

3 GENERATIONS OF ROCKEFELLERS AT FOSDICK SERMON

NEW YORK, June 1.—(A. P.)—Three generations of Rockefeller have welcomed the Rev. Dr. Harry Emerson Fosdick at the start of his "thrilling adventure." Yesterday he made his debut in the pulpit of the Park Avenue Baptist church, which he intends transforming into a free church where all Christians may worship, regardless of creed. Dense lines of expectant worshippers, two blocks long, were turned away. Police were called upon to handle the crowds. The sermon over, it was two hours before the edifice was cleared of people. John D. Rockefeller was the first to congratulate Dr. Fosdick for "the eloquent and moving sermon." John D. Rockefeller, Jr., next clasped the preacher's hand. Then came his son, Winthrop. John D., Jr., asked to comment, replied: "The Rockefeller were besieged by parishioners. The elder oil magnate presented new ideas to several children. Dr. Fosdick in his sermon generalized upon the conditions under which he accepted the pastorate. He had asked among other things that the church be made "inclusive," with baptism by immersion left optional. He said he marvelled at the courage of the congregation in embarking with him on a "thrilling adventure."

CHILD'S WELFARE MEET AT WATKINS JUNE 3

A child welfare conference will be conducted at Watkins school on Wednesday, June 3, by the Jackson County Health unit. Dr. V. S. Gearey, county health officer, will examine the children, assisted by Miss Irene Mann, and Miss Vera Beard, public health nurses. Parents of the Beaver creek and Watkins districts are urged to register their pre-school and school age children before Wednesday. Call Jacksonville 491 for appointments.

After taking part in the Memorial Day parade last Saturday morning a party of thirty-five scouts left Medford about one-thirty to find the Mystery Trail, in charge of O. L.

Corrall and Cecil A. Co. Autos took the party up Sam's Valley about eight miles, and located on the W. P. Payne ranch, which has been offered to scouts as a week end camp. Sams creek runs through the place and the location offers many opportunities for scouts to practice their out-door requirements. Exploring parties were formed and many interesting reports were turned in, including the location of a gold miners outfit (pan, pick, etc.) a quail nest containing a number of eggs and a very strong sulphur spring.

Each scout was equipped with his own lunch; some of these turned out to be regular dinners, including meat, potatoes, cocoa and desert, all prepared over open fires, while others were not so hard to please and were satisfied with very much less in quantity and variety. A flag raising game was arranged and had been in progress about an hour, when it started to rain, both sides were working hard to win, and continued until one side was successful in capturing their opponent's flag. On the trip home the rain continued and as the truck used to transport the party was not covered, every one received his full share of the water and arrived home cold but happy.

Winter Sports Farm Picture's Background

Spectacular winter sports, such as are engaged in in Switzerland, constitute a portion of the beautiful back-ground of "Enticement," which closes at the Rialto theater tonight. The scenes for this sequence of the story were "shot" in Canada at Lake Louise. There are skiing, skating, tobogganing, dog races and races between horse drawn sleighs. There is also a most realistic avalanche—a rush of snow that breaks down everything in its path. Jackie Coogan, as the modern juvenile counterpart of the hero of "Treasure Island Cruise," has a glorious time in his newest role, opening at the Rialto theater tomorrow matinee. The story was written expressly for Jackie, and tells of an orphan of a San Francisco police hero embarking on a tramping schooner, bound for Australia.
