Convalescing?

ANYONE recuperating from an illness needs a very special food. It must be highly nourishing and well-balanced—yet must put no extra strain on the digestion. And of course it must be appetizing.

Borden's, the Improved Malted Milk, meets all these needs as no other food—and no other malted milk—can.

Doctors prescribe Borden's

Because it is more nourishing—has higher food value than any other malted milk. It contains all the necessary properties to build up lost strength and restore tired nerves.

Borden's is more digestible. Made by a unique process that partially predigests the milk casein—it is easily assimilated by the most delicate stomach.

Borden's is more palatable, being free from nauseating sweetness.

If there is an invalid or convalescent in your family, make Borden's Malted Milk a regular part of his diet. Good for all ages and conditions.

Sold in square glass packages—in convenient 7 and 15-oz. sizes. Your dealer has it. The Borden Company, Borden Building, 350 Madison Avenue, New York, N. Y.
