

LEADER CHINA REVOLT FLEES MAY END WAR

TOKIO, Nov. 2.—(By the Associated Press.)—Wu Pei-Fu, the deposed Peking commander in chief, has fled, boarding a steamer near Tientsin for a destination unknown, but presumably Kiangsu province, where the tuchun, Chi Hsieh-Yuan, is believed to be loyal, according to a Kokusai dispatch from Tientsin.

PEKING, Nov. 2.—(By the Associated Press.)—General Wu Pei-Fu, former commander in chief of the Peking military forces, has fled to Tsung, on the Gulf of Chihli, about 30 miles from Tientsin. It is reported today at the headquarters here of Feng Yu-Hsiang, "the Christian general," now in control here.

This is regarded here as spelling the end of the present conflict between Wu Pei-Fu and Feng Yu-Hsiang. The only remaining troops to Peking are large bodies of men which are left without proper control.

TIENTSIN, Nov. 3.—(By the Associated Press.)—General Wu Pei-Fu, erstwhile military head of the Peking central Chinese government, who has been directing his troops in a campaign to defeat Feng Yu-Hsiang, the "Christian general," now in control at Peking, was said today to have left his train at the Tientsin central station from which he had issued orders to his men in the field.

General Wu was believed to be in the city, but some reports said he had secretly disappeared.

While the whereabouts of his commander in chief was uncertain, Wu's army at Yangtsun, twenty miles west of here, engaged the troops of the "Christian general" but were forced to fall back toward Peitsung. An allied military train bound for Peking from Tientsin on Sunday afternoon was fired upon as it passed through the battle lines.

Refugees from Chinwangtao, a city north of here, captured by the Manchurian troops of General Chang Tso-Lin, arrived here last night with tales of thrilling experiences. The sudden appearance of the Manchurian troops at Chinwangtao reorganized the Peking forces of General Wu. The Peking soldiers threw down their arms, discarded their uniforms and equipment and with their officers begged to be taken on ships to escape the enemy.

The foreigners said they embarked under rifle and machine gun fire of the invading Manchurian forces, but no casualties were reported among them. The Manchurian forces restored order in the city, the refugees said. Immediately after they had occupied it and dispersed the remnant of the Peking forces.

While the police commissioner of Tientsin is satisfied that he has the situation well in hand local disturbances continued yesterday. A number of Shensi province troops, opposed to General Wu, escaped from guarded trains at the Tientsin central station yesterday, but were rounded up and put back on the trains by the armed Chinese police. The police are now strongly guarding the Tientsin central and western stations with machine guns.

Additional Shensi troops arriving here by rail have been shunted down the Pukong railroad line in keeping with the policy to prevent rival forces from gathering here to make this city and its environs a battle ground.

REPUBLICANS CLAIM VICTORY

The entire republican state ticket will be elected without any question."

Dr. C. J. Smith, chairman of the democratic state central committee, gave out a statement claiming that Davis will carry Oregon, basing his prediction on reports which he said indicated 260,000 votes would be cast in the state, of which 100,000 would go to Davis, 90,000 to Coolidge and 70,000 to La Follette. Dr. Smith said his figures were based on reports from county chairmen and other sources. He said Davis' prospects in Oregon were growing brighter hourly.

Ernest Kroner, chairman of the La Follette campaign committee, said "the La Follette-Wheeler ticket will win Oregon by a plurality of not less than 15,000. I should not be astonished if our lead would be a figure that would now be hailed as impossible. The contest, of course, is between La Follette and Coolidge; the Davis vote will be insignificant. The increased registration represents La Follette voters."

Black, it was understood would be further acknowledged by Mr. Davis in his radio address tonight. Mr. Davis has repeatedly insisted that he would not exchange the check for twice the sum collected by Mr. Joseph R. Grundy for the republican campaign fund and has made it an outstanding feature of his closing campaign addresses. It is his intention to tell the nation about it before the curtain drops after his final appeal to the voters.

Scholarship Teachers Find Children of Rich Are Sometimes Undernourished

These boys take as much interest in preparing food as the girls and the lessons they are learning on its bearing on health will guide them in selecting their proper diet in the future

New York, N. Y.—The "poor little rich girl" is no character of movie romance, she is a real person. The poor little rich boy, her brother, is just as real. These two unfortunate children come from the families where wealth has been acquired recently, families known as the "new rich."

The youngsters are undernourished, in spite of the wealth of their parents. There is plenty for them to eat, but it is the wrong kind of food and their little bodies can not absorb health and growth from it. Thus they are no better off than the children in the poorest industrial districts, whose parents are too poor to buy the right kind of food.

This remarkable fact was revealed in a gathering of elementary school teachers, who have been studying this summer at Columbia University. They constitute about half of the fifty teachers from all parts of the country, who won the $500 scholarships given by the Metropolitan Life Insurance Company through the American Child Health Association. The awards were made for the best work done in a public school elementary grade room in teaching health through the school year.

The teachers were discussing the difficulty of securing the co-operation of parents in controlling the children's diet. Essential in the health habits, which are taught wherever health teaching exists, are the importance of nine hours sleep with open windows, the value of plenty of green vegetables in the diet, the strength-giving character of milk and the unhealthy results of tea and coffee drinking by children.

Securing Parents' Co-operation

Of the group of teachers present all but three said they had been successful, sooner or later in securing the co-operation of the parents, chiefly through the parent-teachers organization, but also through calling upon them individually at home. They said that the average mother, as soon as she understood the teachers were trying to form good health habits, was grateful and ready to help.

Of the three teachers, who didn't fare so well two came from districts so poor that most of the mothers went out to work. It was a hard struggle to get milk to feed to the undernourished youngsters at school and to make ends meet at home.

The third teacher taught in a school where the children were expensively dressed and every family lived in its own home. It was an expensive suburban district near a large city. The children had plenty of money to spend and spoiled their appetites with candy and soda. Most of them drank tea and coffee at home. They showed the same physical symptoms of malnutrition as the children of the impoverished districts.

When the teacher tried to interest the parents in the malnutrition cases, she received many rebuffs for her "interference," making this problem more difficult in some respects than the one in the poverty-stricken homes.

Wesleyan college, his alma mater, 75 years after his graduation. He also visited Holyoke college, which he had attended in his youth. The tour included a visit to New York, which the pioneer had not seen for more than 40 years. Hale and hearty as a man of half his years, and without a wrinkle on his face, the aged visitor spent an active week in the metropolis after meeting the heavy demands made upon him in Washington, where he had been welcomed by President Harding and many other high officials of the government as well as the house and senate.

Mr. Cole was born at Lond, N. Y., September 17, 1852. Completing his academic work, he studied law in the office of William H. Seward, who later became secretary of state under Lincoln. In 1879 he struck out for the far west, and with three companions "banned" gold with varying success until in famed Oregon Gulch they struck a rich pocket, one day's work on which netted them $1845. They were prompted to sell the claim for a song, however, when a mining camp rumor drifted in telling of better pickings elsewhere, but all lived to see the Oregon Gulch subsequently produce millions of dollars worth of coarse gold.

Years after this venture, Mr. Cole was one of a group of men who met in the law office of Collins E. Huntington and Mark Hopkins in Sacramento to organize the Central Pacific Railroad company. Later as a member of congress, he brought about the enactment of laws that made the building of the transcontinental railway possible.

When he was elected to the senate, however, he actively opposed a bill granting Goat Island in San Francisco bay to the Central Pacific as a terminal site, and thereby, he felt, incurred the enmity of his former friends and associates. To their opposition and that of the so-called whiskey ring, and national banking interests, which he had antagonized, he attributed his defeat for re-election.

Mr. Cole was married in 1853 to Miss Oliver Colgrove, who shared her husband's friendship for Abraham Lincoln. Mrs. Cole died in 1920 at the age of 87.

When Mr. Cole celebrated his 100th birthday, he sat in Los Angeles was thrown open to the public for a general reception. Surrounded by his children, grand-children, and great-grand children, and by nonagenarian friends of a lifetime, the former senator danced and frolicked the whole day through as though he had been a boy again.

Republican Ticket and Platform

The Jackson County Republican organization is composed of fifty-six precinct committeemen, an executive committee of eleven members, a women's advisory committee of eleven members, one woman member of the state executive committee, a state committeeman, a congressional committeeman, making a total of eighty-one members who are the lawfully constituted representatives of the republican party in Jackson county. These men and women believe in party government, party responsibility, and party discipline, for no political organization can long endure, nor can it be of any great force or effect in elevating our standards of public service unless it is willing to assume full responsibility for its acts and stands ready to enforce discipline and demand loyalty from the majority speaks. The organization is in politics only from the standpoint of better government.

The following resolution was unanimously adopted at our meeting on October 7th. It is both a pledge and a platform:

Under the election laws of the state of Oregon, a county committee is elected by the people at the primary at the same time the candidates are nominated, and this committee is given full authority to take charge of the campaign for election.

This committee is made responsible for the conduct of the campaign; it is empowered to levy assessments on the candidates and to otherwise raise funds for proper and legitimate campaign expenses. The powers of this committee, both by law and by implication, are almost unlimited. Therefore, be it

Resolved, that the Jackson County Republican Central Committee exercise in every just and reasonable way in this campaign the full powers given them by law.

Believing in party government and party responsibility, we therefore pledge to the people of Jackson county that if they see fit to elect our candidates on the 4th day of November, then this organization will get behind these county officers and encourage and support them in every way, so long as they conduct their respective offices in an able, economical and honest manner, and if they prove unworthy in the conduct of their offices, and should charges of inefficiency or dishonesty be preferred against any such officer and if upon investigation are found to be true, then this committee pledges the people of Jackson county that we will ask for the resignation of any such officer, and, if necessary, take steps to remove him.

Further, if these candidates are endorsed at the polls this fall, then this committee is resolved to see that harmony is brought into the court house at Jacksonville and that all of these officers pull together for efficiency in our county government, to the end that the burdens of the taxpayers may be relieved to as great an extent as possible.

We further pledge ourselves to see that unnecessary deputies, special police and other special officers and any unnecessary members of the clerical force not absolutely necessary for the efficiency conduct of county business, shall be cut off.

With this understanding and pledge we submit for the consideration of the voters of Jackson county our ticket nominated by the republicans in the May primaries:

- For Representatives 8th District—JOHN H. CARKIN, RALPH P. COWGILL
- For District Attorney—NEWTON C. CHANEY
- For County Judge—W. J. HARTZELL
- For County Commissioner—VICTOR BURSSELL
- For County Clerk—DELLIA STEVENS
- For Sheriff—J. J. McMAHON
- For Assessor—J. B. COLEMAN
- For School Superintendent—SUSANNA HONES CARTER
- For Treasurer—A. C. WALKER
- For Surveyor—RUFFITH COWGILL
- For Coroner—H. W. CONGER

Signed: JACKSON COUNTY REPUBLICAN COMMITTEE. Paid Adv.

T. G. BLIGH OF SALEM KILLED IN AUTO CRASH

SALEM, Ore., Nov. 2.—T. G. Bligh, Salem hotel man and capitalist, and an unidentified companion believed to have been a carpenter from Salem by the name of Davis, were instantly killed about noon today when the automobile in which they were returning from Seaside skidded on the highway near Grand Ronde and went over a bank.

Mr. Bligh had been to Seaside to supervise the work on a summer home he is building in which Davis was doing the carpenter work, and was supposedly bringing Davis back here for election day.

Bligh was the owner and operator of the Bligh hotel, Bligh theater and several residences and apartment properties in Salem, and was preparing to open a new hotel here at the time of his death.

TO MEDFORD VOTERS

Medford needs additional fire fighting equipment and your approval is asked for the purchase of an adequate motor driven pumper that will amply fill future requirements. Not only will such a pumper provide better facilities for fighting fire but it will also help in preventing an increase of insurance rates. If you believe in better fire protection vote 500 YES next Tuesday.

You are also asked to vote on enlarging the city limits to include a small section located near East Ninth Street in East Medford. The people in that district have petitioned to come into the city and we ask your favorable consideration of their request. Vote 502 YES if you favor this extension.

E. C. GADDIS, Mayor.
