S. P. OFFICIAL TELLS HOW TROOPS WERE BROUGHT TO CITY

James A. Ormondy, the general passenger agent of the Southern Pacific, who accompanied the national guard headquarters troop train to this city from Portland last night, and who leaves this afternoon for the north, expressed himself as greatly pleased with Camp Jackson and the efficient way in which his railroad brought the eight special troop trains from Portland to Medford.

"This big train movement was accomplished with dispatch," he said, "despite the fact that on route here last night we had to pass a fleet of special Shriener trains bound for Portland, three or four of them, besides keeping the regular train traffic moving. Despite all this the national guard troop trains were not very late in arriving here.

"Camp Jackson, I find, is an excellent one in a very pretty location near the city, and I do hope that it will be made the permanent camp for the annual Oregon national guard encampment. Such a permanent encampment here would be of great benefit to all Oregon, but especially Medford and southern Oregon; of course, it would benefit the S. P. in a way, also.

"All these soldiers arriving here today are eager to see Medford and the surrounding valley. I venture the assertion that only 10 per cent of these national guardsmen had ever seen southern Oregon and Medford before. What with their encampment, the trip you city is going to give them to Crater lake and your general of the entertainment for them, these soldiers will have something to talk about for a long time to come, and hence Medford and the Rogue river valley will reap much good advertising of the best kind.

"The Southern Pacific railroad had one traffic man in charge of each of these eight special trains, besides a squad of mechanical experts to look after the troop trains."

J. E. Kuger, roadmaster, and George Kilburn, road foreman of engines, and assistants were here last night and today looking after the welfare of the trains.

The following S. P. men accompanied the trains, one to each train, to look after the welfare of its load of military passengers: A. A. Michael, D. F. and P. agent at Salem; T. E. Graham, D. F. and P. agent at Eugene; A. N. Bryant, passenger agent at Seattle; J. A. Ormondy, general passenger agent; Bob Holmes, traveling freight and passenger agent at Eugene; K. A. Demaris, chief clerk in the district office at Salem; E. J. Handry, T. F. and P. agent at Seattle, and William Jenkins, traveling passenger agent from Portland.

you here. I realize that out of the lessons of the Great War there has come to us a National Defense Act, and that Oregon, as always, is endeavoring to do her full and patriotic duty, in preparing her citizens for the dread eventuality of war.

"For your training, for your maneuvers and for your play you have chosen a setting no less distinguished for its beauty, than for the loyalty and patriotism of our citizens, and I assure you that here every heart beat is a union of loyalty, love of flag and love of country, and it is to this and on behalf of this I bid you welcome."

General White then briefly thanked the mayor and the citizens of Medford for their kindly welcome, on behalf of the Oregon National Guard, and the informal ceremony was at an end.

Troop trains continued to arrive throughout the day and tonight, 1,500 men and 150 commissioned officers were expected to be under canvas, with routine schedule in full operation.

Although the work of preparing Camp Jackson for what Medford fondly hopes is to be the first of a series of annual encampments of the National Guard began only a month ago, and the task has been stupendous, it was in readiness for the troops on their arrival. The camp is a city within itself, with its water, lighting, telephone and sewer systems complete to the last detail, each unit occupying a street of its own.

Some idea of the stupendous task of preparation of the camp for the

FAMOUS RAILROAD LABOR LEADER IS CALLED BY DEATH

CLEVELAND, O., June 12.—Warren S. Stone, president of the Brotherhood of Locomotive Engineers and one of the leading labor leaders and labor financiers of the country, died in a hospital here late today. Mr. Stone went to the hospital last Tuesday to be treated for euremic poisoning.

Stone became ill several weeks ago upon returning from New York City. He was ordered to the hospital at once. For a time physicians who attended him declared that the illness was not serious. But today it was reported he suffered a sudden breakdown that was followed by death.

SENATOR LA FOLLETTE IS ILL WITH A COLD

WASHINGTON, June 12.—(A. P.)—Senator LaFollette of Wisconsin, who is ill here with a heavy cold again has taken to his bed after having been up and about his room for several days.

Although his condition has shown much improvement his physicians believe recovery will be facilitated by continued rest. They say his condition is not critical. He will be 70 years old next Sunday.

SENSATION IN GERM CASE

ters. Dr. Rufus Stolp, first physician called, testified upon cross examination that the illness at first defied diagnosis, and that a cathartic was administered at his direction. Shepherd had been accused of administering such medicine to assure the youth's death after typhoid fever had caused perforation of his intestines.

During Dr. Stolp's testimony, Robert White, long missing witness, dramatically led his wife and two children into the court room, and announced his presence to Joseph Savage, assistant state's attorney, whom he deluged with letters while a refugee in eastern cities.

White was taken to the office of the state's attorney and put through a long examination. He was said to have renewed charges of intimidation against Shepherd's attorneys and to have renewed his allegations of Shepherd's guilt.

White here to fight this thing to a finish," White said.

After he had questioned White, Savage said White virtually had repeated charges he had made in letters against W. W. O'Brien of Shepherd's defense, and Arthur E. Brynes, investigator for O'Brien, and that he had fabricated an affidavit he made to O'Brien while in fear of his life.

White said he returned to Chicago a week ago and had been living in seclusion.

White probably will be taken before the grand jury this afternoon, Savage added.
