

Mothers You Can Prevent Children From Taking Cold

Next Time They Come in Wet and "Sniffing" Rub This Vapor Salve over Throat and Chest.

When children come in from play with feet wet, noses blue and hands like lumps of ice, you feel sure that they are "in for a cold."

But the next time try Vicks. At bedtime rub this vaporizing salve well in over throat and chest and cover with a warm flannel cloth.

The body heat releases the ingredients—Menthol, Camphor, Eucalyptus, Juniper Tar, etc.—in the form of vapors, and these vapors go directly to the air passages, stimulating the mucous membrane to repel germ attacks.

At the same time Vicks increases the circulation of the blood through the chest region, thus helping to prevent any congestion developing.

If applied in time, Vicks will prevent many colds from getting a start and its use doesn't disturb the child's digestion as constant internal dosing is so apt to do.

CHEAP RATES TO OREGON THIS YEAR FROM MIDDLEWEST

PORTLAND, Feb. 5.—Important action intended to assist land colonization in western states has been taken by the Southern Pacific company in taking up with other western carriers associated in the trans-continental passenger association a proposition to place in effect home-seekers excursion fares from the middle west to points in California, Oregon, Nevada, New Mexico and Arizona. Announcement of the company's action was made today by J. H. R. Parsons, passenger traffic manager for the company. Southern Pacific proposed to the other carriers that the home-seekers fare for the round trip be fixed at the one way fare plus five dollars. The tickets to be sold on the first and third Tuesdays of each month from March to December inclusive for parties of 25 or more traveling together. Fifteen days would be the final return limit.

The rates, it is believed, if placed in effect will greatly encourage the movement of middle western people to the Pacific coast states for purposes of investigating the opportunities for land settlement, and the general conditions obtaining here. The 15 days' return limit will give the prospective colonists an opportunity to thoroughly acquaint themselves with land prices, character of land, living conditions, etc., before returning to their homes.

Sketch of Dr. Grayson Who Prolonged Life of Wilson Four Years

WASHINGTON, Feb. 5.—(By Associated Press). Many friends and confidants came into Woodrow Wilson's life after he entered the White House. Many also passed out. Of all those who came, two notably remained to his dying moment.

One was his physician, Rear Admiral Cary T. Grayson; the other was Bernard M. Baruch, the New York financier and counselor on the intricacies of post-war problems. Of the two Mr. Wilson's relationship with Dr. Grayson was the more personal. The bond between them was almost that between father and son.

Mr. Wilson's friendship for Mr. Baruch, although personal, also was sustained on the foundation of two minds that ran along together on common courses.

Grayson, the confidant and friend of two presidents before Wilson, brought to his chief touches of nature which many declared were not part of Mr. Wilson's natural equipment. Nevertheless, it was a profound respect for those attributes which grew into close friendship and companionship.

Mr. Grayson is the son of a Virginia country doctor, orphaned early in life, who took his hard knocks while getting an education. From his father and from experience he probably inherited the innately human conceptions of nature itself, as only the old country style doctor acquires them and these he brought to Woodrow Wilson.

The public mind most associated with this physician about whom it has heard much with the illness and death of Mr. Wilson. But long before Woodrow Wilson was heard of as a presidential possibility, Dr. Grayson was a naval officer attached to the White House as a physician to President Roosevelt. Because he knew something about human nature, birds, trees and animals, particularly horses, he was not long in becoming Colonel Roosevelt's aide and companion.

The American people were thrilled when President Roosevelt, just to show some army officers that he asked of no one something he himself would not do, made his famous ninety mile horseback ride from Washington and Warrenton and back in a cold, sleety rain that froze as it fell. Nobody mentioned that Dr. Grayson rode every foot of the way at his chief's side and sometimes guided the president's horse when Roosevelt's spectacles were coated with ice.

President Roosevelt turned Grayson over to President Taft with a recommendation of loyalty and he won Mrs. Taft's heart with his sympathetic devotion to her delicate health.

Woodrow Wilson had never heard of Cary T. Grayson when he stepped into the White House on March 4, 1913. Inauguration day with its spectacle and splendor lured all the White House physicians but one from their fixed posts. Grayson remained on duty. The first Mrs. Wilson, as she stepped through the White House portals met with an unimportant but painful accident, there was a call for a doctor, answered immediately by Grayson.

Mrs. Wilson commended to her husband this modest young man, who seemed so devoted to duty. He became Mr. Wilson's aide and physician and as the years went on, his friend. No political wires were pulled; no influences figured in the disposition of one of the most coveted posts in Washington.

A little more than a year later, one hot August afternoon, with a world war bursting into flame, the first Mrs. Wilson lay on her deathbed. Her last words to Grayson were: "Take good care of Woodrow. Promise!" How well that promise was kept probably only a recording angel may know.

Some time after Mrs. Wilson's death Dr. Grayson introduced to Miss Helen Woodrow Bones, President Wilson's kinswoman, guest at the White House, a friend of long acquaintance, Mrs. Edith Bolling Galt.

Miss Bones took her into the small White House circle where Mr. Wilson met her. Mrs. Galt became Mrs. Woodrow Wilson.

Some time after that President Wilson on re-appointment of Secretary forbans visit Crater Lake than visit Rainier.

Crater Lake also enjoys the distinction of having by far the largest attendance of people by auto than any other national park, last year's percentage was 98 by auto and two by train at the lake.

The Kiwanis club agreed to join the other organizations in preparing to royally entertain the guests who visit Medford.

The announcement that Frost Expert Young would have charge of the work here again this year was greeted with hearty applause. Medford and this valley appreciate his splendid work in the years past and will welcome him again.

S. Sumpter Smith was given the honors, furnished by the Medford Iron Works, an auto parking light.

Short talks were made by H. D. Frobach, D. E. Harder and C. E. Gates.

ASK FOR VOTE ON $100,000 BONDS TO GRAVEL L. C. ROAD

Petitions are now in circulation asking for the macadamizing of the road from Eagle Point to Lake Creek, through a $100,000 bond issue, payable in 15 years, and subject to the will of the voters at the primary nominating election, to be held Friday, May 16. 1000 names are needed on the petitions.

Proponents of the propositions, advance the following arguments in its behalf:

The Lake Creek road is the heaviest traveled and the least improved road in the valley.

That it is a thoroughfare to the source of Medford's water supply, and will tap the Dead Indian Springs, Fish Lake, Lake o' the Woods, and other spots in high favor with tourists and campers.

That it will be valuable in the development of a new section, and aid farmers and stockmen now living in that vicinity.

The proposed road will run from Eagle Point to Lake Creek.

The county court returned today from its junket into Marion and Clackamas counties to study road and paving conditions before advertising for bids for the Rich-Medford highway, and a decision on the matter is expected this week.

A plan is now being advanced that the road between Medford and Jacksonville be planted to shade trees, to make it a beauty drive in years to come. In this connection, Miss Stella Levy of Jacksonville, a pioneer resident recalled Monday that 30 years ago, when she was working in the courthouse, a proposal was made to the county court to plant shade trees along the road, but was smothered in a stroke of economy.

Van R. Gilbert to Start Fish Market

Van R. Gilbert has leased a part of the Economy market and will begin next Monday arranging to install an up-to-date fish and oyster market.

The cold storage plant now in the market will also be utilized by Mr. Gilbert but will be entirely separate for the meat department. Mr. Gilbert expects to have the market open about February 20.

In thinking about Medford people, not fish, usually think of "Van," who ran a fish market here for nine years, selling out about three years ago, since which time he has been in the employ of Denny & Co., of this city, and Enders wholesale house of Ashland.

Dunkle of the navy department, nominated for Grayson for promotion to the grade of rear admiral. Grayson never knew he had been nominated for promotion until he read it in the newspapers. There was opposition somewhat like that which attended President Roosevelt's promotion of General Wood. It so offended Mr. Grayson's modesty that later, when he had an opportunity to become surgeon-general of the navy, he declined it.

He devoted seven years of his life to keeping Woodrow Wilson a well man and four more to keeping him alive.

When Mr. Wilson suffered his first stroke of paralysis after the return from his League of Nations speaking trip in 1919, Grayson of all the physicians called for consultation said he could prolong the patient's life. He did, more than four years, and lost his fight only when as Mr. Wilson himself said, "the old machine has broken down."

When Mr. Wilson went abroad to the peace conference he was not only Mr. Wilson's physician, but he was his eyes and his ears—his intelligent officer. Many European statesmen wonder where Mr. Wilson learned the intimate things he really came into possession of through his quiet, modest doctor.

Other persons who professed to wonder why they fell into presidential disfavor could learn the reasons why, could they induce Grayson to divulge some things Woodrow Wilson confided to him. Many things about which historians will wonder could be cleared up if Grayson would tell—but he won't.

Few people claim to have known Woodrow Wilson well, fewer still will claim to ever have glimpsed behind what they commonly agreed upon as "the curtain of impersonality," which veiled his inner nature.

His friend and physician is one who lived behind that curtain. Closest friends say that now is the first time they have known him to give way to the most human of emotions—the shedding of tears.

Radio News

The entire Opera "Carmen" was enjoyed by radio listeners last night, the opera being broadcast by the Los Angeles Examiner station K. F. L. The program came in very distinctly and clearly.

Radio fans are becoming more and more disgusted over the continued interference from local amateur wireless operators and a number of owners of sets are contemplating the framing of a city ordinance which will prohibit these amateurs from "hogging the air" practically twenty-one hours of the day.

Present regulations forbid amateurs operating between the hours of 8 and 10:30 at night. Last night's opera program was seriously interfered with after 10:30 as the program was not over until 11:30. How these amateurs can keep up with their school duties and also remain up every night of the week until midnight and after is a mystery—most of the local amateur operators are boys under 18 years of age.

Reception of programs from eastern stations, which usually come in best between five in the afternoon and eight o'clock is now largely a hit and miss proposition through this local interference.

HEAD STUFFED BY CATARRH OR COLD?

If your nostrils are clogged, your throat distressed, or your head is stuffed by nasty catarrh or a cold, apply a little pure, antiseptic, germ destroying cream into your nostrils. It penetrates through every air passage, soothing inflamed, swollen membranes, and you get instant relief.

How good it feels. Your nostrils are open. Your head is clear. No more hawking, snuffling, dryness or struggling for breath. Get a small bottle of Ely's Cream Balm from any druggist. Colds and catarrh yield like magic. Don't stay stuffed up. Relief is sure. Adv.

OREGON MOTHERS HAVE HEALTHY CHILDREN

Salem, Ore.—"During my first expectant period I was weak, nervous and all run-down. I had severe headaches, suffered with nausea, or sick stomach. I was so weak I could not do my work, but after taking Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription my health gradually improved, I became strong and felt fine. I had comparatively no suffering and my baby was very strong and healthy."

"When my daughter was growing into womanhood she caught cold. I gave her the 'Favorite Prescription' and it built her up in good health and completely regulated her condition so that she had no trouble, but grew naturally into womanhood."

To The Citizens of Medford:
To date considerably over half of the paving bonds have been paid off and retired, and of the remaining assessments the majority living in Medford are keeping up their assessments. Most of those who are delinquent are non-residents, people who left some years ago and all trace of them has been lost by the county and city authorities.

The city feels certain that they would pay up their assessments if they could be found. We are therefore publishing this advertisement to appeal to the citizens to give us any information possible as to the addresses of the people whose names are given in the following list.

Your cooperation in reading this list over and phoning or mailing the addresses of any person whom you know will do much toward enabling the city to straighten up the assessments on these properties and thereby lightening the burden upon all the resident taxpayers.
