BALL PLAYERS IN FIGHT WITH JEWS HAILED TO COURT

PHILADELPHIA, June 10.—(By Associated Press.) Eddie Hommel, star pitcher of the Philadelphia Athletics, was held in $800 bail for court today on a charge of assault and battery, the result of a free-for-all fight at Shibe park Monday night during a boxing bout. Cy Perkins and Mickey Coghane, catcher and first baseman, also accused, were discharged by the police magistrate who heard the case.

PHILADELPHIA, June 10.—(A. P.)—Four members of the Philadelphia American league baseball team, Ed Hommel, Cy Perkins, Ira Thomas and Mickey Coghane, are to appear in court today to answer charges of participating in what was described as a "free for all" fight during a boxing match at the Athletics' baseball park Monday night. The ball players were watching the bout and in seats nearby sat four brothers named Gootleman. As the bout progressed considerable banter was given back and forth on the capabilities of the men in the ring. The repartee continued and then, it is said, one of Connie Mack's athletes made a remark reflecting upon the ancestry of one of the fighters. The Gootlemans were said to have resented the slur and retaliated with stronger chatter, aimed particularly at Hommel's ability as a ball player. Then, Hommel was said to have punched one of the Gootleman boys. Police then took a hand in the affair and led the ball players away. While they were doing so one of the brothers attempted to hit Cy Perkins. At that a policeman placed him under arrest as well as his three brothers.

In court yesterday the brothers were discharged when the ball players failed to appear against them. Arthur Gootleman, however, swore out warrants against the four ball players.

MICKEY WALKER UNDER KNIFE, MATCH DELAYED

NEW YORK, June 10.—(A. P.)—Postponement of the Italian Hospital fund boxing bout scheduled for the Polo grounds June 19 in which Harry Wills is to meet Charley Weinert and Mickey Walker to face Harry Greb for the middleweight championship, was made necessary today by an operation on Walker's right foot.

After physicians had removed an ingrowing nail, they said the welterweight champion would be unable to box for a week or ten days.

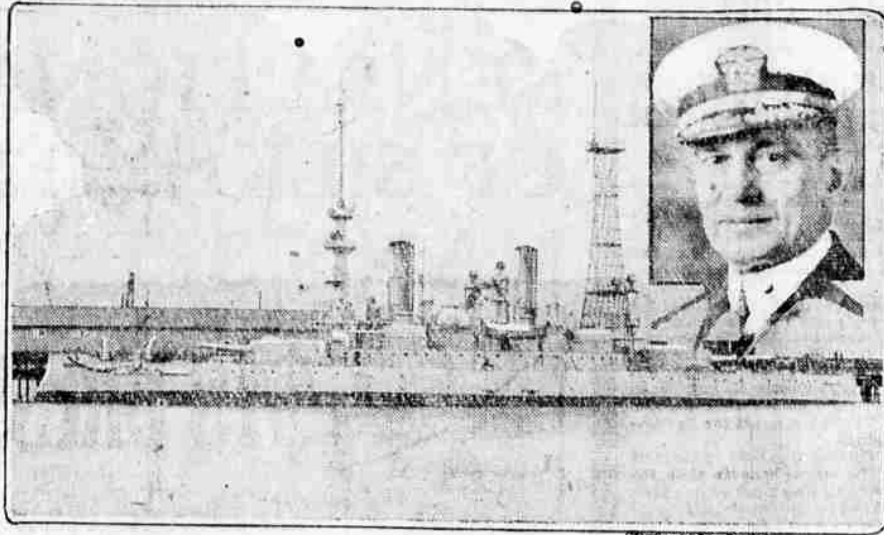

The bouts probably will take place July 1, 2 or 3, if arrangements can be made with the owners of the Polo grounds.

Battleship Oregon off Cape Flattery Enroute to Portland

The U. S. S. Oregon, famous for its part in the Spanish American war, is making its last voyage. It is being towed from the navy yard, Bremerton, Wash., to Portland, Ore., where it will be turned over to the state of Oregon to be preserved as a relic. Capt. R. T. Menner, commander on its last trip, is shown above.

BREMERTON, Wash., June 10.—(By Associated Press.) The battleship Oregon in tow of the navy tug Mahopac and Swallow was reported at the Puget Sound navy yard here today as being about fifteen miles outside of Cape Flattery. She cleared Cape Flattery at eight o'clock this morning and is expected to reach the mouth of the Columbia river at noon tomorrow.

The Oregon, prepared to pass the rest of her life as a relic, was towed from the yard yesterday for Portland.

By Central Press.
BREMERTON, Wash., June 10.—The U. S. S. Oregon, grizzled veteran of the navy, is on her last ocean voyage today. It will be a short one, and the Oregon, for the first time in her history, will traverse outside waters without steam in her boilers. However, a regular navy crew is aboard, commanded by Capt. Robert T. Menner.

The old Oregon's journey will take her, under tow of navy tugs, from Bremerton, down through Puget Sound and out through the Straits of Juan de Fuca, down the coast to the Columbia river, up that stream to the mouth of the Willamette river, thence on the Willamette to Portland, Ore., where she will be turned over to the state of Oregon.

The one time pride of the navy will then be decommissioned for the last time and pass from ownership of the

U. S. PROHIBITION AGENT KILLS MAN WHO BEAT HIM UP

SEATTLE, June 10.—After being beaten unconscious in a fight with John Lusk, about 55 years of age, suspected owner of a still found on a farm about ten miles north of here, A. F. Sadler, United States prohibition agent, revived and shot and killed Lusk early today.

Sadler, badly bruised about the head and shoulders, crawled to the highway after the shooting, and was brought to a hospital here by a passing automobile. He said he fired twice in the first struggle with Lusk and twice in the second battle, which occurred when Lusk returned after leaving Sadler unconscious.

Assistant Prohibition Director William M. Whitney, Sadler and several other agents last night visited the Cohen ranch and demolished two stills besides some mash and moonshine found in a chicken house. Lusk was arrested, but broke away while the officers were engaged in their work of destruction and fled into the brush.

Sadler, a former sheriff of Pend Oreille county, remained at the ranch, while the other officers returned here. Lusk returned half an hour later and was again arrested, in attempting to handcuff him in the darkness, one of the cuffs was put on wrong-side-out. When Sadler reached for his keys, Lusk, a big man, knocked the officer down and the struggle began. Just before lapsing into unconsciousness, Sadler fired twice, both shots wounding Lusk.

Several hours later, Sadler said, he regained consciousness just as Lusk was stealthily re-entering the house. When Lusk disregarded his command to halt, Sadler fired again, this time killing him.

government, a gift to the state which is so proud of the vessel's record that it won't permit her to go the way of other navy ships which have outlived their usefulness—to the scrap pile or to the bottom of the sea with bombs in her vitals.

A Thrilling History
The history of the Oregon is filled with thrills. That part of it which was made in the Spanish-American war forms an important page in American history. On the night that the Maine was blown up in Havana harbor, the Oregon was in drydock here. The next morning orders came for the vessel to steam as soon as possible for the east coast with a cargo of ammunition. On March 3 the Oregon left Puget Sound and two days later, record time in those days, was at San Francisco. At no time on the voyage was the Oregon's speed less than sixteen knots.

Ten days later the Oregon, under command of Capt. Charles E. Clark, sailed on her famous trip around the Horn. On April 16, the vessel encountered a fierce storm in the Straits of Magellan, but the next day, victor over the elements, anchor was dropped off Sandy Point while a brief survey of the storm damage was made. Upon arrival at Rio de Janeiro on April 30, the news was received that war against Spain had been declared. The Oregon reached Florida on May 26, after having out-manuevered some of Spain's best fighting ships on the
