

Local and Personal

The weather has been gradually working up the past few days to another of those disagreeable local temporary heat spells with a maximum of 100 yesterday, and a minimum this morning of 58 which promised a day at least as warm as yesterday, if not warmer. "Fair and moderately warm" is the official prediction for Saturday, in view of the fact that the prediction for yesterday also forecasted "moderately warm weather" for today, most anything may be looked for.

The many friends of Fred L. Heath, Sr. and family, are happy over the fact that the well known business man, who has been quite ill for the past six weeks, is now on the road to complete recovery, although still confined to bed. Beginning with several days ago Mr. Heath is allowed to sit up a short while each morning and is also allowed a brief auto ride in the morning. However, his complete recovery will be gradual, and it is expected that six more weeks will elapse before he will be able to resume business duties.

Jesse Winburn, who cut a dash in Oregon politics in the 1922 campaign and then left the state, arrived in Portland yesterday and is registered at the Benson. Mr. Winburn took a fancy to Walter M. Pierce and offered to contribute several thousand dollars to the Pierce campaign, but Mr. Winburn handled the money himself.

Some of this was devoted to holding a 9 o'clock tea in the parlors of the Benson, but this was a society stunt which did not meet with the enthusiastic approval of the campaign manager of the old gentleman, Mr. Pierce. Mr. Winburn was a Santa Claus for Ashland for several years, but following the election of Mr. Pierce he pulled up stakes and went east.—Portland Oregonian.

"Art" Vronman, driver of one of the Crater Lake stages, who was returning here last evening from Klamath Falls via the Green Spring mountain road and Ashland made a slight error in passing Chief of Police McNabb on the highway on the outskirts of Ashland, and hence was arrested by the chief on the charge of speeding at 35 miles an hour, although "Art" crosses his heart and hopes to die if he was going any faster than 30 miles an hour. Nevertheless he planned this morning to appear in justice court, plead guilty and take whatever was handed out to him in the way of a fine. He favors a new state law which would compel all police and traffic officers to wear red lights on their cars when out for an evening ride.
