

Local and Personal

During the showers and light thunderstorm here yesterday afternoon there was a hail storm west of the valley with some damage reported, mostly covered by hail insurance. It is said the storm, accompanied by hail and rain, was quite heavy in the Union Creek vicinity. There was also much rain and some hail in the Trail and Prospect sections. Sunday's rainfall here was 5. of an inch. Unsettled weather with probable local showers is the prediction for Tuesday.

Before you buy that piano see Launspach. He can save you money. He knows pianos and is reliable. $145,000 bonds is not sufficient to buy site, build complete high school and equip same, therefore the present high school must be used in conjunction with new unit. A high school built on Holly street site cannot be used in this manner, therefore the only solution is to build on the P. & E. site. 43*

The outing of the local O. A. C. club yesterday at Union Creek was attended by about 20 members who motored up to that point during the forenoon, had a crisp put in it by a heavy storm during which much rain and hail fell, and which was accompanied by much thunder and lightning. It was one of the most severe hail storms the club members had ever seen, the large hail stones fairly covering the ground like snow. 44*

Evidence of a political storm is gathering about W. E. Crews, state corporation commissioner, and well known resident of this city, is shown in the following editorial comment from the Eugene Guard, of last Saturday: A state official in any capacity openly lending his presence to a stock-selling campaign meeting presents rather a remarkable figure, but when that official is a corporation commissioner, charged with regulation and restriction of stock selling projects, the spectacle becomes still more remarkable. At the meeting of the Guaranty Oil company stockholders here Wednesday night, Corporation Commissioner W. E. Crews acted as spokesman for the company management in inviting any stockholders present who might be dissatisfied with their investment to come forward and receive a refund of the amounts they had paid, together with interest from the time investment was made. 44*
