The new city reservoir on which work was begun months ago will not be completed and ready for use until the middle of May or the first of June, according to W. H. Felgenson, the contractor who arrived here from Portland the first of the week. He has maintained from the time the contract was taken that it would not be finished until June 1st, but it now appears that it may be two weeks earlier. The excavation work will be finished in two weeks, and then the pouring of concrete will begin.
