

CAMP PREPARES FOR MOTOR TRIP TO CRATER LAKE

Preparations Start for Transportation of Troops to National Park—Several Members of Guard are Decorated for War Service.

Health conditions continue good, despite the continued warm weather, and the ratio of sickness actually is on the decline, as shown by the number of discharges from the camp hospital. The temper and spirit of the troops is good, and the efficiency rate exceptionally high. TOM AKERS.

Camp Notes

Belg. General Geo. A. White is entertaining representatives of several of civic and religious organizations at officers' mess, during the encampment, as well as some other friends. Thursday the following members of the Medford Ministerial association of Medford were his guests: J. H. Coan, J. W. De Yoe, D. J. Howe, E. P. Lawrence, E. J. Johnson, W. H. Blanton and C. M. King. Also A. Foster, V. V. Mills, R. E. Detrick, representatives of the Ashland Chamber of Commerce, Jay Unton, president of the state senate, Joe McMahon, chief traffic officer of this district, and S. E. Smith.

General White made a short talk welcoming his guests and saying it was an honor to his staff, as well as himself, to have them present and thanked them for their part of the splendid program arranged by Medford people for the entertainment of the men. The general said the idea of training young men today was not to keep up a military spirit but to develop them in every way, to bring out the best morale, and should war ever come, to be prepared with an advanced army. General White said the pacifists were responsible for more deaths in the American army in the last war than all the German bullets.

J. H. Coan then introduced the different ministers to the general and staff and each one made a short talk, as did the other guests. After mess, General White, chairman of the Defense Test, administered the oath to all his guests.

Mrs. Geo. A. White, wife of Brig. Gen. White, and daughters Henrietta and Dorothy of Salem, arrived Friday and will be quartered in C. E. Peng-wald's home during the rest of the encampment. The general's wife has a number of friends here, having accompanied the general here on several occasions.

Mrs. T. E. Riley of Salem, wife of Major Riley, Mrs. E. F. Pond, wife of Captain Pond of Portland drove down Thursday to remain until after the encampment.

Mrs. E. T. Strubbe, wife of Captain Strubbe of Portland, and children, Virginia and Robert, are guests of Mr. and Mrs. W. J. Warner during the encampment.

Sergeant Tom Akers of Portland, who is representing this paper at Camp Jackson, has been handicapped owing to his being in the field hospital several days. Nevertheless he has been furnishing splendid reports.

At the request of Brig. Gen. White, the state traffic officers, in charge of Joe McMahon, head of this division had charge of handling the autos at the demonstrations east of camp Thursday and Friday and as a result perfect order was maintained. The same traffic officers will assist in the trip to Crater Lake and return tomorrow and Sunday.

Women's Club to Meet. The final meeting of the College Women's club for the year, will be held tomorrow afternoon at the home of Mrs. Fred Wagner in Ashland. Jitneys will leave this city at 1:20 o'clock. Officers for the coming year will be installed, and the Ashland members of the club will act as hostesses.

Idaho Man Arrested in Bend. BEND, Ore., June 19—Ruff Conyers, wanted in Cascade, Idaho, was arrested today by Sheriff S. E. Roberts in Bend on request of Sheriff Fred L. Diggs of Cascade, Idaho. Conyers is charged with jumping his bond by the Idaho officers, according to Sheriff Roberts' information.

McClintock's will from notes, she testified previously were sent Shepherd by the youth while he was a student at Dartmouth college at Hanover, N. H.

Miss Anderson testified that she never had seen any stationery bearing the firm name, such as the letter Marchand and Fairman described was said to have been written on.

Arthur E. Conway of Chicago was called as the first witness in the defense attack on Fairman's character.

He testified that he once was convicted for violating the anti-narcotic law, that he knew Fairman very well and that Fairman's reputation for truth and veracity was well known.

FALL AND SINCLAIR WIN. (Continued From Page One)

There is no substantial evidence to show that unnecessary secrecy was shown by Fall in negotiating the lease, the judge ruled.

The fact that congress was not consulted by Fall and Denby is not significant, he declared.

Oil Lease Sustained. Fall was upheld in keeping the lease a secret pending consummation of the Pearl Harbor oil storage lease with the E. L. Doherty interests.

The decision reviews testimony relating how Sinclair paid about $1,000,000 to the Pioneer and Belgo Oil companies for mineral claims they held in Teapot Dome, which former Secreetary Fall required that Sinclair acquire in order to get a lease on the reserve. The Continental Trading company, which the government alleged was used in a huge oil re-sale scheme, as well as for passing liberty bonds from Sinclair to Fall, organized legally under the laws of Canada, said the decision.

The decision at the outset set forth the title of the suit and the government's pleading that the executive order of President Harding of May 31, 1921, transferring the naval oil reserves from the navy department to the interior department, was granted in excess of authority and that Harry Sinclair, lessee, and Albert N. Fall, lessor, conspired in negotiating the lease.

The government's allegations of fraud and the charge that the leasing of the big oil reserve was illegal were set forth at length in the decision and Judge Kennedy then plunged into his findings of fact.

As to Congressional Power. "We have no quarrel with the theory that the congress should realize the degree of unpopularity with which it will be received. This is true in the nature of things because the great general public is reached only with the sensational features surrounding the transactions involved and being large in the dark as to all the other multitude of circumstances with which the case is surrounded and knowing perhaps less of the great legal principles which the experience of the ages has taught mankind must control in dealing with the rights of persons and property.

"The fact that this appears to be a good contract for the government as testified to by those who are qualified to speak of its character, coupled with the fact that courts should be concerned in sustaining formal grants upon which the rights and welfare of many depend, implies the conclusion that such contracts should not be set aside for light or frivolous reasons, unless fraud in connection with their execution is clearly shown."

Unpopularity Realized. "In reaching a conclusion in this case," says the conclusion, "we fully have no quarrel with the theory that the congress should realize the degree of unpopularity with which it will be received. This is true in the nature of things because the great general public is reached only with the sensational features surrounding the transactions involved and being large in the dark as to all the other multitude of circumstances with which the case is surrounded and knowing perhaps less of the great legal principles which the experience of the ages has taught mankind must control in dealing with the rights of persons and property.

Members of the Oregon national guard in training here today entered the eighth day of their instruction period with an apparent access of interest and enthusiasm, stimulated in some measure by the prospect of their week-end bivouac to the celebrated Crater lake section.

There were a number of interesting events scheduled for the day, in addition to the usual routine military training allotted to the forenoon period. One of these was a demonstration of infantry in attack, conducted by the first battalion, 162nd infantry, under command of Major E. W. Van Horn, at 2 P. M.

This demonstration, conducted over virtually the same ground as that staged by the 162nd infantry yesterday, presented certain variations in the military problems involved, to gather with resultant differences in troop distribution, etc. Ample announcement to the public had been made previously, as a result of which the section available for spectators was crowded with hundreds of automobiles early in the afternoon.

The attacking force, consisting of infantry, machine guns and howitzers, assembled at 1 P. M., about one-half mile southeast of camp, at once deploying into positions assigned them. Following reconnaissance by the battalion commander his organization officers were given orders covering the conduct of the attack. Machine guns and howitzers moved up to new attack positions and under cover of the demonstration by the attacking infantry waves was launched, advancing in waves, the soldiers moved with precision and swiftness, every phase of the attack being as realistic as though in actual war. Headquarters company established and maintained communication lines, hospital units were on duty to administer needed aid, and every phase was carried through with precision and without a hitch. As on Thursday, there were no casualties to detract from the interesting demonstration.

Presentation of Medals. One of the most interesting events of the encampment occurred at 5 P. M., when a joint regimental parade was held by the 162nd infantry and the provisional regiment, at which time military decorations were awarded to certain veteran members of the Oregon national guard. These were:

Staff Sergeant Tom Akers, Co. A, 116th engineers, distinguished service medal, U. S. army, for distinguished service in China during the Boxer uprising, China relief expedition, in lieu of certificate of merit awarded him personally, by President Theodore Roosevelt; his record of service including Spanish-American war, Philippine insurrection, Boxer war in China, service on the Mexican border, service in Alaska and during the world war. His various grades included: private, second lieutenant and first lieutenant, First Colorado Volunteer infantry; private, first-class sergeant, first lieutenant, captain and major, Signal Corps, U. S. army.

Sergeant Harry Plant, Co. F, 162nd infantry, medal for 10 years faithful service on Mexican border and during the world war overseas.

Major William G. Scott, medical corps, state surgeon, S. C. M. D., medal for five years' service, including service in world war overseas.

Sergeant George Israel, Co. B, 162nd infantry, medal for five years' service.

Presentation of these medals was made personally by Brigadier-General George A. White, commanding the 82nd infantry brigade, and constituted one of the most impressive events in connection with the annual encampment.

Preparing for Trip. Preparations today were being rushed for the trip to Crater lake, to be undertaken early tomorrow by the entire command, headed by General White. Plans now are for the troops to leave Camp Jackson by auto about 7 A. M., proceeding to a point about 20 miles from the lake, where they will bivouac over night. The return will be made during Sunday. Every man available will have the chance to make this trip, more than 1500 automobiles being provided by the Medford Chamber of Commerce for this purpose. In addition to the private's own motor transport.
