

SLUSH FUND IS AGAIN SUBJECT FOR LA FOLLETTE

Fighting Bob Reiterates Corruption Charges and Urges Michigan to Re-elect Senator Couzens — Supreme Court Views Defended.

DETROIT, Oct. 10.—Refreshed by an over-night rest here, Senator Robert M. LaFollette carried his campaign for the presidency into Ohio today, leaving for Cincinnati where he speaks tonight.

The independent candidate's address here last night was his first in the middle-west. This audience, the largest he has greeted since he again cheered as he outlined his policies, assailed the republican party which he declared was not confining itself to the raising of a "slush fund" to save its candidate from "utter defeat," and commended Senator Couzens, who is running for re-election in Michigan as a republican.

Mr. LaFollette also recalled the Newberry case, asserted that his proposal to curtail the powers of the supreme court was being misrepresented and declared that if he were president he would not be willing to have a drop of American blood shed to protect investments of American millionaires in other countries.

Reiterating his "slush fund" charge Mr. LaFollette said:

"The use of money in doubtful states is only one of the methods by which the republican national committee and its financial supporters are striving to save their candidate from utter defeat. Far more insidious, far more corrupt in its ultimate social consequences is the use of the financial and economic power of business interests to intimidate and coerce citizens who are giving their support to the progressive ticket. This pro-sure is being brought to bear upon businessmen, home owners, borrowers, and employees—upon every class of citizen whose economic position enables these powerful interests to apply the thumb-screw."

With reference to his attitude toward the power of the supreme court about which he declared "there has been widespread misrepresentations," Senator LaFollette said:

"The progressives propose merely to submit a constitutional amendment, at some future date, and after opportunity for adequate public consideration, which shall answer the question: Shall the people rule thru their elected representatives or shall they be ruled by a bare majority of the supreme court? The proposed amendment will not deprive the supreme court of any power whatever specifically conferred upon it by the constitution of the United States."

"The false statement also is being spread that this proposed amendment, if adopted, would deprive the supreme court of power to pass on the constitutionality of acts of state legislatures and that it would imperil fundamental rights, such as are involved in the Oregon school case and the Nebraska case."

"I say that statement is false. The proposed constitutional amendment will not in any way affect the power of the supreme court except as related to acts of congress. It will not in any way restrict the power of the court to pass upon the acts of state legislatures."

"Thus it is that with false propaganda and the use of money in huge sums, in doubtful states, the reactionary interests propose to secure this election for their favorite candidates."

positive, but was depending purely upon hearsay and gossip."

He left her, he said, and had the matter before Samuel Underbeiler, a Cleveland broker. He and Underbeiler called on Miss Stinson. Underbeiler told her that she had no "possible proof of guilt of Harry M. Daugherty," and warned her that if she persisted in her plan he would "have her locked up for malicious slander of a government official."

Believing this incident had blocked Miss Stinson's plans, Fink said he returned to Buffalo, mentioning the affair only to his attorney, Henry Stern. On March 18, however, Mr. Stern informed Fink that a federal warrant charging conspiracy had been issued for him and said that Stern added:

"Upon my agreeing to have you go to Washington to testify against Daugherty this warrant will be withdrawn until you are safe in Washington, if you go at once."

Brookhart Called In

Fink, the affidavit said, went to Washington the following day, accompanied by Stern and called upon Senator Brookhart, who, upon hearing Stern's information, called in Senator Wheeler.

"At last we have got something to go on," the affidavit quoted Senator Wheeler. Wheeler then told Fink the affidavit continued, that Wheeler wanted him to go to Columbus and bring Miss Stinson to Washington, but the Buffalo man refused. Wheeler then handed him a subpoena and informed he was in the service of the committee and instructed him to bring Miss Stinson to Washington.

Senator Wheeler, Stern and Fink left for Columbus that night. Fink loaning Senator Wheeler $100 to defray part of the expenses, the affidavit went on. Arriving at Miss Stinson's home, Fink declared Senator Wheeler ordered him to serve the subpoena.

"I went in and handed it to her," the affidavit read, "and she said: 'Why Zander, you have certainly got me into an awful mess; you know I don't know anything, just as I told Underbeiler.'"

Fink told her, he declared, that he had "been forced into it," and called Senator Wheeler, who, he said, persuaded Miss Stinson to go with them to Washington.

On the trip to Washington, Fink said, Senator Wheeler spent much time talking with Miss Stinson, going to the smoking compartment once to tell Stern and Fink that "this woman doesn't know anything; I can't get her to loosen up."

Liquor Is Served

Senator Wheeler, according to the affidavit, instructed Fink to obtain some liquor at Pittsburgh where the party took dinner dining a stop-over. This was served at the dinner and after continued persuasion of Miss Stinson, said the affidavit, Senator Wheeler finally informed Stern and Fink that he had better take her before the committee at once.

After reciting an alleged promise by the senator to have Fink appointed revenue collector "if I would go along with his plan to oust Daugherty from office," and the alleged promise of a judgeship to Stern, the affidavit continued:

"He also promised Miss Stinson that if she would play the game as he wanted her to he would form a deal among his Democratic senatorial friends and give me the money to go to New York and sell the market short in advance of the news of Daugherty's resignation, which he would immediately force and Miss Stinson would receive 25 per cent of the profits of this pool."

Terms Charges Absurd

SACRAMENTO, Cal., Oct. 10.—Senator Wheeler of Montana, independent vice-presidential candidate, and "prosecutor" of the senate Daugherty investigating committee, was informed last night that A. L. Fink of Buffalo had issued an affidavit charging him with offering inducements to get testimony in that affair, particularly from Miss Roxie Stinson. He promptly issued a denial.

"Fink's story is so preposterous on the fact of it that it needs no reply," Senator Wheeler said. "Of course, it is absolutely false. It is chiefly important in showing the length to which Harry Daugherty and the republican cohorts are willing to go and feel they must go with their endeavor to re-elect Calvin Coolidge."

"Just as one sample of its lily, I was investigating Daugherty and assailing the republican administration. How could it be possible for me, as a democrat, to get anyone appointed to office? Particularly, how in the world could I get Harry Daugherty himself to recommend anyone for the federal judgeship when he was the attorney general under fire?"

"Fink's affidavit says I was promising stock market profits to Miss Stinson. I know so little about the stock market that there never has been a day of my life when I could have given anybody an iota of worthwhile information."

"The fact was we knew at the time the investigation was proceeding that Fink was an agent of the people we were investigating, and we wouldn't let him stay in our committee hearing room."

PORTLAND, Ore., Oct. 10.—Hops quiet. New clusters 13 to 15; futures 15 1/2 to 17; old crop 10 1/2 to 12. Casaca bark quiet. New peel 7 1/2 to 8 1/2; old peel nominal. Oregon grape root four cents. Potatoes $1.10 to $1.15.
