The Screen

'Nelle, the Beautiful Cloak Model,' has reached the silver sheet and will be the attraction at the Rialto theater for two days, beginning today. This play was originally produced about fifteen years ago and at once became popular with the great public. The cast is an unusually brilliant one, containing Claire Windsor, as Nelle, Mae Busch as her chum, Polly Joy, Edmund Lowe as her lover, Jack Carroll, Lew Cody as a villain in this role of Walter Peck, Raymond Griffith and Hobart Bosworth.

'Quo Vadis, Colossal Spectacle.' 'Quo Vadis,' the colossal spectacle of Rome under the Caesars, has only tonight and tomorrow to run at the Hunt's Criterion. The pictures are brilliantly produced and splendidly acted, and it is on a scale so massive it dwarfs most of the films that have gone before it in the field of historic drama.

Emil Jannings heads the cast as Nero, the bestial tyrant who began the persecution that was to continue under many reigns in Rome, but which only strengthened the faith of the followers of the Christ and made the body of worshippers grow.

The scenes showing the burning of Rome and the cruel games of the arena are tremendous in the vast herds of people employed in them.

BEND, Ore., June 25.—A workman, Joe Coll, was killed in an accident in the tunnel last night at Odell, according to word received in Bend this morning. Details of the accident are not available. The body is being brought to Bend, however, according to a long distance message received by Sheriff S. E. Roberts.

The evil that flies do lives after them.
