The city police had a complicated affair to handle over the week end when a carload of transients stopped in the city. A man named Lindsay drove in with a car and with him was a white girl and two Mexican girls. The tales told by various members of the party were extremely conflicting and aroused the suspicions of the local officers who found that the man could be held on any number of charges. They stayed at a local boarding house over the week end but were requested to leave town today. Pending the investigation, the car was held here.—Grants Pass Courier.

MELLON TAX BILL IS ENDORSED BY MEDFORD KIWANIS

The Kiwanis club enjoyed a talk yesterday by Dr. Clarence W. Greene, president of Albany college. The doctor said there is a tremendous need in this country for live organizations like the Kiwanis club working with other civic organizations for the betterment of the nation and state and particularly the local communities. Dr. Greene said there are altogether too many students attending colleges today who are not able, after completing their education, to adjust themselves to circumstances and fill the places in life they should. He said a great deal of this is due to the parents of the boys and girls who allow them to grow up without having any definite duties to perform and without work which sets them of the necessary essentials to aid them in preparing for the battle of life. He said this was one of the reasons the Albany college requires every student who attends that college to earn a part or all of his or her own way through college.

The club passed a resolution to send to the Oregon senators and representatives endorsing the Mellon tax reduction plan and asking that they support the same.

The guests were: Dr. Clarence W. Greene, of the Albany club; W. L. Kaderley of Corvallis, and Harry White of the Salem club.

T. E. Daniels was the lucky member today receiving an auto trouble light. It was announced that the Rotarians and Kiwanis would have a joint meeting next Monday.

Wilson Service Christian Church Highly Appreciated

With the subject of "The Idealism of Woodrow Wilson," D. J. Howe, pastor of the Christian church delivered a splendid memorial sermon Sunday evening that was highly appreciated by the audience. Mr. Howe brought out in a forceful and convincing way, the outstanding ideals of the war president from a non-political standpoint and said his service to his country will stand out as a bright spot in the annals of history in the years to come. The music consisted of patriotic hymns by the congregation, an anthem, "I Will Lift Up Mine Eyes," by the choir and a selection, "Our Country's Call," by the male quartet consisting of Messrs. McDonough, Olin, Seagull and Kirkpatrick.

INTERESTING NEW DATA SECURED FOR FARM CONFERENCE

Outside of those identified with the executive work of the economic agricultural conference that will be held in Jackson county next week, it is impossible to realize the detailed information that is being assembled so that the various groups may have facts and figures relating to agriculture before them.

The horticultural group committee have been busy for several days and have information available that never before has been segregated. The poultrymen, the dairymen, the livestock men as well as those interested in land settlement have prepared tentative programs which show that an intelligent consideration will be given to each subject. The real estate men have organized into an association in order that they may effectively carry out the provisions of the land settlement group recommendations and the community generally is alive to the fact that if Jackson county is to prosper and have more settlers every farm, civic, governmental and commercial association as well as each individual in the county must work together for a constructive purpose.
