Geo. M. Esterly of Waldo is a visitor in the city who arrived yesterday, an concerning Mr. Esterly's mining operations the Portland Oregonian says: "The gold diggings of Josephine county have not been worked out, according to George Esterly of Waldo, who is at the Imperial. Mr. Esterly is the operator of a gold mine near Waldo, Oregon, a few miles out of Grants Pass. The gold mine uses hydraulic pressure and the streams are sprayed on the gravel banks which were discarded by the pioneer miners. The mine which Mr. Esterly operates is in the oldest gold section in Oregon. The glans which are turned on the gravel banks have turned up hundreds of ounces in gold dust and the mine is one of the best paying in the state." 55*
