DAIRYING SHOWS A BIG INCREASE IN JACKSON CO.

Asked regarding the growth of the dairy industry in this county, G. H. Grover, of the Snider Dairy & Produce Co., said today:

"The phenomenal increase in our business would indicate that the dairy industry is making rapid strides forward in the Rogue River valley. In the spring of 1921 when we purchased our creamery the sales only amounted to a few thousand dollars per month, while today they are running at the rate of more than a quarter million dollars per year.

"With the increase in the amount of feed produced due to the advent of irrigation and the improvement of market conditions of butterfat, more and more people are entering the business, while those already in the business are increasing the size of their herds.

"When we entered the field the local price of butterfat averaged four cents less than the Portland delivered price, while for several months past we have been paying the same price for butterfat the dairymen would receive if he delivered it to Portland, thereby saving him from 3 to 5 cents per pound express charges. A number of persons are contemplating putting in from twenty to thirty cows and have asked us to figure the cost of installing milking machines for them.

"Last month we made two installations, one for Geo. Collins, who has one of the finest registered Jersey herds in the state, and one for A. S. Kleinhammer, who is milking thirty high grade cows and expects to increase this number to sixty in the near future.

"Our climatic conditions are ideal for dairying; cows produce as much butterfat during the mild winter months as during the summer, which is certainly not the case in most dairy sections of the country.

"Our irrigated lands yield bountiful crops of corn for silage, beets, carrots, etc., which contain the necessary succulence, while our alfalfa is the highest protein content which is the principal food element necessary for heavy milk production.

"The grains which supply the carbohydrates needed to make a well balanced ration are also raised in abundance. We fully expect to see this one of the leading dairy sections of the country within a limited time."

Identify Body of Woman Found Near Umatilla, Oregon

PENDLETON, Ore., Nov. 15.—County officials believe that the woman whose wasted body was found in the Columbia river near Umatilla, November 4, was Mrs. Edna Pittman, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Rogers of Eagle Valley, near Baker. The parents of the dead woman arrived here yesterday, and when the body was examined, description of the shape of the bones and an old scar on a bone furnished satisfactory identification to all concerned.

EAGLE POINT EAGLETS

By A. C. Howitt

To the readers of the Eaglelets in the Medford Mail Tribune, greeting: No doubt you have been surprised at the abrupt manner I have discontinued sending the Eaglelets to the Mail Tribune, but I am now in the northwestern part of the great state of Washington visiting my daughter and family, Mr. and Mrs. James M. Lewis and a few days ago returned from a visit of a month's duration to my grandson and James E. Lewis, wife and two children and while there the 26th of September we all attended the county fair of Stephens county and a combination of circumstances caused me to strain my eyes. As the wind was quite strong, the sky as clear as a noon day sun and so many things of interest to attract my attention, besides the grand display of finery by the aboriginals of this noted country, I did not use the discretion I should and I was almost blind, so have been unable to read or write until now, and now it is with great difficulty that I can do either, and this forenoon my daughter came in and saw me reading a copy of the Mail Tribune and gave me a mild rebuke for straining my eyes, but as I have been so long engaged in the business as a newspaper correspondent, sixty-five years last month, and a regular contributor to the Medford Mail Tribune, the Medford Mail and the Medford Monitor regularly each week while they were weekly papers, and a part of the time four times a week, and the rest of the time twice a week since it became a daily paper, it is with the greatest reluctance that I can get the consent of my mind to give up the work I so dearly love, so have decided to take up the work again, and continue it as long as my eyes and general health will permit, or the patience of the editor will endure.

In my last letter I was giving an account of my trip from Medford to a brief sketch of some of my experiences as a circuit rider on the Oregon City circuit and had been telling of some of the glorious times we used to have in the good old days when the minister of the gospel preached the old fashioned Bible doctrines and men and women were awakened to a sense of their last condition, and sought and obtained the pardon for their sins and obtained the evidence of Divine acceptance.

But before I leave this subject I wish to relate another incident and then will move on my journey noting some incidents as I passed along the way. There is a beautiful valley in the southern part of Chickamauga county that was noted for the fertility of the soil that in its early history was called Horse Heaven, and as I was engaged in the early missionary work, in my meandering happened to visit that valley and began to visit and preach as I did in the Long Town country and the result was that soon the people began to be interested and so I arranged to hold a protracted meeting, and soon aroused the feelings of some of the old back-slidden church members who had been identified with some church or other "back in the states," but had so far neglected to read their bibles and pray for so long that they had lost all religious enjoyment, and when they began to hear the old gospel truths, and their consciences became aroused they began to give me lessons as to the kind of sermons I ought to preach, and, especially to avoid anything that was liable to arouse their guilty conscience, but to preach safe things, or in the language of the old prophet, Jeremiah, "plaster with untempered mortar." So I quietly listened to them but took my case to the Lord and the next time I took for my subject, or text, the denunciations of the Saviour to the Jews as recorded in the 11th chapter of Matthew, 20th to 24th, and the result was that the Lord wonderfully blessed the effort with the result that these same men and women who did not want to hear about Hell and the judgments of God upon the impenitent were aroused and repented of their backslidings, and made their peace with God again. And the final result, so far as I know, was that many precious souls were brought to a saving knowledge of their Saviour.

Note—I commenced to write this letter about three weeks ago but my eyes were so inflamed that I was unable to finish it, and now am not able to read it over to correct any mistakes there may be in it, but trust that they (my eyes) will improve so that I will be able to continue to keep up my correspondence as formerly.

ABANDON CLAIM WALTON BRIBED

OKLAHOMA CITY, Okla., Nov. 15.—(By Associated Press.) Prosecution in the impeachment trial of Governor J. C. Walton today turned their guns on their alleged abuse of pardon and parole authority.

They declared there would be no proof that the governor had received bribes, but that they would show he exceeded his legal authority in that he granted pardons and paroles before conviction, awarded clemency despite protests of many citizens, and that his actions were designed to permit his friends to obtain large attorney fees.

The prosecution said they will attempt to prove that a pardon was obtained for an imprisoned man by an agent who demanded $5000 before delivery. They said they would present evidence of another similar case in which the fee was $2500.
