LAWYER ALLOWED $25,000 FEE IN PORTLAND CASE

SALEM, Ore., July 7.—By an opinion of the supreme court today, written by Justice Coshow, modifying the decree of Judge H. H. Belt in the lower court for Multnomah county in the case of the heirs of the late E. Henry Wemme against the appellant Christian Science churches of Portland and the E. Henry Wemme endowment fund and the new trustees of the fund, Judge Guy C. Corliss who defended the fund in the original litigation is allowed the full fee of $25,000 claimed by him from the fund. This gives him $7500 in addition to $17,500 paid him by the original trustees of the fund.

This is a modification of the Belt decree in the lower court, which had to do with attorneys fees and which denied any further allowance to Corliss from the fund and held that he must look to the churches for it. Belt held that the original opinion of the supreme court in the litigation prevented him from allowing it from the fund.

The Coshow opinion affirms the Belt decree in refusing to allow the new trustees to repudiate the sale of the socalled Clackamas property to the Salvation Army.

"The cross-appellants (which include the new trustees) seek to ignore the sale to the Salvation Army," says the opinion, "and treat the White Shield home in Portland as though it was still the property of the E. Henry Wemme endowment fund, and the Clackamas property as belonging to the six churches.

"The Salvation Army is not a party to this litigation. The court cannot divest the title of the Salvation Army to the White Shield home without giving it an opportunity to be heard. The Salvation Army is an indispensable party to any litigation which would divest it of the title it now has in and to the White Shield home."

STOLEN PEARLS ARE RETURNED

CHICAGO, July 7.—(A. P.)—A costly pearl necklace, taken at the point of a pistol last September by a robber from Miss Hester White, daughter of F. Edson White, head of Armour and company has been returned to Colonel A. V. Smith, Lake county prosecutor. The prosecutor refused to say in what manner the pearls had been recovered.

The White robbery was one of a series confessed by several youths who named as an accomplice Jack Durand, foster-son of Scott C. Durand of Lake Bluff. As a result of their statements Durand recently was arrested in Los Angeles where he worked as a blackface target in a ball throwing concession of an amusement park.

PRESIDENT DENIES REPORT HE ASKED FOR DRY ACTION

SWAMPSCOTT, Mass., July 7.—(A. P.) — President Coolidge today authorized a denial of a story published in a New York newspaper that he had instructed Secretary Mellon to increase the efforts of the coast guard to break up rum running in the vicinity of Swampscott.

The statement was made at White Court that although Mr. Coolidge dislikes to deny or confirm newspaper stories, the one published with regard to rum running was without foundation.

It was indicated that the president is not concerned over unofficial reports that several rum runners are standing off the coast awaiting an opportunity to land liquor on the rocky shore near the summer White House. His view of the situation confirmed the report of coast guard officials that there is little, if any activity on the part of rum smugglers at this point on the coast line.

So far as the government's efforts to curb rum smuggling are concerned the president believes that it is a matter to be handled by the duly constituted officials and that the problem is not one coming under his personal direction.

Time to Spray

The first brood of codlin moth has been stringing out since the early part of May. However, the hot weather has brought out practically all of the first brood moths, and also has advanced the early part of the second brood moths, so that there will be a little time where the first and second broods will over-lap. It will be well to have both pears and apples covered between the 10th and 20th of July to catch the first of the second brood moths. Maximum infection will occur during the last week of July and the first two weeks of August, making it necessary to spray again during the latter part of July or first part of August.

On account of irrigation, it is difficult for many orchardists to make their applications when desired, but it should be planned to have the fruit thoroughly coated around the 15th to 20th of July, and also around the first week in August. It is probably well to use a spreader in these applications, so as to prevent an excess accumulation of arsenate on the fruit at picking time. It is best to go easy on the oil sprays as a spreader on pears, but it is recommended for apples, not to exceed one and one-half gallons of oil to one hundred gallons of spray.

Where Coolidges Are Being Entertained

SEIZE GIANT STILL PENDLETON, ORE.

PENDLETON, Ore., July 7.—One of the largest stills ever taken in this county was captured last night at 10 o'clock, southwest of Meacham in the forest at the top of the Blue mountains by Deputy Sheriff Stokes and an assistant. Two operators were taken with the plant, which was complete in every detail. Ed Welch and Mrs. Maude Boyden, wife of A. M. Boyden of Pendleton, were taken with the still and pleaded guilty in the justice court last night to the charge of operating a still and bail was set at $1500 for Welch and $500 for Mrs. Boyden. They were bound over to the grand jury.

The still was of 450 gallons total capacity and had an estimated output of 25 gallons of finished product per day. The plant is believed to have been in operation for years and to have furnished liquor rings in Pendleton and LaGrande with liquor for a long time.

CLAIMS HE CAN IDENTIFY GANG OF KIDNAPERS

CHATTANOOGA, Tenn., July 7.—(A. P.)—The expressed belief of Lawrence Bowman that he can identify the masked men who held him and Dr. W. D. Mason as prisoners for ten days in the mountains of Tennessee, encouraged officers who are conducting the investigation. The two men who disappeared on June 25 were located Sunday morning handcuffed and tied to a tree.

Last night Bowman issued a statement from the hospital where he is recovering from injuries received when he and Mason were attacked by five masked men and according to his story, beaten and tortured and then on each successive night strapped up to a different tree. In his statement Bowman ascribed the activity of himself and his companion in, assisting prohibition officers in breaking up stills as the reason for their abduction.

Bowman also told of hardship endured because of little food and actually no water allowed them while prisoners. The question of a feud between Bowman and his followers and those of another mountain family had been advanced.

A reward of $1000 for the recovery of the two missing men, dead or alive, has not yet been paid.

INITIATION HELD AS FLEET PASSES OVER EQUATOR

U. S. S. MISSISSIPPI, July 7.—(A. P.)—A colorful bit of spectacular pageantry was witnessed today by officers and enlisted men of the United States fleet when the warcraft, en route to Australia approached the equator.

'Twas a trying time for the uninitiated, the landlubbers who had not previously crossed the equator. Davy Jones, the evil figure who rules over the sea dominions climbed aboard the craft and served each landlubber with a summons to appear before his master, King Neptune.

Beneath a tropical moon and amid a display of fireworks and searchlights, King Neptune, with flowing beard, bearing his trident, boarded the ship and paraded the deck. As he established his throne on the port side of the quarterdeck, a black flag with a figure of skull and crossbones was hoisted with a flying fish which hung high on the halyards.

Then the ruler of the seas meted out punishment to the landlubbers who ventured near the equator for the first time. The duck stool, and painted faces were sentences passed out by the mythical ruler who ruled for the day.

The ceremonies marked the first crossing of the equator by the fleet since 1921. The fleet crossed at 10 a. m. on Monday.
