

A. J. FLOREY FILES SUIT FOR $4100 FOR WAR INJURY

A. J. Florey Jr. of Eagle Point, ex-service man, has returned from Portland, where he says he filed suit against the war veterans' disability compensation bureau, through his attorney, B. A. Green of Portland, for $4100 with interest alleged to be due him on delayed payments for disability. The suit was filed in the federal court at Portland.

LIQUOR CASE AGAIN ON TRIAL IN COURT

For the fourth time in a week, B. J. Hodges and R. Dawson, both of Klamath Falls, faced a jury today in the circuit court charged with possession of liquor. In the present trial, as in the one Friday, their wives are co-defendants. The two women were acquitted, and their mates convicted of selling liquor. The men were convicted in separate trials of selling liquor while armed, and aiding in the sale of liquor. Sentence on the convictions will be passed, when the present trial is completed.

fort to ascertain the truth in this case?"

The court: "Courts are a mockery."

Mr. Darrow: "They are often that, your honor."

The court: "When they permit cross-examination for the purpose of creating prejudice."

Mr. Darrow: "I submit, your honor, there is no sort of question that they are not entitled to cross-examine, that all this evidence is to show what we expect to prove and nothing else and can be nothing else."

The court: "I will say this—If the defense wants to put their proof in the record, in the form of affidavits, of course they can do that. If they put the witnesses on the stand the state desires to cross-examine them. I shall expect them to do so."

Mr. Darrow: "We expected it and take an exception."

The court: "Yes, sir; always expect this court to rule correctly."

Mr. Darrow: "No, sir, we do not." (Laughter.)

The court: "I suppose you anticipated it."

Mr. Darrow: "Otherwise we would not be taking our exceptions here, your honor. We expect to protect our rights in some other court. Now, that is plain enough, isn't it? Then, we will make statements of what we expect to prove. Can we have the rest of the day to present them?"

The court: "I would not say—"

Mr. Darrow: "If your honor takes a half a day to write an opinion—"

The court: "I have not taken—"

Mr. Darrow: "We want to make statements here of what we expect to prove. I do not understand why every request of the state and every suggestion of the prosecution should meet with an endless grant of time, and a bare suggestion of anything that is perfectly competent on our part, should be overruled."

The court: "I hope you do not mean to reflect upon the court."

Mr. Darrow: "Well, your honor has the right to hope."

The court: "I have a right to do something else, perhaps."

Mr. Darrow: "All right, all right."

Apologizes, Court Satisfied

J COURT ROOM, DAYTON, Tenn., July 20.—(By Associated Press.) An apology by Clarence Darrow, acceptance by Judge Raulston, and exchange of handshakes at the afternoon session of the John T. Scopes trial ended the incident of the morning when Mr. Darrow was cited for contempt by the court as an aftermath of his remarks to the court Friday.

As soon as this incident was ended Judge Raulston announced from the bench that the great crowd literally packed into the court room, made the building unsafe and he ordered the proceedings adjourned to the lawn.

Judge Raulston, Clarence Darrow, William Jennings Bryan, Attorney General Stewart, Dudley Field Malone and Arthur G. Hays posed for a "good fellowship" photograph as the crowd fought its way out of the court room onto the lawn below.

The exchange of kind words seemed to restore a general spirit of good cheer among attorneys on both sides of the case and the court and attorneys were in rare good humor as the scene was shifted to the open air.

As court opened for the afternoon session, Darrow was recognized by the court to make a statement. He said that he did not know how hard his words of Friday looked until he had seen the minutes. He said that he was sorry. He said that in his stay in Dayton and vicinity he had been treated with great kindness and appreciated this consideration.

"I don't think any such occasion ever arose before in my practice," he said. "So far as intending to insult the court, I never meant anything of the kind."

DARROW EXPLAINS PURPOSE IS NOT TO HURT BIBLE

DAYTON, Tenn., July 20.—(A. P.)—Court was adjourned in the Scopes case late today with William Jennings Bryan still on the witness stand under examination of Clarence Darrow of defense counsel, who had called Mr. Bryan to testify in the absence of the jury.

In his questioning of the fundamentalist champion, Mr. Darrow read portions of the Bible and asked the witness if he believed them.

Mr. Bryan consistently professed his entire faith in the integrity of the Scriptures.

"These questions are asked for no other reason than to cast ridicule on those who believe in God," Mr. Bryan declared with some heat at one point in the examination. "I am answering them so that the world may know that I am not afraid to speak for Christianity."

"That is exactly the purpose," interposed the attorney general.

"The purpose of these questions," snapped Mr. Darrow, beating a fist into the other palm, "is to prevent bigots and ignoramuses from controlling education in Tennessee."

2 MEN DROWNED IN COOS BAY DISTRICT

MARSHFIELD, Ore., July 20.—(A. P.) A. J. McBride, aged 28, was drowned near Myrtle Point last evening while bathing in the river. McBride, who was unable to swim, got beyond his depth when he stepped into a deep hole. Clifford Applegate, also unable to swim, tried to reach him and also nearly drowned.

MEDFORD PASTOR AGAIN HONORED BY SYNOD VOTE

EUGENE, Ore., July 20.—Trustees for the Albany college and for the San Francisco Theological Seminary were elected today by the 35th annual Presbyterian synod of the state of Oregon. A complete report on the educational phases of the body was also given.

Members of the board of trustees for Albany college were elected as follows: William Portmiller, Albany; J. H. Wilkinson, North Bend; Mrs. J. C. Elliot King, Portland; Frank J. Miller, Albany; Joseph Ralston, Albany; Mrs. Fannie Rood, Portland; John E. Wheeler, Portland; and Percy E. Young, Albany.

The newly elected moderator of the synod, Rev. E. P. Lawrence, of Medford, was elected to fill the vacancy of W. W. Long, of Salem, on the board of trustees of the Theological Seminary of San Francisco. Mr. Long has moved from the territory. Dr. E. H. Pence of Portland was elected to the class of 1934 on the board of trustees of the seminary. Albany college has obtained complete standardization from the bureau of education, it was stated in the report on the college. The program for education along Christian lines of young people of the state was given and accepted. The weekday school movement showed a total of 25 schools with an attendance of 2318 pupils receiving one or more hours of Bible study each day in the state.

Road houses in Oregon which do not come under the dance hall heading were severely scolded by Rev. W. J. Herwig of the Anti-Saloon League in the principal address of the morning session. The Rev. Mr. Herwig declared that within a radius of 100 miles from Portland 5000 young people below the age of 20 dance nightly until 1 o'clock. Petitions asking that road houses be included in the law prohibiting dancing in halls after 12 o'clock at night are to be circulated in a few weeks, the speaker said.

FIRE DEPT. DELAYED BY FREIGHT TRAIN, HOUSE IS DESTROYED

A small, three room dwelling house at 1024 West 11th street was completely destroyed by fire of unknown origin about 3 o'clock Sunday morning, having gained such headway before the alarm was turned into the fire department that the firemen could do nothing to save the vacant building.

The lurid glow of the flames was seen by a motorist as he was passing through Phoenix en route to Medford, and it was not until he arrived in the city that the alarm was turned into the department by some unknown person as being on West Eighth street. The Pope-Hartford truck, which was used in transporting to the fire, was delayed at the West 11th street crossing by a long and slow moving freight train for several minutes, and naturally when the department arrived at the fire, the house was a total loss.

The building, valued at several hundred dollars, was owned by Ray Peck and had been tenanted until a short time ago.

Low altitudes in mild climates favor natural ventilation, eliminating the dangers that attend artificial housing and heating.

YOUNG COWBOY IS BADLY HURT IN CLASH WITH BULL

Willie Helms, age 12 years, thought to be the youngest active cowboy in the state, and a master horseman, sustained a broken leg Saturday afternoon at his father's ranch near the Josephine county line, while lassoing a young bull for dehorning. Willie's leg was crushed between a corral post and his horse.

The accident happened when Willie lassoed the bull and put spurs to his mount to beat the animal to the gate. The bull headed off the horse, and in the wild scramble of rope, boy and bovine, the horse crashed into the fence.

The horse Billy was riding is one of the fastest in Josephine county and won several races at the 1924 Josephine county fair.

According to his uncle, George Porter, Billy is a creek rider, and a good hand with stock, for which he has a special liking.

He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. A. J. Helms, former residents of this city, and is one of the best known little boys in southern Oregon.

OREGON GIRL IS SHOT, BOY DIDN'T KNOW GUN LOADED

SALEM, Ore., July 20.—Pearl Moore, 18-year-old daughter of Jesse Moore of Hoppers, this county, was shot in the back of the neck Saturday evening while riding in an automobile on the Hoppers-Wheatland road, the bullet passing through the right side of her neck, denting the main artery and going on into her right cheek, where it lodged near the nose. She will recover, barring possibility of infection.

Oswald Koenig, 14 years old, who did the shooting, and Eddie Koenig, his 16-year-old brother, with him at the time, were picked up by Deputy Sheriffs Smith and Burkhardt this morning and brought to Salem for questioning by Sheriff Bower.

Both boys acknowledge their connection with the shooting, but aver it was purely accidental, arising from the fact that neither of the boys supposed the repeating rifle with which the shooting was done was loaded.

According to the boys' story, they had been at Hoppers, a few miles from their home and with some other boys had been firing at targets. Starting home alone, they had been shooting at various objects. Believing there was but one shell in the gun they stated that Oswald put the gun on the pavement, turned it toward the side of the road and shot it into the brush.

Oswald then shouldered the gun and they walked on. The car carrying Miss Moore, with her brother, Lloyd, passed the two boys. Oswald Koenig stated that he raised the gun to his shoulder and snapped the trigger. He declared the gun, as expected, happened when there was a report from the gun and the bullet hit the rear of the car.

When they saw what had happened they jumped to the side of the road and ran away through the brush.

INSULTING TO MAN

universe, the world and all the life in it.

He called attention to the fact that man closely resembles certain members of the animal world in every bone and organ of his body. Differences were noted but they were differences of degree rather than of kind. Those animals most closely resembling man were the anthropoid apes.

Jacob G. Lipman, dean of the College of Agriculture and director of the New Jersey Agricultural Experiment station, discussed organic evolution from the point of view of the soil investigation.

"A direct relation may be traced," he said, "between soils, plants and animals in the evolution of organic life."

Bacteria capable of developing in purely mineral medium, such forms being found in the sea today, prepared the way for the more highly organized beings, he said. Some bacteria are able to manufacture nitrogen compounds out of the simple nitrogen gas of the air. They thus supply the material out of which the protoplasm of plant and animal cells is made.

Charles Hubbard Judd, director of the school of education, University of Chicago, declared a serious national disaster threatens if the votes of legislators rather than scientific investigators are to determine the details to be taught in the public schools of the country.

Kirtley F. Mather, chairman of the department of geology at Harvard university, traced the geologic periods indicating evolutionary evidences in each and declared: "None of these facts is really in any way disturbing to the adherent of Christianity."
