COSTA RICA LEADS
WORLD IN REALM OF PHONE ETIQUETTE

CHICAGO.—Costa Rica is setting the telephone etiquette of the world, according to Frank M. Kenney of the International Western Electric company, just back from after a visit of seven months to San Jose. He says the Costa Rican gentleman or lady never answers the telephone—that duty is left to a servant.

"Costa Rica has absolutely no use for telephone numbers," said Mr. Kenney. "All calls are made by asking the operator for the other subscriber. Consequently, putting through a call is sometimes a long process, something like diplomatic negotiations, particularly if the servant happens to be out of sorts or the telephone operator is not up on all the social registers of the community. Virtually all telephone calls in Costa Rica are put through between three and five in the afternoon and very few at night. The Costa Rican business day begins at seven. Eight in the morning is late. Then at ten-thirty the shops close for breakfast, to reopen again at twelve-thirty."

he related, "but could not understand it, as we were in deep water. A minute afterwards came another bang and a great thudding under the stern. I looked over the side and saw a big shark with his head and mouth in the air. He must have gone for a feed off the propeller. It killed him. He simply rolled round and round like a corker and went straight down till out of sight."

"Within the Law," which began a three days engagement at the Rialto theatre yesterday, makes even more secure the leadership of Norma Talmadge as a dramatic star.

A classic of the American stage, in which Jane Cowl made her biggest hit, this Bayard Vellier play is now a classic of the silent drama, with Norma Talmadge winning fresh laurels. Love, romance and thrills combine to make it as fascinating and as exciting as a motion picture can be. Much credit, of course, must go to the genius of the director, Frank Lloyd, and to the splendid support of an unusually fine cast.

Norma Talmadge, in the role of Mary Turner, a department store girl railroaded to prison for a theft she did not commit, is a heart-stirring figure. On the completion of her prison term she vows to "get square" with the store owner who was responsible for the miscarriage of justice, but determines to stay always "within the law."

"Within the Law," a First National picture, will remain at the Rialto theatre till Thursday night.

The orchestra that Madame Pavlova carries with her would in itself be an unusual entertainment. The conductor of this excellent body of musicians, M. Theodore Stier began his career in London in 1903. In 1905 he founded the London Classical orchestra and gave concerts at the then Hebeheim hall. At one of these, in 1910, M. Stier was gratified to recognize Madame Pavlova in the audience. The result of the famous danseuse's appreciation of the maestro's efforts was the offer to M. Stier to become her personal musical director, which enviable post he has creditably filled for the past twelve years. This, states Mr. Stier, is the greatest satisfaction in his professional career—this close and delightful association with the world's premier danseuse.

On tour with Pavlova M. Stier presides over an orchestra of symphonic proportions, the instrumental section of the Ballet Russe comprising a brilliant body of executives who, both individually and collectively, are able to meet every artistic requirement. Many of the musical scores set to Pavlova's ballets and divertissements are beautiful and inspiring in themselves, and aside from the interest shown by choreographic devotees in the exquisite art of the international danseuse and her famous associates.

there are many who are quiet as interested in the orchestra features of the performances as they are in the artists on the stage.

Pavlova's engagement in this city occurs on January 12th at the Armony.
