ENGLAND OFFERS NEW SOLUTION OF PARIS DEBT

Great Britain Agrees to 10 Year Moratorium for France, Provided She Pays England Whatever She Pays United States.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 2.—(By Associated Press.) Officials here apparently see hopeful tendencies in the New Year dispatches from Great Britain regarding war debts, although they have received thus far no communication indicating the willingness of the British government to approve specifically indulgent terms for France.

When shown a story published in London, to the effect that Great Britain had assured the United States she would not stand in the way of a Franco-American settlement on terms more lenient than the Anglo-American agreement, high officials of the state department authorized the statement that no such assurance had reached Washington either officially or unofficially. At the same time the failure of the British foreign office to deny that such a suggestion might be forthcoming was noted with great interest.

A moratorium for France, which the London Morning Post indicates would be acceptable to Great Britain, coupled with an arrangement for payment which would take into account the special handicaps that beset French finances, might greatly advance the move toward a settlement between the United States and the government at Paris.

There never has been any indication here that the American government hoped to be the sole beneficiary from any payments made by France, though officials here have studiously avoided any public discussion of the British informal suggestion that Great Britain and the United States take share and share alike in such payments.

Coming on top of the British advances the announcement in France that "negotiations" actually are in progress for a Franco-American settlement was accepted as helping still further toward a solution.

POSTAL MEN ACCUSED OF USING CASH

Six Veteran Officials of Postal Service Suspended, Employee of Senate Postal Committee Discharged, House Clerk Resigns As Result of Using Money in Campaign.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 2.—Official investigation into the use of money to influence pending postal pay legislation has culminated in the suspension from duty of six veteran officials of the postal service, the discharge of an employee of the senate postal committee and the resignation of the clerk of the house postoffice committee.

All six of the officials, located in as many cities throughout the country, are members of the executive committee of the National Association of Postal Supervisors and held some of the most responsible positions in the service.

The suspended officials whose service averaged more than twenty years, are: Peter McGurty, acting superintendent of mails, New York City; James M. Greig, postal cashier, Boston; Peter Wiegler, acting postmaster, Detroit; Harvey M. Tittle, assistant postmaster, Springfield, Ohio; J. J. Fields, superintendent of mails, Louisville, and William Sansom, assistant superintendent of delivery, Chicago.

The report of postal inspectors, made public in a statement last night by Postmaster General New, charged that E. H. McDermot, the discharged assistant clerk of the senate committee, received $2600 to work for the interests of the supervisors' association and that Frederick C. Redesel, clerk of the house committee received "a gift" of $1000 from the association. Redesel resigned.

The inspectors' report which gave a circumstantial story of the negotiations between McDermot and postal officials resulting in the money payment, was based on an investigation undertaken after the department of justice had found that technically no law had been violated in the transactions. The facts in connection with the justice department's investigation were revealed for the first time in the postmaster general's statement.
