The election held here Saturday afternoon by the taxpayers of this district to issue bonds for $7500 for the purpose of building a gymnasium on the school grounds resulted in 61 votes in favor of it and 51 against," says the Jacksonville Post. "It appears that nearly all who voted against the proposition were in favor of fixing up the old U. S. hotel for a gymnasium, which they claim could be done at an expense not to exceed $1000 and which could be used jointly with the town for various purposes that public halls are used for. The building, which will be one-story concrete, 60x280 feet in size, will be built on the grounds just west of the schoolhouse. Construction is expected to start about March 15th."

The Oregon Emerald, official student body publication of the University of Oregon, in commenting on the last game the Oregon fresh played on their recent southern tour, says: "The university men could not get going in the last game and dropped it after a hard fight to the Ashland high school five. Ashland has the weakest team of the three played, and has been defeated by both Medford and Roseburg in the district elimination. They had the Indian sign on the frock, however, that night and took them down the line to a 30 to 26 score in a very loosely played game."

The Home of Bread Like Mother Made

It's not what you earn, but what you save that ultimately leads to financial independence—saving is just a matter of spending. Spend for necessities only eliminating non-essentials, and besides increasing your savings you will have more for the little added comforts and luxuries that really make life worth living.

The most expensive non-essentials are the service luxuries which from time to time have crept into the retail business. We cut them out here, pricing everything without those added costs appearing in the selling price. If you haven't already joined the vast number of housewives who "set a better table for less" come in Saturday. Our floor man is at your service to acquaint you with our store.
