The high temperature began moderating yesterday, accompanied by a welcome breeze throughout most of the day, hence the maximum was but 100.5 degrees. Today, which started out with a minimum of 53.5, was considerable cooler than yesterday, although still quite warm.

NORTH OAKDALE IS OPENED TO JACKSON BY CITY COUNCIL

One of the most important street improvements to be made by the city is that of opening North Oakdale avenue through to Jackson Boulevard being consummated yesterday by purchase by the city of the 150 foot strip of land between the end of North Oakdale and Second street, which heretofore had blocked the opening of that street.

This improvement, while it had been contemplated by previous councils, was hastened by the request of the school board consisting of Messrs. Phipps and Miller, who appeared before the council at its last meeting, as it would also make possible a direct (new) and approach to the new high school from both North Oakdale and Ivy streets thus making it possible to view the building from Main street.

As soon as the street is improved it will be possible to drive on Oakdale from the south city limits clear to Jackson Boulevard in the northern part of town.
