There will be no change in the pastorate here, but Rev. Phelps will remain for the coming year. (Summit News, Corvallis Gazette-Times.) They are saving the change for the next evangelist.

In the guesing of the Governor and Grand Lecturer, now underway, no mention is made of his betrayal of the Republican party of Oregon. At the time the GOP was crazier than a goodlooking murderer.

The next time there is a lull in the local crisis crop, a campaign should be launched for the city manager form of government, with a red-hot efficiency engineer.

The barbaric ruthlessness of the Administration economy policy is revealed again. Hundreds of children frolic on the White House lawn Monday, but the cool, cold, cautious, callous Cal kept his nose to the governmental grindstone—he stays at his desk—there is work to be done. The nation would not have slipped into bankruptcy, had the chief executive warmed up a bit, stepped out on the grass, and gave a kid or two a friendly pat upon the noggin.

There is not much chance for the proposed Tammany Hall organization in our grand, glorious, and gumptionless commonwealth. It lacks mystery, and has no hiding facilities; it cuts no monkeyshines, and hangs no sinners to save lost souls, and all members can be identified by something besides their feet.

ALL IN ONE LIFETIME.

THE DEATH of Elwood Haynes, inventor of the "horseless carriage" brings into sharp relief the marvels that can today be crowded into a single lifetime.

When Mr. Haynes was born the motor car was unknown. When he invented his horseless carriage, the motor car idea was accepted as a joke and when it refused to be laughed down, a horse-loving world arose to declare it a nuisance and a menace.

At 40 years of age Mr. Haynes was constrained to observe that the horseless carriage was taken seriously only in Europe, and he feared the United States would never realize its opportunities.

At his death what a transformation had taken place! According to the last government report, there were 18,000,000 motor cars in the world and 15,000,000 of these were made in the United States. Only 25 years ago the total motor car output in this country was valued at $4,000,000. Today it is valued at $4,000,000,000. Twenty years ago the United States was manufacturing 400 motor cars a year. Now the shops in this country are turning out over half a million cars a year.

In a life of less than three score and ten, Mr. Haynes was able to observe this most sensational mechanical and commercial development in all history. And the mechanical and commercial development was as nothing compared with the social revolution which this single invention caused.

THE SALMON BANQUET.

THE BANQUET of local sportsmen which will be given here Thursday night, has come to be an annual event, and a very important one. Not only has this meeting grown to be the chief spring gathering of sportsmen in the state, but it has come to be of genuine importance to the commercial development of southern Oregon. Toward the increase of our tourist crop nothing is more essential than the development and protection of fish and game. Needless to say, the meeting Thursday night should be attended not only by active sportsmen, but by a large and representative delegation of local business men.

Rippling Rhymes

KEEPING COOL. DO NOT get excited if you're feeling sore; wrongs are seldom righted by the men who roar. Futility is the riot, useless is the din; men serene and quiet are the ones who win.

Always, all around us, demagogues are seen, and their roars astound us, and their martial mien. We can hear them yammer louder than the storm; we can hear them clamor for some great reform. But they clamor vainly, vainly do they shout; men who labor sanely bring good things about. Voters who are spurning froth and empty sound keep the home fires burning, make the wheels go round. Firm as polished granite, silent as the same, they have brought this planet quite a lasting fame. Men of great endeavor, they accomplish things, and you see them talking 'round in rings. Voters built to conquer gird their loins and do, while the noisy honker talks till he is blue. There are pikers ranting over all the land, spiling and descending on their dreams grand. Each one has his vision and he'd guide our feet to the fields Elysian, close to Easy street. Some there are who follow, and at last they find that the dreams are hollow and the dreamers blind. It is a weary walking to a pipe dream, elude if our guides are talking, talking all the time. If we've silent leaders, men of potent soul, then, oh gentle reader, we may reach the goal. Dark ways are not lighted by the talker's toil; do not get excited, mind the rules of Hoyle.

Effects of Tonsillectomy

Dr. Albert D. Kaiser, children's specialist, Rochester, N. Y., has studied the reasons for and the effects from the removal of the tonsils in about eight thousand school children. His opinions may be considered authoritative. Probably no one else has had wider experience or made a more careful study of this question. Dr. Kaiser's latest report deals with the condition of 1200 children three years after the removal of the tonsils or adenoids. This study has all the more value because Dr. Kaiser has been able to compare the condition observed in the 1200 children whose tonsils were removed three years ago with the present condition of another group of 1200 children, who three years ago, had enlarged or diseased tonsils or adenoids and were recommended for operation, but were not operated upon. Surely, such a check-up with such a control must carry great weight with any sensible person who really wants to know the value of the average tonsillectomy in childhood.

Of the 1200 children operated on, 674 had been subject to frequent attacks of sore throat or tonsillitis up to the time of the operation, and in the three year period since removal of their tonsils only 126 of the children had continued to have sore throat or tonsillitis attacks. Nearly half of the 1200 children operated on had been subject to frequent coryza or colds; in the three years since the operation 146 of them continued to have attacks of so called "head cold."

Of the children operated on, 1872 had enlarged cervical "glands" (lymph nodes)—commonly known as "kernels" in the neck. In the three year period since the operation the cervical nodes have disappeared in 352 cases and remained in evidence in 720 cases. Since the operation 48 children, who had never before had enlarged cervical nodes, have developed these "kernels." This would seem to show that infected tonsils and their enlarged glands in the neck.

Acute or chronic running ear was a complaint in 136 of the 1200 children operated on, and 42 of these remained unaffected by the operation. In addition, in the three years since operation 26 children not previously subject to ear trouble have developed running ears. Among the 1200 children not operated on, 75 have had discharging ears in the last three years.

Before the operation 53 of the 1200 children, as Dr. Kaiser suggests, disoperation only three cases of diphtheria have occurred among the 1200 children. As Dr. Kaiser suggests, diseased tonsils afford fertile soil for the diphtheria bacillus.

A history of rheumatism, joint pains or "growing pains" was obtained in 128 of the 1200 children not operated on, and in 129 of the 1200 children operated on. Of the group operated on 116 had developed their joint trouble since the operation. Evidently, then, joint removal is no panacea for so-called "rheumatism." But the operation has proved of distinct value in the prevention of heart disease, which is part and parcel of the focal infection from the tonsils which is known as "rheumatism." Among the 1200 children operated on, there were 44 cases of heart disease, 12 of which have developed since the operation; among the 1200 children not operated on there were 52 cases of heart disease. But this evidence is greater than it seems, for unquestionably many more of the children not operated on will develop heart disease from their diseased tonsils in the next few years.

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS Solid Versus Flabby What is the difference between a woman who has solid flesh and one who has flabby flesh? I weigh 125 pounds, 5 feet 5 inches tall. It is just my stomach. I am fasting now, both for spiritual blessing and for temporal blessings. I take only one good meal a day. If I don't reduce is it because it is only water in my system? (M. I. Wright.) Answer—U. C. Knott. The main element of solid flesh is muscle. The main element of flabby flesh is water. Persons with solid flesh can keep in

Who's Who

JOHN F. STEVENS The most exclusive and coveted engineering honor that can be bestowed, the John Fritz Gold Medal, has just been awarded to John F. Stevens, world famous American railway engineer. Among the 29 holders of the medal are numbered Lord Kelvin, Geo. Westinghouse, Alexander Graham Bell, Thomas Edison, Orville Wright, George Washington Goethals and Guglielmo Marconi. Stevens was born in Gardiner, Me., nearly 70 years ago. He was city engineer of Minneapolis when only 21 years of age. He became general manager of the Great Northern railway under James J. Hill and later vice president in charge of operations of the Rock Island. He was engineer of the Panama Canal from 1905 to 1907 and was chairman of the commission of railway experts sent to Russia in 1917. When the Soviets stepped in and halted that work he became president of the inter-allied railway board in Manchuria.

Jackson County Banks Make Good Showing

Medford and Jackson county people are proud of the banks and the fine way in which they are managed. The statements made at the close of business April 6th, a number of which were printed in this paper the past few days, show the banks are gaining in deposits, and total resources, which is another indication of the progress and development of the whole county. The First National bank at the close of business on April 7th, showed total resources of over two millions of dollars, which is the first bank in Medford or this county, to ever reach this amount.

Avoids Operation In Serious Case Of Kidney Trouble

"For the past three years I had serious thoughts of an operation, due to a serious case of kidney and prostate trouble. In talking to a friend regarding this trouble he suggested I try Alvista, assuring me if it did me no good it would surely do me no harm, as it was purely vegetable compound. I used to suffer great pain, getting up four or five times each night, and I want to tell you I am entirely relieved after taking one month's treatment of Alvista. Do you know it has even helped my appetite." (Signed) R. G. FRAZER.
