"So This Is London," Coming May 22

George M. Cohan's international comedy, "So This Is London," one of the stage classics of the day, will be presented at the Hunt's Craterian theater Friday night, May 22. This is a Henry Duffy production and that alone is considered a guarantee of its merit. The play is deliciously original in theme and its fun is of the sparkling, effervescent kind that never fails to captivate and charm an audience.

The situations are described as laughable in the extreme and there is said to be a certain freshness about them and a droll humor permeating the whole that has served to make the piece one of the most popular comedies ever presented on the American stage.

"So This Is London," comes here after a long run in New York, Chicago and London with a capable company headed by Lawrence D'Orsay, the original star and a production in every way the equal of that seen in the major cities and on a par with that originally introduced to Broadway.

plays presented at Phoenix auditorium last Friday night, since an epidemic of mumps and left only a minimum time in which to prepare the program. Special mention should be given to Cecil Hartley, who, in an emergency, took his part at a day's notice. Everyone was charmed by the dance given by Bessie Hildebrand and Leona Fish in old-fashioned costume, under the direction of the students and the Phoenix quartette, the last named featuring Miss Twila Rader in a dance. The school is fortunate in having as a friend Fletcher Fish, whose skill as a make-up artist was never in better evidence than in his transformation of high school boys into bloody pirates.

Wednesday evening a delicious banquet was given to the seniors and faculty by the junior class, consisting of Bessie Hildebrand, Irene Stanley, Glenn Nichols, Frank Denzer and Cecil Hartley, assisted by Mesdames Denzer and Roberts and the Misses Lulu Roberts, Violet Holz and Edith May.

The room and table were tastefully decorated in white and pale blue, pink and yellow roses were also artistically used. Principal John W. Kerns acted as toastmaster and toasts were responded to as follows: "Matrimony," Andrew Stevens; "Boys," Della Mast; "Dreams," Echo Alford; "Violets," Everett Martin; "The Value of a Nickel," Guinevere Kerns; "Robbed Hic," Mrs. Morse; "My Ford," Mrs. Dickey.

The Who Do club met Thursday at the home of Mrs. Arthur Rose. The Ladies' Aid meeting this week was at the home of Mrs. Webster.

Everett Martin, Cecil Hartley and Andrew Stevens, playing tennis at Medford high school Wednesday, won the doubles and lost in singles.

LITTLE APPLAGATE

Miss Edna and Clara Wisely of Medford were week end visitors of Miss Hughes.

Our school, as well as Sterling and Uniontown, closes this week.

Harold Crump came home from Butte Falls Thursday and went to Klamath Falls where he has work with the Klamath Falls Packing company.

We had a nice thunder storm Sunday.

Quite a few are irrigating. The alfalfa looks fine.

Several car loads of people were on the creek Sunday fishing and picnicking. One car got stalled in the creek and had to be pulled out. A bridge is badly needed there and we hope the county will soon think so.

About thirty neighbors gathered at the Crump ranch Saturday evening and a good old time was had in dancing and visiting.

Mr. and Mrs. Ike Coffman and children are leaving here for Klamath county this week.

We are sorry to hear of the death of Amy Reynolds' mother.

BROWNSBORO NEWS

The weather has been fine for the past week, but it is raining at this writing. The farmers are hoping it will rain, for they are anxious for their crops to get a good start.

The Sunday school lesson for May 17, 1925, is, Saul follows Jesus, or Saul becomes a Christian, Acts, 9:1-12-17-18, Golden Text. If any man be in Christ, he is a new creature. Everyone is invited to come.

Mr. J. D. Henry made a business trip to Brownsboro one day last week.

Miss Frederica Humong spent the week-end at her home in Medford.

Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Tucker and daughter, Miss Ellen, were Medford business callers Saturday.

Albert Hoagland made a business trip to Medford one day last week.

SYD CHAPLIN'S COMEDY SCORES AT CRATERIAN

Proof of the paraphrased adage that "there is no piece of foolishness like an old piece of foolishness" is being had at the Hunt's Craterian theater this week, where it is roughly estimated upwards of 3000 persons writhed in various forms of joyous hysterics yesterday and the day before as the silver screen exhibited the scintillating and capering of Syd Chaplin in Charley's Aunt.

From the looks and sound of things the Craterian will exceed this record by several thousands before tomorrow midnight; for it was apparent that those who walked out of the playhouse Wednesday and yesterday were going to lose no time in urging their friends, relatives and the wide, wide world to "Go see 'Charley's Aunt.'"

And who shall question their judgment? Not this reviewer, most certainly, in view of the fact that he rolled in the aisles a quarter of a century ago, when the stage version of the play was making history, and who all but repeated the performance on last night.

Included on the program is an entertainment by Aesop Fable and Betty Brown on the Giant Yuriltzer.
