

Local and Personal

The week end Fourth of July observances of Medford and valley people began this afternoon when quite a number left for various resorts and camping places in southern Oregon to remain until Sunday night. The excursions of such pleasure seekers will be heavier tomorrow, especially in the afternoon, and by 8 o'clock Saturday morning Medford will be practically deserted, as all places of business will be closed that day.

La Corona Pearls in the new peach shade. Indestructible and guaranteed. On sale at $1.19. Japanese Art Store.

The usual weekly Forum luncheon of the Copco Forum was held at the Hotel Medford this noon with a good attendance of forum members present. A diversion was created by the reading of a telegram from Fred King, the forum's latest "newlywed." Mr. King who left last week for Seattle with the intention of giving up his claim on "single-blessedness" wired the forum the treats were on him, so the usual luncheon was topped off with a round of choice "seagulls" meeting with general approbation.

Follow the crowds to the Rogue Elk open air pavilion Saturday night.

Owing to Saturday being a holiday and this office will be closed all day. It is necessary that society, lodge and church news be sent in not later than Friday by 3 p. m. and sooner if possible. Either send direct to office or call 390-L.

Mr. Knudsen, president of the Chevrolet Motor Co., and Mr. Grant, his general sales manager, both of Detroit, Mich., were guests of Hamilton Patton, local Chevrolet representative Tuesday. Mr. Knudsen stopped in Medford between trains to see Mr. Patton, and that night Mr. Patton and his father were Mr. Knudsen's dinner guests of the Hotel Medford.

No greater shipboard could befall a group of lumberjacks on a Saturday night, and both time approaching and no clean towels," says the Klamath Falls Herald. "But that is just what confronted the boys in Jerome, Calif., 40 miles south of here, when the New City laundry of Klamath Falls missed the train with a big basket of lumberjacks' laundry. But a bright idea struck the laundry owner or just as French's airplane have in sight over the horizon. There's nothing else about the laundry. And there was nothing slow about the airplane that delivered the goods. And there was nothing slow about the lumberjacks. They bathed."
