The commercial fishing season in Grants Pass will open at midnight May 25. It is estimated that there will be at least 1 boats making the drift from the steel bridge on Sixth street to Hells Gate. The fishermen are now getting their nets repaired and their boats ready for the season's work, which will end on October 1, giving a four months' fishing season on the upper river. The salmon run in the Rogue is quite heavy this spring with thousands of the Royal Chinooks already well on their way to the spawning beds. The recent high water is regarded as favorable as it will bring more of the fish into the mouth of the Rogue.—The Grants Pass Courier.

Frank Bordinis of Weed, is in the hospital in that city and probably will lose one hand and both his feet as the result of his steel fishing rod coming in contact with a sagging high tension wire north of Copco last Saturday. Bordinis was fishing along the river near Klamath Hot Springs. He threw his rod back to make a cast and it came in contact with a 34,000 volt wire. Despite the fact that he had on rubber boots and was standing on the bank, the electricity passed down through the rod and his body. One hand and both feet were badly burned.
