WOMEN BUSY IN MAKING COUNTY KITCHEN SURVEY

The home demonstration's office was a busy place this morning when a committee of women were engaged in compiling the results of a kitchen survey that has recently been started in the county. This survey already covers approximately 150 farm homes, and as a result it will be easy to tell what percentage of that number have many, few or no conveniences. From this information the women hope to formulate resolutions showing the most pressing needs of the farm homes in this vicinity. The committee consisting of Misses Hanley and Teich, Messdames John Gammill, H. F. Whitstone, W. Barnes Smith, Wm. Warner and A. T. Lathrop, hopes to finish the survey during the month.

There are many people who still need educating on the fact that the whole success of the farm enterprise centers in the home. If the mother is unable to attend to her multitudinous duties the health and welfare of the whole family suffers, and consequently the success of the farm work is imperilled. The most important crop of the farm is the children, and the best solution of the problem of keeping the children on the farm is to provide a home where they can have some of the modern conveniences of life, which not only take the drudgery out of life, but allow time for rest, recreation and mental improvement.

The committee, also asks the cooperation of other committees and clubs in correcting the abuse of using our country roads as a dumping ground.

CONFERENCE MEN TO BE FORUM SPEAKERS

At the forum of the Medford Chamber of Commerce next Wednesday all of the representatives attending the economic conference from the Oregon Agricultural college, the Portland and State Chamber of Commerce and the Land Settlement commission will be guests.

No speaker has been selected, but with the array of talent there will be among the guests the members of the chamber will be assured of a good program.

These visitors will be in Medford to assist the farmers and fruitgrowers in the formulation of a program which will help them to attain a greater degree of success. Attendance at this forum will show an appreciation of their efforts.
