

CITY PLANNING BILL PASSED BY CITY COUNCIL

The much talked of city planning commission and some ordinance was passed by the city council last night. The ordinance is the longest and full of myriads of important details to permit of an intelligent consideration within the news confines of the average newspaper.

The title of the ordinance is as follows: "An ordinance establishing the districts or zones regulating therein the use of property, height of buildings, and required open spaces for light and ventilation of such buildings."

The first section of the measure follows in part:

"That public health, comfort, convenience, safety and welfare in the city of Medford require that the use of private property be regulated, and that districts or zones be established throughout the city within some of which it shall be lawful and in others unlawful to erect, alter or maintain certain buildings or make certain use of property, that therefore various parts of said city be and they are hereby divided into residential, business and industrial districts or zones which, in turn, are subdivided so as to provide in all for six different classifications; that said classifications are shown and delineated on that certain map entitled, "Diagram of Use Districts, Building Zone Map of the City of Medford," filed in the office of the city recorder, and hereby adopted as the official zone map of said city and made a part of this ordinance."

The business and fire limits districts, which are practically the same, are bounded as follows:
Between Tenth street on the south and Oakdale street on the west, to First street on the east, then north on Third, east on Third to alley between Front and Central avenue, north on alley to Jackson, east on Jackson to Bear creek, down the creek to Tenth, west on Tenth to Front, north on Front street to Eighth, across to First street and then south to Tenth street.

The district or zone for apartment houses, churches, hotels, club houses, etc., is the same as the business district except that it includes the following: Beginning at the intersection of Eighth and Oakdale, running west to Mistletoe, north on Mistletoe to a point in line with West Sixth street, thence northeast to Oakdale, north on Oakdale to Vermont, north on Vermont to Second, west on Second to Woodstock, north on Woodstock one block, east on alley south of Ninth to Vermont, north on Vermont to Jackson, east on Jackson to Front, north on Front to alley, northeast on alley to Oak, south to Jackson, and east to Bear creek.

The north section of the warehouse and industrial districts is bounded as follows: Beginning of Clark street and city limits on west, thence east to railroad, south following line of railroad to Jackson, east on Jackson to Central, north on alley between the railroad and Central to lot 4, block 2, Central subdivision, east on alley to Central, north on Central to city limits, thence northeast following the city limits to Riverside.

The south warehouse and industrial district is bounded as follows: Beginning at intersection of Eighth and First, south to Boyd, east on alley to Whitman Park addition, north to Davis addition, north along the alley to Eighth street, and west to the place of beginning.

The residence district includes everything outside of the warehouse and industrial districts and the apartment house, hotel, church, etc., district.

The enforcement penalties provide a fine of not more than $50 or imprisonment of not more than fifty days, or both.

Public buildings can be located anywhere the city council shall determine.

Every person building a new structure or altering an old one must obtain a building permit. This ordinance is now in effect.

HEALTH OFFICER ISSUES WARNING

Clean up your back yards of old cans, and rubbish that supply food for flies; remembering people only who furnish nourishment for flies have them. Keep your garbage cans washed daily and well covered then flies will not hover around them and your neighbors will not turn up their noses as they pass by our phone the health department to see that you abate the nuisance. Clean out your stables and barn lots every morning thus destroying the breeding place where flies increase by millions and go directly to your dining table and sit with you out of the same glass and eat with you off the same slice of bread or pie without even asking your permission. Screen all doors and windows as this disgusting insect has feet so constructed as to carry filth from the open privy to feed around your baby's mouth, nose or some open sore, distributing its germ supply with every step.

If you realized the extent of the fly's ability to carry filth and disease you would see that your grocer, baker and confectioner effectively screened against them and your motto in your own home would be "swat the fly" unless your sense of cleanliness was decidedly abnormal. Keep privy vaults frequently cleaned and always free from foul odors with the adequate use of lime for your family's comfort and protection.

Don't give your neighbor cause for worrying the health department by your neglect.
"A wife mother knows that flies are more dangerous than the rattlesnake."

Medford lovers of dante and melody will again have the opportunity of enjoying Cole McElroy's famous orchestra, according to word received here today. This popular organization, which featured Monte Austin, an entertainer of exceptional ability, supplied an evening's enjoyment for southern Oregon people here last year at the Fair Grounds pavilion.

M'ELROY'S ORCHESTRA HERE MAY 1 AND 4

May 1st and May 4th are the days set for McElroy's appearance here. Since the orchestra was here last season, they have toured the east, Klamath Falls, Grants Pass and other towns included on the schedule of stops.

WOMAN'S HEALTH RESTORED

She Claims Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound Did It After Everything Else Failed

Milwaukee, Wisconsin. "I feel that I ought to let you know about my case. I was ailing and could barely do my housework and washing. I was so run-down, just from having one child. I took a lot of medicines and had doctors. Then I gave them all up and took Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and I feel wonderfully good now. I do everything that comes along, and we all take your medicine as a tonic when we don't feel just so. I am thankful for what the Vegetable Compound has done for my health and for my family." - Mrs. MARY SAUBERCH, 944 25th Street, Milwaukee, Wisconsin.

Letters like these testify to the value of the Vegetable Compound. These women speak from the fullness of their hearts. They describe as correctly as they can their conditions: First, those symptoms that affected them most conspicuously; and later the disappearance of those symptoms. They are sincere expressions of gratitude. For nearly fifty years Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound has been praised by women.

ADJT. GENL. WHITE ACTS AS SLEUTH

SALEM, Ore., April 24.—After spending two days "sleuthing" in the logging camps of Lincoln and Tillamook counties, Adjutant General George White returned here today and declared that, in his opinion the I. W. W. strike, called in various camps for Saturday night, will not prove a serious matter.

The trip of the adjutant general was made with a view to gathering first hand information and was abandoned when his activities were exposed. Local authorities will be able to handle the situation, he said.

White was accompanied by Major Tom Ellsby. The men masqueraded behind a week's growth of beard and rugged clothing. A large supply of "red" literature was brought back to Salem.

mailed terms with the families of the bride and bridegroom, or whose official or social status entitled them to the distinction of witnessing the ceremony.

Harvey is There!

George Harvey, the American ambassador, was a striking figure in tight velvet knee breeches, silk stockings and other court regalia, while Mrs. Harvey attracted wide attention in her gown of beige crepe with over dress of black lace and snub and vest of beige crepe embroidered in Oriental colors.

She wore white furs and a black crystalline hat trimmed with lace bows. In all, nine Americans witnessed the ceremony. In addition to Ambassador and Mrs. Harvey, these favored guests were seven of the American newspapermen in London who had been for the opportunity of witnessing eye-witness descriptions of the service and the gorgeous spectacle it afforded.

The faces of the sovereigns were radiant as the tall erect figure of their son, with Wales on his left, walked to the altar, followed soon after by the bride upon the arm of her father, the Earl of Strathmore. The stately strains of the hymn, "Lead Us, Heavenly Father, Lead Us," lent a note of beauty to the procession.

The revised and shortened exhortation as approved in the new English prayer book, was pronounced by the dean of Westminster and then the archbishop asked the usual "with us?"

The archbishop then bestowed his blessing on the pair and a prayer was recited. This was followed by a second blessing and an address by the archbishop of York.

While the duke and his bride were signing the register in the Chapel of Edward the Confessor, the choir sang the anthem "Beloved, Let us Love One Another" and as the royal couple left, the inspiring cadences of "Gloria" rang thru the arched domes of the great abbey.

Big Arrival by Crowd.

Emerging into the street, the duke and his bride were greeted by a peal of the abbey chimes. This was the signal for a deafening shout of acclaim from 54,000 throats as the multitude outside the abbey craning their necks, and standing on tiptoe to catch a glimpse of the couple, saw them into their gorgeous carriage of plate glass and gold for the drive to Buckingham palace.

Parliament square was a sea of faces. Eight thousand policemen, 500 mounted officers and numberless detectives from Scotland Yard kept order along the mile and a quarter route from the abbey to the palace. Outside the great religious shrine and all around parliament square were acres of wooden stands for seats on which Londoners, provincials and Americans paid extravagant price.

Every building in the neighborhood was festooned with vivid red bunting, royal crests and countless banners and flags. The Stars and Stripes was not lacking. Scores of picturesque pyramids of gold, blue and white surmounted by a gilded crown, fringed the edge of the sidewalks, giving the scene a colorful martial touch.

Disabled Soldiers Favored

At the express wish of Albert, 100 disabled soldiers who are still suffering from wounds inflicted in the world war, viewed the procession from a grandstand erected opposite the abbey. From the balconies and windows of Westminster hospital thousands of other war invalids saw the stirring event. Expressive of the prince's love of children was the presence outside the abbey of several thousand school youngsters. They roared a mighty welcome as their royal patron came out of the church, arm and arm with his duchess. Tens of thousands of London's other children who were denied a glimpse of the wedding procession had the day off. Each youngster received a box containing a morsel of true royal wedding cake.

Arriving at the palace, the royal couple received another deafening outpouring of cheers from their well wishers. The king and queen held a reception in the palace, and the bride and groom were showered with congratulations and good wishes on every side. The reception was followed by a luncheon at which the gigantic wedding cake—11 weighed 1000 pounds—was cut.

Soon after four o'clock the duke and duchess left for the Waterloo station, the king and queen flooding them with an avalanche of rice as they departed.

At the terminal another great crowd spied the royal couple on their honeymoon journey to Surrey.
