Quite a number of patrons who walked into the public market this morning at first thought they were in the wrong place when they saw the big stove, nicely polished in position and burning. It is also rumored that the stove has a new lining inside. While the polished stove is a queer sight patrons of the market do not care what Superintendent Ruyard does with it so long as he refrains from again painting the counters, tables and other interior wood work.

Probable rain is the prediction for tomorrow's weather. Today was exceptionally clear and sunshiney, and Medford and vicinity has been enjoying good weather for several days past while much rain has been falling in western Oregon. The lowest temperature of early today was 36 degrees in Medford, but the minimum in the valley lowlands was so low that a white frost prevailed in those localities, which did no damage.

MY DAUGHTER WOULD CRY AT EVERYTHING

Nervous and Irritable. By Taking Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound Became Entirely Normal

Clinton, Wisconsin.—"My daughter was in a very run-down condition, and was irritable, and would cry at every little thing she was so weak and nervous. As Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound had helped me when I was a girl I gave it to her to build her up, and the results were all that we could wish for. I wish that every mother with growing girls would try it for these troubles girls often have. I had taken it myself before my girl was born, and she was one of the nicest babies any one could wish to have. I recommend the Vegetable Compound to women and girls and cannot praise it too highly."—Mrs. I. A. HOLIFORD, Box 48, Clinton, Wisconsin.

Mothers can depend upon Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound to relieve their daughters of those troubles they so often have. They know from experience the value of the Vegetable Compound in the treatment of these complaints and many, like Mrs. Holiford, give it to their daughters.

The farewell reception tendered by the congregation of the First Methodist Episcopal church from 8 to 10 o'clock last night in the church to Rev. and Mrs. J. R. Sannett was a very well attended and enjoyable affair with pretty floral decorations and light refreshments. O. C. Boags, speaking for all departments of the church made a good-bye address, and Rev. A. P. Lawrence did the same for the city ministerial association. Rev. Mr. Sannett responded graciously to these remarks and well wishes. Mrs. George Andrews and son rendered a song and Prof. James a violin selection. Mr. Sannett, who was the recipient of several gifts from the membership, will leave Friday for his new charge at Aberdeen, Wash., and Mrs. Sannett will remain until the condition of their daughter, which continues to improve daily, will enable her removal to Aberdeen.

thing and that he gave me the idea that he was in on it too."

O'Connell said that he then sought Sand, finding him on the baseball field during the pre-game practice.

"I went up to him and I said 'Sand, who are you fellows for?' Sand said 'we're not for anybody; we are finishing out the season.' I then told Sand that if he would not 'bear down' in that day's game it would be worth $500 to him, and he said he wouldn't do it and walked away. 'Nothing doing,' Sand said."

O'Connell said he then reported to Dolan in the dugout the result of his conversation with Sand whereupon the coach told him to "forget it."

SAN FRANCISCO, Oct. 2.—(By the Associated Press.)—The baseball fans of the Pacific league and San Francisco's sporting world had not recovered today from their astonishment upon learning last night that Jimmy O'Connell of the New York Giants had been suspended by Commissioner Landis following his alleged attempt to bribe Henie Sand of the Philadelphia National league club to throw a ball game on September 27. To the men who know O'Connell, it seemed impossible that he had done such a thing and many persons flatly refused to believe the story.

The news of O'Connell's suspension went through the streets of San Francisco from lip to lip. It is doubtful whether any Pacific coast baseball player was ever thought more of than Jimmy O'Connell. A demon at the bat and one of the fastest runners in the Pacific Coast league, O'Connell was the idol of the fans. When he was sold in 1921 for $75,000, fans on the coast predicted he would make a great success in the big leagues.

Charles Graham, one of the three owners of the San Francisco Seals, from which team the Giants bought O'Connell, said he could not conceive of the player offering a bribe.

"What could the boy have been thinking of," Graham said when informed that O'Connell had been suspended. "I do not think that he would do such a thing, it's unbelievable."

Del Howard, manager of the Oakland baseball team of the Pacific Coast league said that it is hard to believe. "I have known O'Connell for some time," he continued, "and it seems hard to credit the story. This means that he is ruined as far as baseball is concerned. He will probably meet the same fate as the members of the 1919 'Chicago White Sox.'"

San Franciscans were today eagerly awaiting more news of Commissioner Landis' investigation and until this is received they will withhold their final decision.

NEW YORK, Oct. 2.—(By the Associated Press.) As preparations were being made to receive baseball, prodigious of the nation, into the hearts of the people, a new scandal has been revealed, the ultimate effects of which cannot be estimated. Commissioner Landis, who announced last night that Jimmy O'Connell and Cozy Dolan of the Giants had been declared ineligible for attempted bribery, will continue his investigations in Washington today in an effort to discover who put the $500 into the hands of the substitute outfielder, who originated the scheme now credited to Dolan, and to what extent it was practiced during the season.

Baseball Fans Shocked

People over the length and breadth of the land who yesterday forgot business and politics and ordinary affairs of life to rejoice with the national capital as it returned its heroes, people who had been prepared for a real celebration at the new baptism of popular approval of the national game today try to understand the circumstances of the situation sketchily presented by Commissioner Landis in his announcement.

Henie Sand, Philadelphia shortstop, looms as the hero in baseball's latest family tragedy. The commissioner acted upon information furnished by Sand who charged that O'Connell had offered $500 to him to "throw" the game between the Giants and the Phillies on September 27. New York won the contest 5 to 1, and clinched the pennant.

O'Connell, called before the commissioner, President Heydler of the National league, and John McGraw, manager of the Giants, confessed to offering the bribe and implicated Cozy Dolan, coach of the team, Captain Frank Frisch, George Kelly and Ross Young, the latter trio composing the backbone of the team.

Giants Coach Involved

Frisch, Kelly and Young were completely absolved by the commissioner following a hearing, but Dolan, whose testimony in favor of himself "was of such a nature as to be unacceptable," the commissioner said, was blamed as the man who instigated the plot.

Immediately after announcing the story to the Associated Press in New York City, Commissioner Landis accompanied by his wife, left for Washington to take over supervision of details of the world's series which is now expected to be played in an atmosphere whose drama can only be guessed.

Captain Frank Frisch was the only Giant remotely involved who could be reached for a statement:

"I was dumfounded when called before Commissioner Landis," Frisch said. "I hope the whole matter will be sifted to the bottom and that if any player has been guilty of wrong doing he will be properly punished."

Dolan, to whom present implication points the most severe finger, has been a base running coach for McGraw since 1921. He was formerly an infielder on the Phillies, Pirates, Reds, Cardinals and Yankees, and has been playing professional ball for the last twenty of his thirty-seven years.

The last blow has landed most heavily in the Pacific coast where Jimmy O'Connell, $75,000 "beauty" purchased by New York in 1921, occupied the same relative position in public esteem that Babe Ruth now holds in the national field.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 2.—Commissioner Landis upon his arrival here today said that he had nothing to add to his statement given out in New York last night concerning bribery charges placed against players of the New York Giants.

Mr. Landis indicated he did not have any immediate plans so far as further steps in his investigation of the scandal were concerned. He would not discuss whether Jimmy O'Connell had volunteered any information as to the source of the currency he had in hand.

Dumbbells Net Crooks

NEW YORK, Oct. 2.—John J. McGraw, manager of the New York Giants, after a meeting of the team this morning said he did not think that either Dolan or O'Connell was "vicious," or that either had any connection with a gambling ring.

"They were dumb," McGraw declared.

"I cannot understand why these two men did what they did," McGraw continued. "When the chances were 100 to 1 that New York would win the pennant. The only explanation I can give is that they are a couple of saps. If you search the country over you probably couldn't find two bigger ones."

O'Connell attended the meeting of the club, held at the Polo grounds, but Dolan was not there. McGraw announced that both would be banned as soon as he had received official notice of Commissioner Landis' decision. This was taken to mean that O'Connell probably would leave for Washington with the Giants this afternoon.

Francis X. McQuaid, treasurer of the Giants, said he believed O'Connell had implicated Kelly, Frisch and Young because he (O'Connell) realized he was "in bad" and had tried to put part of the blame on the others.

McGraw said that Frisch, Young and Kelly had denied any implication in the attempted bribery. Frisch, McGraw said, would start the opening game of the series at second base and Kelly probably would be used at first. Frisch was out of the closing game of the season because of an injured finger.

"The attitude of the players toward O'Connell this morning," McGraw asserted, "seemed to be one of sympathy rather than resentment. At the meeting I tried to pep the boys up so that the incident would have no effect on the series, but of course, I cannot tell to what effect the effect of this if any on the public."

McGraw explained that the affair was entirely out of the hands of the New York club, having been taken over by Commissioner Landis who had made his decision.

The Giant officials, the manager said, had co-operated with the commissioner in the inquiry.

Dolan Denies It

"I had nothing to do with this thing," said Dolan at his home. "I got my notice today that I have been placed on the ineligible list but I was tipped off last night that I was to get it and it certainly knocked me cold."

"I know of no reason why O'Connell should accuse me of having inspired the attempted bribery," Dolan said he was not trying to cover up anyone else.

"I wouldn't cover up anybody in a thing like this," Dolan asserted. "No one can point to a dishonest thing I ever did in baseball or out of it."

"I want my friends to know this. I want them to know that I am innocent. I'm being made a goat of, too."

Young declared that so far as he was concerned there was "nothing to this thing at all," and that he had "absolutely nothing" to do with it.
