24 SENATORS SEEK FOR RE-ELECTION VOTE TOMORROW

WASHINGTON, Nov. 3.—Should national life must be pleasant, at least the number of senators and representatives seeking re-election in November would indicate as much.

WHAT HAPPENS IF VOTERS FAIL TO MAKE A CHOICE

WASHINGTON, Nov. 3.—Congress-American voters, as some people predict, show such a diversity of preference at the polls Tuesday, November 4, that, after the final count of ballots, no presidential candidate will be able to muster a majority in the electoral college.

Voters Attention

It is important for the welfare of the city that the entire Citizens' and Businessmen's Ticket be elected. There are no contests in the first and fourth wards but the Fellis and other candidates in the second and third wards.

Democratic senators practically assured of another term, as they are unopposed in the coming election, are Harris, Georgia; Harrison, Mississippi; Tansell, Louisiana; Robinson, Arkansas; and Sheppard, Texas.

Republican senators who must fight for their seats are Borah, Idaho; Brookhart, Iowa; Bursum, New Mexico; Capper, Kansas; Cozens, Michigan; Edge, New Jersey; Keyes, New Hampshire; McNary, Oregon; Norris, Nebraska; Phipps, Colorado; and Warrane, Wyoming.

Democratic senators confronted with opposition are Glass, Virginia; Herfflin, Alabama; Simmons, North Carolina; Stanley, Kentucky; Walsh, Massachusetts; and Walsh, Montana.

Senator Johnson, farm-labor, Minnesota, is opposed by four candidates. Two candidates are contesting for the seat of the late Senator Colt, republican, Rhode Island.

Five senators were defeated for nomination in primary contests. They are Senators Shufeldt, Tennessee; and Dill, South Carolina, democrat; and Hall of Delaware, McCormick of Illinois, and Sterling of South Dakota, republicans.

In Colorado Senator Phipps, republican, seeking re-election, is opposed by Senator Adams, democrat, who, instead of seeking re-election for the unexpired term that he has been serving, has come out against Phipps for the full six year term.

Senator Walsh, of Massachusetts, is opposed by Speaker Gillett, who is retiring from the house next March. Among leaders in the senate who are opposed for re-election are Senators Walsh of Montana and Simmons of North Carolina.

Senator Lodge, of Massachusetts, the republican leader, is not up for re-election, having four years of his term remaining, while Senator Robinson, of Arkansas, the democrat leader, although up for re-election, is unopposed.

Senators La Follette, republican, and Wheeler, democrat, of Wisconsin and Montana respectively, also have several years of their terms remaining.

Two senators, Owen, democrat, Oklahoma, and Elkins, republican, West Virginia, are not seeking re-election.

COLDS THAT DEVELOP INTO PNEUMONIA

Chronic coughs and persistent colds lead to serious lung trouble. You can stop them now with Creomulsion, an emulsified creosote that is pleasant to take. Creomulsion is a new medical discovery with twofold action; it soothes and heals the inflamed membranes and kills the germ.

Of all known drugs, creosote is recognized by the medical fraternity as the greatest healing agency for the treatment of chronic coughs and colds and other forms of throat and lung troubles.

Those who contend that the election of a president will be forced upon the house point out that the representation in that branch of congress makes it possible for the vice-presidential choice of the senate to become president.

Should all state delegations follow party lines, the division in the house would be as follows: Five states, Maryland, Montana, Nebraska, New Hampshire and New Jersey, have equally divided delegations.

Republican states, not including Wisconsin, whose delegation is understood to favor the cause of the independent ticket, would be California, Colorado, Connecticut, Idaho, Maine, Michigan, Minnesota, Oregon, South Dakota, Vermont, Illinois, Indiana, Iowa, Kansas, Massachusetts, North Dakota, Ohio, Pennsylvania, Rhode Island, Utah, Washington, Wyoming.

Necessary for the choice of a president in the house is a vote of 25 states. It is argued that if representatives vote according to party affiliations, a deadlock would be sure to ensue.

In the senate, in balloting for vice-president, a majority of the whole number of senators is necessary for a choice, and there the balance of power is generally regarded as held by insurgents.

Woman 98 Years Old To Vote for Coolidge

WEST BOLSTON, Mass., Nov. 3.—Mrs. Emily W. Parker, who was 98 years old October 14, is in receipt of the following letter from President Coolidge: "White House, October 13, 1924. Dear Mrs. Parker: One of my friends in West Boylston has been good enough to send me a newspaper clipping telling the story of your registration and of your life interest in political affairs.

MR. BORDEN Here's Your Answer

In an eleventh-hour attack upon Newton C. Chaney, Republican candidate for District Attorney, the democratic committee published an inspired telegram which purports to discredit Mr. Chaney's record as a lawyer and his conduct as a citizen.

Judge Beall, of Texas, writes: "He discharged the duties of County Attorney with credit to himself and the county and was at all times found trustworthy and ethical in his profession. His convictions were better than 85 per cent of the cases tried."

Chief Justice Willson, Court of Civil Appeals, Texas: "Mr. Chaney has been at all times in good standing and trustworthy in his profession."

Bar Association, Hill County, Texas: "Mr. Chaney is from one of the sturdiest and best families in the state. His character and citizenship are beyond reproach."

Gov. Pat Neff, of Texas: "Mr. Chaney is known as a worthy gentleman and a reputable attorney who deserves the confidence of the people."

From one of the most prominent Federal Judges in Texas: "I am sure there is nothing in the life and record of Mr. Chaney as a citizen and county attorney but what if considered fairly would commend him to the right thinking people who desire an able official."

Judge Porter, 66th Judicial District, Texas: "I have had a splendid opportunity to observe the conduct and ability of Mr. Chaney as an attorney before this court for several years. His presentation of his cases were able and satisfactory, exemplifying the highest ethics and integrity. I have no hesitancy in commending the Hon. Newton C. Chaney for any position to which he may aspire, as he will be found true and efficient to any trust reposed in him."

Nothing to Conceal in Chaney's Record

Mr. Chaney resigned the county attorneyship of Mitchell County, Texas, in 1915, accepting a position under the United States Department of Agriculture as organizer and counsel for farmers' marketing associations, drawing legal papers for such associations and clubs until January, 1918.

In January, 1918, although exempt by reason of occupation and family, he enlisted in the army, serving for nearly two years and coming out of the service with the rank of lieutenant.

For the past four years he has been a resident and taxpayer of Southern Oregon, most of this time acting as federal officer. J. A. Linville, federal prohibition director, writes: "Newton C. Chaney has shown very efficient and energetic methods in his work and understands law thoroughly."
