

DOUBLE TRAGEDY SHOCKS ASHLAND MRS. OGG PASSES

ASHLAND, July 31.—The community was shocked to learn of the death of Mrs. G. G. Ogg, some time during Thursday night. Mrs. Ogg had not been well for some time, and since Mr. Ogg's grave injury some one of her friends had been with her. Thursday evening, when Mrs. Welborn Beeson, a cousin, left her home in the morning, when Mrs. Beeson came into the room Mrs. Ogg was sitting in an easy chair, as if resting. Thinking her asleep, Mrs. Beeson went out of the room. Coming back shortly she found her the same, walked over for a moment, and found she had passed on. It is supposed that she died some time in the night. Making it doubly tragic, Mr. Ogg is in the Community hospital, critically ill. Mr. Ogg's brother, the Rev. Duncan Ogg, pastor of the Congregational church at Eureka, Calif., had just arrived to take charge of affairs. The accident which may cost Mr. Ogg his life, occurred a few days ago. He had gone to one of their tenant houses to open up the house (supposedly) after fumigation. He had evidently been overcome with the fumes and when found was beneath a second story window from which he had fallen, fracturing his skull. He roused sufficiently to say that he fell from the window, after being taken to the hospital, where he has hovered between life and death since. A report from his nurse this morning says that he rested fairly well during the earlier part of the latter part of his condition. His condition has been very grave. No arrangements have been made last night for Mrs. Ogg's funeral. There are no children but Mrs. Ogg has a number of relatives. She belonged to the pioneer family of Coolidge, who lived in Ashland many years ago.

A very delightful program was given at assembly hour Friday at normal in charge of Miss Leona Marsters, who is one of the faculty, consisting of a clarinet solo, "Variations on the Swan Lake," played by Marcus Woods. Responses in consistent demand, another selection was given. Both were especially well rendered and enthusiastically received. Mr. Woods was accompanied by his mother, Mrs. E. A. Woods. Miss Florence Allen gave great pleasure in singing "My Creed," and "I Know a Little Girl," both of which received appreciative applause. Mrs. C. W. Graham of Grants Pass sang two contralto solos, "A Serenade," Nevin, and "Pass By Your Window," both pleasingly rendered and thoroughly enjoyed. This concert of exceptional numbers was a more than pleasant feature of the day. Appreciation was expressed to Miss Marsters and to those who gave it, most heartily.

Mrs. F. S. Engle and Miss Gertrude Engle were hostesses at an especially attractive afternoon affair, Thursday, which was in the nature of a miscellaneous concert, honoring Mrs. James Spencer, formerly Miss Frances McWilliams, whose wedding occurred recently. Girlhood friends, many of them who had been fellow teachers at the time she taught in Ashland, made up the group who enjoyed, with complimented guest and hostesses the happy hours. Lovely gifts were brought the bride, and daintiest of luncheons served. The house had been artistically decorated with beautiful flowers. Those present were Mrs. James M. Spencer, the Misses Edna and Minnie Foley, Mrs. Edna Welbeck, of Klamath Falls, Mrs. Ethel Bruner Ashcraft, Mrs. Daven Hill, Miss Florence Allen, Mrs. Homer Billings, Mrs. Lillian Reed Book, Mrs. Eric Weren, Mrs. Kenneth McWilliams, Miss Ila Myers and Mrs. Angie Engle. Mrs. Spencer, who was so well known and popular in Ashland will live in Eagle Point where Mr. Spencer is manager of the Eagle Point Irrigation district.

One of the loveliest of evenings was spent by the faculty and student body of the summer normal in the gym of the high school Friday night in spite of the fact that many students spend the week-ends in their homes there were around a hundred present for the riot of fun and frolic that ensued. Miss Zipora Blumenfeld, with Mrs. Pennock of Marshfield, Miss Palmer of Klamath Falls and a number of others had charge of the affair. Under the capable leadership of Miss Blumenfeld, there was not a dull moment from first to last. Gymnastics, tag, music, and contests, a merrily rollicking, dramatic contests, in which the histrionic ability displayed was of most unusual type; races in which the victory was to the strong, and often through concert of action the goal was attained. If laughter makes the heart grow younger, many will drop a good many years, judging from the scales of laughter greeting the performances.

The evening closed with a grand march. Miss Cole at the piano, to the domestic science room, where punch and cakes were served by attentive hostesses and their assistants. At ten thirty about eighty cars will meet at a C. E. train which arrives at that time, and will take the 350 Endeavorers aboard for a short drive about the city and environs, coming back to Ashland about 11:30, at which time a luncheon will be served the guests by the young people of the different churches. Their train leaves about two o'clock. Mr. and Mrs. C. V. Howell announce the birth of a baby daughter Tuesday July the seventh.

During July and August the Women's Civic Improvement club will open the club house every Saturday afternoon, that those who wish may visit it. Mrs. Mary Wilshire is hostess in charge.

MINING NEWS OF SOUTHWESTERN OREGON

Edited by Southwestern Oregon Mining Bureau.

OSGOOD PLAGER MINE BOUGHT BY JAMES T. LOGAN

GRANTS PASS, July 30.—(Special) James T. Logan, a prominent Josephine county mining man, formerly owner of the Logan placer mine at Waldo now owned and operated by George M. Esterly and associates, has just completed the purchase of the Osgood placer mine in southern Josephine county from Frank L. Osgood of Seattle.

During the time Mr. Logan operated the Logan mine he also worked the Osgood under lease and thus became thoroughly familiar with the property. After selling the Logan he examined many properties from Canada to Mexico, but finally concluded to again cast his lot in southwestern Oregon.

The Osgood mine is situated about one mile southeast of Waldo on a ridge running north and south which forms the divide between the east and west forks of the Illinois river. The summit of the ridge is about 200 feet above the east work and about one mile distant. The property has been opened up on both sides of the ridge, the principal workings being on the east side. On the west side the workings extend 500 to 600 feet parallel with the ridge and have an average width of about 150 feet. At the top of the ridge is a bed of ground 20 to 30 feet thick, firmly cemented by reddish clayey material. Beneath this bed is a bed of gravelly conglomerate 30 to 35 feet thick, consisting of gravel and boulders ranging in diameter from the size of a marble to 8 to 10 inches. The conglomerate rests on a bed of highly altered greenstone. The gravel and conglomerate bed represent a comparatively small area that has escaped erosion and do not extend far down the slope.

The property consists of 40 acres of patented placer ground and 636 acres held by mineral location. The new owner states that the ratio of platinum to gold in the property is about 10 to 75. One assay showed .7 ounce of gold and .04 ounce of platinum per ton. The gold is quite rusty and some difficulty has been experienced in the past in saving the values, but with the process for the recovery of the fine gold and platinum values available, no trouble is anticipated in making practically a complete recovery of all values.

The mine has about 800 miners inches of water carried through 11 miles of ditch from the east fork of the Illinois river under heads at different parts of the property varying from 125 feet to 300 feet. It is equipped with pipe lines, giants, flumes, etc. The excavated material is washed through about 250 feet of sluice boxes, and Mr. Logan intends installing modern devices for the saving of the black sands.

Mr. Logan states that work will be started in September and that from 1000 to 1500 yards of gravel will be handled each 24 hours when the property is fully in operation.

Underlaid With Gold A pile of gravel 20 feet high and apparently 30 acres in area, causes you to gaze and ask questions as you pass, some miles east of Grants Pass, along the Redwood highway between that city and Crescent City, Cal. It is gravel from which a mining company has extracted virgin free gold.

When that country was in the course of nature, created it was underlaid with gold. Fifty to ninety million dollars of that gold store has been taken out by miners and put in circulation. There are those who believe that the princely total so far mined is but a small part of the enormous total that will yet be discovered and mined in the Grants Pass and Rogue River country.

Gold Beach, the county seat of Curry county, takes its name from the yellow metal. When they excavated preparatory to building the Curry county courthouse they uncovered an old tunnel which the placer miners away back in the early '50s had dug to divert the course of a small stream for use in placer mining. Nobody in Gold Beach can tell when or by whom this old forgotten tunnel was dug.

A stretch of sand beach two miles long at the mouth of the Rogue river gave the name of the town to Gold Beach. It was so rich in coarse gold, and even in nuggets, that it was the sensation of those early days of mining and Indians. Gold was taken out of that two miles of sand beach by the tens and hundreds of thousands of pieces of shorted gold discoveries.

Among them are the Sterling, Wolf creek; the Flanagan mine, and many other placers whose production has been considerable. Some day the hidden sources of the gold that found its way into all the rich placer diggings will be found, for the prospectors are still at the old, old game.

Men who ought to know say that lack of ample capital alone has prevented the true development of the district. Deep mining has never, so far, been thoroughly carried on, they say. Where lack of profits in quartz mining has occurred it has been largely due to misapplication of effort, and insufficient expenditure of development money. Too often, these observers say, the early gold history and heavy discoveries of the district have been used by promoters to bring in "black money" on precarious speculations, in which the effort was made to make money out of the suckers than to explore for virgin gold.

It is believed that gold is still the greatest asset of southwestern Oregon. Practical mining development is now in progress, due to the persistent and straightforward effort of a group of citizens who know the mining game and are taking measures to put it upon a sound basis.

One of the great finds in the district was Gold Hill, 12 miles out from James Hayes, who died at Corvallis a few years ago. He was hunting a horse, when his eye rested on a seam of metal that gleamed from a stone. He quickly recognized it as gold, and reported his find. The entire population of the town of Jacksonville hurried to the spot, and mining began that ultimately took gold estimated at $3,000,000 to $6,000,000 out of the neighborhood. Like most other discoverers Hayes realized but a comparatively small sum out of his great find.—Oregon Journal.

Northwest Mining Dividends The dividends of the northwest mining industry so far this year total $4,471,000. Anaconda pays 75 cents per share. This amounts to $2,250,000 and brings the total dividend distribution up to $184,000,000. Hecla pays $500,000, bringing its total to $13,105,000. Premier will pay $400,000, making its total $5,000,000. Consolidated's is $321,000 for the half year. Silversmiths will pay $25,000, making its total $600,000.

Northwest Mineral Production Minerals production of the Pacific northwest for 1924, which was only an average year, according to government statistics, reach the large total of $150,023,754, segregated as follows: Montana $4,228,700 British Columbia 48,704,594 Idaho 27,916,450 Alaska 17,570,000 Oregon 825,000 Domestic Platinum Production 1924 The platinum production in the United States for 1924 totaled 285 ounces, according to the interior department, with California furnishing 285 ounces, Oregon 20 ounces, Alaska 6 ounces, and Utah four ounces. The major portion of the California production came from the large dredge operations in the northern part of the state.

With Del Norte, Siskiyou, Humboldt and seventy counties, California, and Coos, Curry, Jackson and Josephine counties, Oregon, recognized as the most promising field for the commercial exploitation of platinum production from the black sands in the United States, according to Messrs. Day and Richards of the United States Geological Survey (Bulletin of the survey in 1907 entitled "Black sands of the Pacific Slope"), the production from these two states will be increased from year to year now that facilities are available for the commercial recovery of fine gold and platinum values from the black sands, and in time it is predicted that the major portion of the platinum consumption of the United States, estimated at 150,000 ounces, will be produced at home, with southwestern Oregon as the center of production.

Registry of Mines Under this heading the bureau will from week to week publish data regarding one or more mining properties entered in the registry, without any identifying marks save, county in which located. These properties are, unless otherwise noted, open for development, either through sale, lease and bond or financial assistance to the owner. Bona fide inquirers will be placed in direct touch with the owners without charge.

Registry No. 1000 Located in Josephine county; 20 acres held by location. Gravel: 6 to 12 feet deep. Equipment: one-half mile ditch; short flumes; 500 feet of pipe line; cabin; No. 2 giant. Water available for two months under 75 feet.

If you were fortunate enough to get a copy of Mining Truth, you will realize the wide publicity our Registry of Mines is receiving—a publicity that means much toward the full development of our vast mineral resources. Mining Investor is scheduled to examine the Registry this month. Will he be able to get a line on your property? It is your fault if he does not. The registry is maintained for your benefit without cost to you.

Dan Rowland of Blaine on the Rogue registered his property this week. Editor: from all over the state will be in Grants Pass next week attending their annual convention. They will be interested in examining the Registry of Mines. Get your report in and make it as complete as possible.

The world's deepest oil well is in Wyoming, west of Laramie, on the Simpson Rock anticline, and is owned by the Producers and Refiners Corporation. This well is 6,072 feet. The next deepest well is the Goff well in West Virginia, with a depth of 6,000 feet.

Feline Is Heir of Millionaire

"John Henry," pet of Irving Wood, Boston millionaire, is one of the heirs to his late master's fortune. The will has carefully drawn specifications as to just how the cat is to be cared for. "John Henry" has lived for years in extraordinary feline luxury.

A. Y. Greco, of Portland, has arrived in Josephine county to take charge of the Robert E. mine on Baby Foot creek, a tributary of the Chetco. The Robert E. was developed by I. F. Peck.

St. Sol has completed his assessment work on the Orfino on Louse creek. Values increase with depth in the Burnt Pine mine near Rogue River in Jackson county, owned by Chas. Borg. Robertson brothers brought in upwards of $2500 in bullion as the first cleanup from their property on Silver creek in the Galice district.

The goings and comings of Jack Casey and Jim Sanford read like those of Death Valley Scotty of some 15 years ago. Casey and Sanford Monday brought in 147 ounces of gold from the Golden Dream on the Chetco, the result of six days panning by two men. About ten days ago they brought in around $500, and earlier in the spring a somewhat larger amount. This property is owned by Ed Barlockea Casey and Sanford.

The placer mines of the district have practically all closed for the season.

Butte Falls celebrated the fourth with dances on Friday and Saturday nights, and also had a few stump exhibitions. Although Grants Pass staged a big celebration, Medford, Ashland and Eagle Point were especially remembered.

Everyone enjoyed the community singing and the address delivered by Rev. Gray, one of Oregon's prominent ministers, was highly appreciated.

The Community club is creating a great deal of interest among the women, and many new members have sent in their names since the success of the celebration.

This was an inspiration to everyone who had the opportunity of being here, and attending the dances which has borne good results.

No other organization was so insistent in working for the general good of the community as the Civic Improvement club.

Mr. and Mrs. J. B. Jackson left for Diamond Lake on a week's vacation, Wednesday, accompanied by Claude Miller and Orbra Abbott. Aileen Jackson accompanied by Mrs. Spencer and Gertrude Fredenburg, motored to Medford Tuesday on business.

Presbyterians to Take Offering for Santa Barbara Aid

Those interested in the study of prayer, will find some valuable suggestions to be given at the Presbyterian church on Sunday morning by the pastor. The subject will be "The Soul's Daily Dozen." The suggestions are based on the "Daily Dozen" exercises laid out by the famous athletic coach, Walter Camp. In the evening, the thought of the morning will be continued in the discussion of the theme, "The True Spirit of Prayer." The sacrament of the Lord's Supper will be observed at the morning service.

In response to the appeal of the First Presbyterian church of Santa Barbara, whose beautiful new $15,000 church was completely destroyed in the recent earthquake and whose people suffered enormously, each one will be asked to bring an offering in a special envelope as an expression of our good will for them and a small aid to help them back to normal conditions.

THOMAS EDISON IS GIVEN BIG TIME AT WEST ORANGE

WEST ORANGE, N. J., July 11.—Business associates of Thomas A. Edison are taking him to a "girly show" tonight, continuing a celebration which has since its first day featured the balking at a questionnaire by the inventor, his demonstration of the law of gravity and the presentation to him of a traveling trunk.

Celebrating the 48th birthday of canned speech, distributors of the device that utilizes the invention for business dictation began a two day convention yesterday at the Edison plant of the Essex country club.

For the forthcoming vacation trip with Henry Ford and Harvey Firestone, a trunk was presented to Edison to be attached to the running board of the car. Mrs. Edison, accepting the gift for her husband, said that in hot weather "this wonderful trunk" would prevent extra clothing attached to the man in front being thrown back on overheated persons in the tonneau.

One of the speakers at a luncheon asked what were the seven qualifications necessary for a leader of men. Everybody flunked. The answer was: character, conscientiousness, character, competence, courage, celerity and caution.

As the deaf inventor was posing for a picture, his ungartered hosiery collegian style, proved the Newtonian law and the throat was amused by the shout "pull up your sock." It came from Mrs. Edison, speaking loudly for the inventor to hear.

Electric ranges are rapidly becoming popular with the apartment house dwellers of Portland, Oregon, states the Electrical News Service bulletin of recent date. From July 1, 1923 to the first of June of this year a total of 14,897 of these electric ranges have been installed in 64 different Portland apartment houses.

In Medford the use of electric ranges is also growing by leaps and bounds. Figures secured from the local office of the power company show that one out of every seven electric customers on the Copco lines is an electric range user.

T. ROOSEVELT'S KIN TO WORK IN CRATER PARK

Douglas Robinson, son of the Assistant Secretary of the Navy Theodore D. Robinson, and Stephen Van Rensselaer, member of a prominent New York family, arrived here yesterday and went immediately to Crater Lake where they will be employed as snow shovelers and forest rangers during the summer.

Young Robinson is a grand nephew of the late President Roosevelt, and Van Rensselaer is descended from Killian Van Rensselaer, the original patron of New York who acquired large estates between 1630 and 1637, and whose family has been socially prominent in New York for nearly 200 years.

OWEN OREGON TEAM TO PLAY HORN BROOK

The Owen Oregon Lumber company baseball team accompanied by 75 to 100 other employees and families will journey to Hornbrook Sunday for a game with the Hornbrook ball tossers.

Following the game a basket picnic will be held on the old toll road and a big time is planned by the mill men.

The Owen Oregon nine has dished up some fine baseball this season and the game with Hornbrook is expected to show real diamond class as the Hornbrook team is touted as being a strong aggregation and able to give the Medford men a hot contest. A return game will be played on the 19th or 26th of this month, according to present plans.
