Local and Personal

At the hour of going to press this afternoon the latest information obtainable about Dr. J. J. Emmens was that his condition was still very low, but that the attending physicians had not given up hope. The Elks club will be advised every hour of Dr. Emmens' condition, and all telephone inquiries will be answered.

The radio receiving set to be used at the Methodist church tomorrow was being tested out last night when Rev. J. R. Sacnett picked up a message to a man and his wife who had gone for a trip into the mountains near Fresno, carrying a radio set with them. The message was from Los Angeles, their home, and stated that their five year old daughter was dangerously ill with appendicitis. The little girl had been left at home with the grandmother. The incident illustrates the practical value of radio, and the place it will have in everyday life.

The public market will begin next week to keep open three days a week, Tuesday, Thursday, and Saturday, instead of two days as has been the rule for some time past. While home grown produce is still scarce owing to the backwardness of the crowing season, Superintendent Runyard hopes that from now on enough will come in to justify the three days a week market. The market of today was only fairly good.

The Klamath Falls Herald prints the following article regarding a well known former local citizen: "Geo. Lindley, vice president of the American National bank, has made friends with the pelicans around Ling river bridge, and each morning he feeds them a handful of table scraps. This morning, however, the pelicans were far down the lake, and the mudhens started to gobble the feed. But a huge fish, apparently a trout, came to the surface with a slash, snatched a tidbit and disappeared, frightening the mudhens away. Now Lindley feels that he had added a fish to his list of river friends."

DOG POISONING TO BE FOUGHT BY NEW ORGANIZATION

Dog poisoning in Medford and Jackson county has become too prevalent, and an association for the prevention of poisoning and the protection of dogs has been formed. The organization members pledge themselves each to pay a certain amount for information leading to the arrest and conviction of anyone poisoning or in any other way unlawfully killing a dog belong to a member of the association.

The membership of the association, which it is said will soon have a roster of over 250 in Jackson county is to be kept secret. A standing reward of $500 or more will be posted for information leading to the arrest and conviction of anyone unlawfully killing a dog belonging to a member and an advertisement or notice of the reward for conviction of such criminal will be run regularly in the local papers.

Poisoning and unlawful killing of dogs is expected to be much diminished by this action on the part of such a large number of men and women in the valley.
