing sermon on the Resurrection, after which the pastor, Rev. F. R.

Leach, baptized eleven persons, including an entire family of five. The largest attendance of the church year was also present at the Sunday school. Announcement was made that the contest between the men's and women's bible classes was won by the men. They will be entertained later on. Dr. Reid addressed the school for a short time.

The church was unable to take care of the great audience which assembled in the evening to hear the cantata, by the choir, "From Sepulcher to the Throne," as presented under the direction of S. M. Scott. A large number of chairs were used and extra pews from the class rooms and still some were obliged to stand. So pleased was the audience that it was decided to repeat the cantata next Sunday evening, when without doubt many who were unable to be present will avail themselves of the opportunity. For some two months the choir had been rehearsing. Not a few were heard to say that it surpassed any musical treat they had ever heard, and without doubt it represented the finest effort that the church has put forth in years.

The stringed orchestra gave volume and power to the music. It was composed of Prof. James, Prof. Root, Mrs. Louis Vimont, Jr., Miss Gene Hoffman and Mr. Scott. Mr. Charles O'Hara, tenor for the American Light Opera Co., assisted and with Mrs. Scott took a duet which was rendered in a strong way, while Mrs. Scott showed her remarkable power as a soloist and her great range of voice by taking the solo parts in the cantata. The fine work of the entire choir was shown in the chorus parts, which were rendered in a manner which would be a credit to any church. The cantata will be repeated in full with orchestra next Sunday evening.

After the music Dr. Reid gave his farewell message which was appreciated. There were some conversions following the sermon. Resolutions of appreciation were passed relative to Dr. Reid's fine work done for the church. He is a rare evangelist and a preacher of great power and won many friends. A liberal offering was taken for his work.

The largest regular service seen in the Presbyterian church in the memory of the workers there, was witnessed yesterday, Easter Sunday morning, when the audience packed every available corner of the building and the hall, some leaving when they found they could not get a seat. The old story of the Resurrection of Jesus Christ from the grave as sung by a well drilled and finely balanced mixed quartet, and a male quartet, than which there is none better from the standpoint of balanced voices and rich harmony, together with the message on the supernatural manifestations of God through Jesus Christ, when on earth and ever since down through the ages by His Holy Spirit operating through men filled with the Holy Spirit and power, all combined to make a service that left its impress on the mind and heart of every listener. Twenty-eight members were received into the church, seventeen on confession of their faith in Christ, and twelve by letter from other churches which with two received the previous Sunday makes thirty at the Easter season. This makes a total of eighty received into this growing church during the past year and one hundred and forty-nine during the present pastorate of two years. The Sunday school attendance also broke all previous records, reaching the high mark of 314. An unusual but greatly appreciated part of the musical service was the combination of pipe organ and piano, also one number with violin and pipe organ and piano.

The evening service while not so largely attended was a good sized audience and listened with rapt attention to the splendid music furnished by the male quartet and the lessons drawn from the story of Mary Magdalene.
