A steamship company made $9,000,000 (approx.) and failed to mention it in their income tax report. This slight oversight failed to arouse testimony before the senate showed, as the hell-for-accuracy officials where pursuing with grim ferocity, humble citizens who owed $4.69, and remitted $4.70, to make even change.

FLOYD COLLINS' CAVE O, they say he is buried as deep as can be. And the shovels thud down on the city clay. O, Floyd Collins slid to a hole in the hill. And he's buried that far from the gold of the day.

And that's moaning—a moaning Back in the cave. Floyd Collins' cavern is Floyd Collins' grave! Floyd rather crawl to the gateway of hell Than work with his pa who loved him so well— Down in the earth that was fairies and elves. And they told him secrets that he wouldn't tell. What's best beyond, in turn of the slide— That in the damp whar the cave crickets hide? Less' go and see, Floyd, less' go and see— And they left him to sleep in the tomb whar he died.

And that's moaning—a moaning Back in the cave. Floyd Collins' palace is Floyd Collins' grave! Yay! And he found it—a silver lid half further than Ely's and under a wall. Big diamond boulders that dripped with gold. For fire torches and that wasn't all. Nobody ever saw Floyd's cave before. Nobody crawls in the hole any more; Floyd in his deep palace rules the one door.

And that's angels a-singing Fur in the cave— Floyd Collins' heaven is Floyd Collins' grave! (Chicago Tribune.)

MARS GETS A HARD BLOW.

LD MAN MARS can find little solace in the settlement of the historic Taena-Arica dispute by President Coolidge today.

For here one finds a fertile field for war, which has been barren for over thirty years, and is finally decided by the decision of one man, without the firing of a gun.

It would be incorrect to find in this victory for arbitration a complete refutation of the claim that might determines right in the conflict of international ambitions. For if Chile had felt free to act there is little doubt that with her superior military strength, she would have taken what she wanted many years ago.

But even back in 1883, the United States took a keen interest in the South American controversy, and James G. Blaine, when secretary of state, sent a special mission to keep an eye on the Peruvian situation. While this action did not determine the result, it did restrain the Chilean military ardor considerably,—and the deciding factor was might,—the might of the United States.

The seed planted then was forced into fruition by the World War, which in spite of the cynics, did more to shatter Mars' prestige than any event in human history. While the feeling became more and more intense, both countries realized, and Chile particularly, that the country responsible for war, regardless of the result, would be the country to suffer in the final settlement.

So in 1922, the situation was brought to the attention of the United States, and this country invited representatives from Peru and Chile to meet in Washington, and draw up a plan for peaceful adjudication.

This was done. And for the first time in modern history an important dispute between two nations, was left for the ruler of another nation to decide. This plan was a marvellous compliment to the United States, and the final outcome is the strongest evidence yet produced that a will to power through war can be supplanted by a will to peace, through arbitration.

PAY DAY.

IT'S FINE to draw one's weekly pay, and count the silver wheels, the bundle toiled for day by day—how opulent one feels! It's good to view the shining seeds and know that you may buy with these bright dollars of our dads, the things for which you sigh. If debts are paid the money's yours, to blow in as you will to spend for hats or dandruff cures, or oatmeal from the mill. The money's yours to purchase dyes with which to stain the town, and make it red—but if you're wise you'll salt some kopecks down. But oh, it is a grievous thing to draw your hard-earned pay, and know that coin must wing its speedy flight away. The creditors are at your gate, with bills of boary age; on painful subjects they orate, and they demand your wage. You owe for the Angora cat you bought from Gaffer Wade; your wife must wear an ancient hat until that bill is paid. You went in debt with headlong speed for gun and pointer pup; the kids can't have the clothes they need until you square things up. The wise man's maxim, rede and saw all recklessly you spurned; now every dollar bill you draw is spent before it's earned. Dead horses! Paying for such steeds takes all life's joy away; the weary debtor's bosom bleeds when he draws down his pay.

Poems That Live

Stanzas from In Memoriam. I envy not in any mood The captive void of noble rage, The insect born within the cage, That never knows the summer woods! I envy not the beast that takes His license in the fields of time, Unfettered by the sense of crime, To whom a conscience never wakes; Nor what may count itself as blest, The heart that never pledged truth, But stammers in the words of sloth; Nor any want begotten rest. I hold it true, what'er befall: I feel it when I sorrow most; 'Tis better to have loved and lost Than never to have loved at all. —Tennyson.

COMMUNICATIONS

Editorial is Commended. To the Editor: Your article about the movie people (actors and actresses) is well taken and very true. From the time of James and Richard Burbage actors with Shakespeare, to Edwin Booth, have I believe, used the names they were born and christened with. The exception is modern and as Shakespeare says (himself an actor) shows a pitiful ambition in the fool that uses it. Thomas Betterton, David Garrick (the greatest of them all probably) the Kembles, MacCreedy, Phelps, Brooks, Edmund Keen (who holds Garrick's pretty level) Forrest, Adams, etc., the women also, Mrs. Pritchard, Sarah Siddons, Mitchell (Maggie) Rehan, Charlotte Cushman (the greatest Lady Macbeth), Helena Modjeska et al. At best Fairbanks is but an acrobatic pantomimist and this man Warfield (I forget his Jewish cognomen) should have stuck to the "Auctioneer" and "Music Master." He doesn't understand Shakespeare. Yours, J. D. STEVENS. Portland, March 7.

French Jockey and Racing Trainers Are For Blue Sabbath

MAISON LA FITTE, France, March 7.—(Profanation of the Sabbath by mundane pleasures was denounced from the pulpit of the English church here yesterday in a sermon by Jack Jennings, one of France's most celebrated jockeys. COLDS THAT DEVELOP INTO PNEUMONIA

Chronic coughs and persistent colds lead to serious lung trouble. You can stop them now with Creomulsion, an emulsified creosote that is pleasant to take. Creomulsion is a new medical discovery with twofold action; it soothes and heals the inflamed membranes and kills the germ. Of all known drugs, creosote is recognized by the medical fraternity as the greatest healing agency for the treatment of chronic coughs and colds and other forms of throat and lung troubles. Creomulsion contains, in addition to creosote, other healing elements which soothe and heal the inflamed membranes and stop the irritation and inflammation, while the creosote goes on to the stomach, is absorbed into the blood, attacks the seat of the trouble and destroys the germs that lead to consumption. Creomulsion is guaranteed satisfactory in the treatment of chronic coughs and colds, bronchial asthma, catarrhal bronchitis and other forms of throat and lung diseases, and is excellent for building up the system after colds or the flu. Money refunded if any cough or cold no matter of how long standing. Is not relieved after taking according to directions. Ask your druggist. Creomulsion Co., Atlanta, Ga. (Adv.)

CROSS-WORD PUZZLE STORY

Here is Juno. Do you want to meet 1-2-3? She is a 2-7-15-20-28-35-39-41. Maybe she will take you for a 3-8-16-21 if you climb up 5-11 her back. Her keeper's name is 4-5, the poor Indian. He will tell you that she is very timid and she is as 6-13-19-27-34-38 of mice as you are of 4-10-17-23-29.

If you want to make friends with Juno you must get a bag of 20-21-22-23-24-25-26 to 13-14-15-16 her. She has a great 7-8-9-10-11-12 for them you know. She uses her long nose to 29-30-31-32-33 water 24-30 on her back when she wants a bath. It is called a 25-31-37-40-42. Juno came all the way from India to the 18-26-32, so she needed it, don't you think? 35-36 she's had to travel so far!

Personal Health Service

By WILLIAM BRADY, M. D. Signed letters pertaining to personal health and hygiene, not to disease diagnosis or treatment, will be answered by Dr. Brady if a stamped, self addressed envelope is enclosed. Letters should be brief and written in ink. Owing to the large number of letters received, only a few can be answered here. No reply can be made to queries not conforming to instructions Address Dr. William Brady, in care of this newspaper.

Ethmoid Headache The ethmoid (sieve like) bone is a little bone in the floor of the skull between the eye sockets. The ethmoid cells (sinuses) are a series of filtering air spaces in the ethmoid bone which communicate, as do the other nasal sinuses, with the nasal cavity and are lined with the same mucous membrane. Acute and chronic inflammations of the ethmoid cells are much more frequent than even the doctors formerly supposed, and in many cases of chronic ethmoiditis, suppuration within the cells, no diagnosis or a wrong diagnosis is still made, with consequently futile treatment, for want of a proper examination. Among the conditions for which chronic purulent or suppurating ethmoiditis is mistaken are bronchial asthma, neuralgia, eye trouble, and chronic headache.

inspection of the drainage opening of the sinus, (2) corroborative evidence in the X-ray picture in many cases. Ethmoiditis is not rarely the underlying cause and source of chronic middle ear suppuration. Ethmoid headache is surgical headache, also many cases of acute ethmoiditis proceed to complete recovery without surgical intervention.

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS Q. The word "er" is not your invention, sir. It is the first syllable of the word krimon or erhuen, spell it as you prefer, which is the word for cold in head, nose and throat, coryza, in an ancient Norwegian dialect. Crimen is pronounced erremen. So, you see, you only Americanized an old word, after all. (Mrs. F. C. P.)

A. Answer.—Thanks for the information. It is glad to know that the new word comes natural. But I didn't get it from the Nordic. I just used the initial letters of the rather cumbersome phrase, common respiratory infections. If we can popularize the word "er" for use instead of the obsolete term "cold," we will make a lot of people realize the absurdity and the harm in the superstition that cold has anything to do with these most prevalent and costly respiratory infections. If you don't know just what you are coming down with, don't try to kid yourself or other people that you have "just a cold." Be honest and call it the "er," pronounced kree. Say, "I guess I have caught 'er" if you like, for that is the truth so far as you can tell yet. Whatever one of the acute or chronic respiratory infections your "er" turns out to be—and at the outset not the most efficient health officer or physician can tell, as a rule—by calling it "er" you've played fair. If you insist that it is just a "cold" you probably reserve, consciously or unconsciously, the right to pass it along to any and every wretch who may be so unfortunate as to come within your conversational spray range (five feet). Call it "er" and give everybody fair warning, even if you do not believe it is your duty to isolate yourself at the very beginning of such an illness or, as it may prove in your case, an indisposition. Old fogey physicians and politically thoughtful health officers who still lend support to the popular conception of "cold" are—well, they're what I just called "er."

Smoking Please advise me if you consider smoking injurious to one's health. If not, which is best to smoke, and about how often or how many times a day.—cigar, pipe or cigaret? (M. S. N.)

A. Answer.—Depends on whether one is a man, woman, or child. Full grown men may smoke moderate without suffering any injury to health. Moderately means one or two smokes after the day's work or play is over. Women whose education and development are completed may perhaps smoke moderately, too, without injury to health—but they don't. When a woman gets the tobacco habit she has it only a short time before the habit has her, and she goes to excess. What to smoke is a matter of individual taste.

JUNIOR CROSS WORD PUZZLE

The words start in the numbered squares and run either across or down. Only one letter is placed in each white square. If the proper words are found each combination of letters in the white squares will form words. The key to the puzzle—the first word—is given in the drawing. Below are keys to the other words.

- Running Across Word 1. A deep, yawning abyss, such as is shown in the picture. Word 2. The objective and possessive case of the pronoun "she." Word 3. Opposite of over. Word 4. A grain. Word 5. A direction. Running Down Word 1. Used in making butter. Word 2. A barnyard fowl. Word 3. Eagerness, zeal, fervor. Word 4. Emergence. Word 7. What you do when you are hungry.
