

LLEWELLYN BANKS CONTROLS MARKET NEW ORGANIZATION

A new California and Oregon marketing organization, known as the Suncrest Orchards, under the management of Llewellyn A. Banks, has leased the large packing and precooling plant built and formerly occupied by the Oregon Growers Packing corporation, and during the past several weeks have been engaged in completely overhauling this plant and installing an entirely new type of machinery, which will greatly increase the capacity of the plant as well as reduce the cost of operation to a minimum.

The entire credit for devising and constructing this new type of machinery may be given to Earl Baker, one of the co-partners and field manager of the Suncrest Orchards, and to his very capable assistants, O. C. Odell and Bob Clay, whose combined genius in handling large packing plants promises to revolutionize this phase of the packing business throughout the entire northwest.

The Rogue River Properties, Inc., whose crops will be marketed through the Suncrest Orchards, will be greatly benefited by the big reduction in cost of operation provided by these new and modern facilities.

The Suncrest Orchards has brought many important and fundamental changes in the manner in which crops are contracted and sold by the grower to the packer. The most important of these changes is the establishment of a rule to buy all grades and sizes at a stipulated price. This new rule obviates immediately any misunderstandings between buyer and seller as to the grade of the fruit.

The Suncrest Orchards further has established a spot cash market at Medford where any grower at any time can cash in his product at the ruling market price.

J. R. Banks, sales manager of the Suncrest Orchards, has had wide experience in the marketing of citrus and deciduous fruits in California and he has just returned from an extensive trip throughout the eastern part of the United States and Canada, where he visited old acquaintances in all the leading markets.

He devoted his exclusive attention on this trip to advertising the exceptional quality of the Rogue river pears and succeeded in interesting some of the largest buyers in the east, both for home consumption and export on the Rogue river products. He anticipates no difficulty in disposing of the entire output of the Suncrest Orchards and Rogue River Properties on the f. o. b. basis.

It is the purpose of this marketing company to encourage the eastern buyers to buy this product continuously on the f. o. b. plan, which provides for the fixing of values at the point of production and not at the point of distribution, several thousand miles away. This without doubt constitutes the most remarkable and encouraging change in marketing methods over former methods that has taken place within the past 15 years.

In an article published in the Mail Tribune on July 23, in which attention was called to a big land deal involving the Suncrest, Mira Vista and Glen Rose orchards, through an unintentional oversight the name of Llewellyn A. Banks was not included among the stockholders in the Rogue River Properties, Inc. Mr. Banks retains a large interest in these properties and further has a contract covering the marketing of the crops.

3 INJURED WHEN CARS CRASH, SALEM

SALEM, Ore., July 27.—Mrs. Frank Enns of Reedley, Cal., was seriously hurt when the roadster in which she and her son-in-law were driving collided with a car driven by J. W. Pease, taxi driver of this city, on the Pacific highway four miles north of Woodburn at 7:30 o'clock last night. Aaron Neufeld, Mrs. Enns' son-in-law, escaped without a scratch.

4TH CHILD CLINIC WILL BE HELD IN LIBRARY FRIDAY

The fourth Medford child welfare clinic will be conducted in the basement of the Public Library Friday afternoon, July 31, from 2 to 5 p. m. by the Jackson County Health Unit. Dr. V. S. Geary, county health officer, will examine the babies, assisted by Miss Irene Mann, public health nurse, and Miss Josephine Koppes, office secretary.

Children under six years of age will be registered. Mothers are requested to telephone 491 for appointments. A physical examination will be made of each child, including weighing and measuring.

Mrs. E. G. Burgess and Mrs. H. L. Noblit of the Jackson County Public Health association will assist with the records.

Literature will be furnished by the Metropolitan Life insurance company and the United States department of labor.

Judging by the requests for appointments—the permanent child welfare conference in Medford has been a decid success. This permanent clinic was the third one of this type to be established in Oregon and it is hoped all Jackson county parents will take advantage of it. The fourth permanent clinic in the state was established in Ashland in June, under the auspices of the County Health Unit and Jackson County Public Health association.

FOREST FIRES IN JACKSON COUNTY NOW CONTROLLED

The fourth fire to burn during the past ten days within an acre of three square miles was put under control yesterday near Sprigette Butte, 25 miles north of Medford, under the direction of state district fire warden, P. B. Lowd.

The fire covered an area of approximately 50 acres of brush and reproduction, requiring the services of 10 men to subdue it. Although it burned but yesterday afternoon, it managed to gain such great headway because of a strong wind which blew it over the side of a mountain, that it was very difficult for the men to fight.

Of the four fires in that region, only one is attributed to lightning, while the other three are attributed to either carelessness of campers or to incendiarism. Over 240 acres of timber and brush were burned, but it is understood the financial loss is not great.

In the Crater National forest one small fire was reported to the local office yesterday as burning near Butte creek, a stream in Klamath county, northeast of Crater Lake National Park, and on timber land operated by the Pelican Bay Lumber Co. No word has been received as to its seriousness.

A small lightning fire was also reported as burning near Bald Crater in the Crater Lake National Park, but as above, further information is lacking.

The maximum of traffic and service over the cut-off may not be reached immediately, said the assistant general manager. "The right-of-way will be 'green' and probably subjected to traffic interruptions from slides, snow drifts or other obstacles which will be eliminated when the route is 'seasoned'."

Burekhalter, as supervisor of operating lines, will assume charge of the cut-off when construction work is completed. His trip to Klamath Falls at this time, therefore, is somewhat in the nature of preparation for his connection with the new route sometime in the future.

PASSENGERS TO TRAVEL OVER OLD S. PACIFIC LINE

When the Natron cut-off is completed most of the through freight traffic will be routed through Klamath Falls and passenger traffic over the cut-off and the old Siskiyou route will probably be about evenly divided, said P. L. Burekhalter, assistant general manager of the Southern Pacific, in Klamath Falls last Saturday. He was in that city familiarizing himself in a general way with the work now being done on the cut-off.
