PARIS BACKS DOWN, SPLIT IS AVOIDED

Poincare Yields to Great Britain Regarding Ultimatum to Germany, Crown Prince and Application of Penalties—England Allows Change of Word 'Consult.'

PARIS, Nov. 21.—(By The Associated Press.)—The allied council of ambassadors called to consider the text of the notes to be sent to Germany, reached a full accord at their meeting this afternoon. The result was declared by the members leaving the council and by Marshal Foch, to be particularly satisfactory.

LONDON, Nov. 21.—(By The Associated Press.)—The British government's final instructions to Lord Crewe, the British ambassador, at Paris, for handling the delicate situation which during the last week has threatened the existence of the entente, were forwarded to Paris early today.

The French willingness to meet the British half way on the terms of the allied note to be dispatched to Germany is said here to have been the salvation of the situation, Premier Poincare having given way on three chief points investigated during the negotiations between Paris and London which terminated last night.

M. Poincare has assured the British, in the first place, that the ultimatum feature could be deleted from the German note; secondly that the request for the expulsion of the ex-crown prince from Germany could be dropped, and thirdly, that no definite penalties were to be threatened immediately.

The British believe an allied note along these lines will enable the German government to accept the situation without endangering its position.

Fought Over One Word PARIS, Nov. 21.—(By The Associated Press.)—Lord Crewe, the British ambassador, received instructions from London this morning regarding the note the allies are to send to Germany. It was then announced that the council of ambassadors would meet this afternoon.

One little word—the word "consult"—is what has been delaying final action by the council on the note since Monday. It appears from today's developments, that the decision reached by the ambassador on that day was that the allied demand that the military clauses of the peace treaty be complied with an dthat if Germany failed to "consult" that demand the allies would "consult" as to what action the situation called for.

Objections to that word were raised in the French cabinet meeting Monday. It was declared that the necessity thus imposed upon France to "consult" her allies every time action was required, was just what Germany was relying upon—that no step forward would be made if after making the concession to the British government on the elimination of any reference to penalties the hands of the French government should still remain tied.

COUNCIL ORDERS WORK TO START 6 ST. CROSSING

The city council at its meeting last night transacted a large list of business, and in addition discussed the sixth street subway matter and made arrangements to keep the business streets cleaner from now on and for better lighting of North Bartlett and possibly other streets leading from the business section to the new Army; also instructed Fire Chief Elliott and Police Chief Adams to put a stop to the parking of autos in front of the Riatta theater, which practice by many car owners is in violation of state law and city ordinance and is declared to be a fire menace.

City Superintendent Davis and the city engineer were instructed to begin work on establishing the new Sixth street grade crossing the first of next week. Mayor Gaddis and the councilmen cautioned that this work be done very carefully and neatly, so as to make the much wanted improvement as slightly as possible, in view of the opposition shown in the past by the Southern Pacific company to a grade crossing over its tracks at this location, and the possibility of that company bringing an injunction suit to prevent its establishment. It is said that if such action should be taken by the company it could delay in the courts the inauguration of such a crossing two or three years.

After a discussion of dirty business streets the council instructed the superintendent of streets to hereafter flush those streets in the day time instead of at night as heretofore, and declared that merchants and business men could help the good work along by not sweeping their refuse into the streets and letting it lie there to be removed by the city.

Upon returning to this country Dr. Cook published reports of his journey and wide credence was given his narrations for some months. Since then his claims have been disputed, and he ultimately was branded as a faker, but in the meantime he was the recipient of many honors. He was made president of the Explorers club, New York, and a member of the Kings County Medical society, the American and National Geographical societies, the American Ethnological society, the American Alpine club and lesser organizations.

Dr. Cook was graduated with a degree of doctor from the New York University College of Medicine in 1890 and the following year was appointed surgeon to the Peary Antarctic expedition. Two years later he led a party up the west coast of Greenland, and the next year he explored the south portion of the same island. In 1897 Dr. Cook was appointed surgeon to the Belgian Antarctic expedition and as a result he received numerous decorations including the Order of Leopold, the gold medals of the Belgian Royal Society and the Municipality of Brussels, and the silver medal of the Belgian Royal Geographical society.
