RECKLESS DRIVER IS GIVEN MONTH IN JAIL, $25 FINE

Because of driving a motor vehicle in a reckless manner and colliding with an oil truck Wednesday afternoon at the intersection of North Riverside and Jackson street, H. M. Webber of Central Point was fined $25, sentenced to spend one month in the county jail, and suffer the suspension of his driver's license for three months. Policeman Prescott was the first to arrive on the scene, but was soon assisted by State Traffic Officer J. J. McMahon and Sheriff Jennings, who were returning to Medford after having investigated a collision on the highway north of this city. After the collision, Webber sprang out of his car and attempted to avoid arrest by fleeing from the scene. However, he was soon apprehended by the three officers. Three other traffic violation cases also came up before the judge, all of which were speeding. 116*

Paul Robertson of the Eagle Point district was fined $10 by Judge Taylor for speeding on July 30 on his plea of guilty to the charge preferred against him by State Traffic Officer J. J. McMahon. J. O. Reed, a traveling salesman pleaded guilty to speeding and was fined $15, the same officer making the complaint. H. D. Austin, a tourist, pleaded guilty to a charge of speeding preferred against him by State Traffic Officer C. P. Talent, and was fined a similar amount by the court. 116*

MYSTERY FACTORS SHROUD DEATH CHEMISTRY GENIUS

MARTINEZ, Cal., Aug. 1.—(A. P.)—Continued investigation by police and others tended today to disprove the theory of murder in connection with the death at Walnut creek of a man thought to be Charles Henry Schwartz, chemist of Berkeley. The body was found in the laboratory of the Pacific Cellulose company after there had been an explosion. It happened within a few minutes of the time that Schwartz had notified the president of the company of the perfection of a compound to be used in the manufacture of artificial silk. 116*

The fact of accident rather than murder, however, depends chiefly for definite proof upon its being established that the partly charred corpse which the firemen found lying on the laboratory floor was that of the Berkeley chemist. Mrs. Schwartz, his wife, again today made a careful examination of the body in the presence of the Contra Costa sheriff's officers. She said she was sure that it was that of her husband. Professor E. O. Heinrich, University of California criminologist, is of the opinion that if the body can be identified as Schwartz's there is little doubt but that the death was accidental. Professor Heinrich examined a portion of the stomach and was unable to find traces of cucumbers and beans supposed to have been eaten by Schwartz early on the night of the accident. He examined only a small portion of the stomach, however. 116*

Under Sheriff Veale is quite sure the death was accidental, although he concedes that several factors enter into the case which yet must be cleared up to substantiate this theory. Blood clots found in a closet some distance from where the body lay, he explains on the supposition that after the laboratory had been set afire by the explosion, Schwartz rushed into the closet to get a blanket to fight the flames and then was seized with a hemorrhage caused by the fumes. Professor Heinrich believes that version in explanation of the blood clots is quite probable. The charred exterior sides of double doors of the laboratory, and the presence of a kerosene-soaked rag remain to be explained away if the accidental version is to be accepted, but as the investigation progresses, the preponderance of evidence seems to favor the belief that the blast was purely accidental. 116*

LACK OF DIRT IN DIAMOND LAKE IS FATAL TO TROUT

ROSEBURG, Ore., Aug. 1.—Heavy losses in fish fry in Diamond Lake, Ore. ridge and other hatcheries of the state are caused by the extreme purity of the water, in the belief of T. H. Hill, superintendent of the Rock Creek trout hatchery, east of Roseburg, who in his monthly report to the state game commission, mailed today, recommends that experiments be conducted in stopping deaths by stirring dirt into the pools. A fish, like a chicken, requires a certain amount of grit in its digestive organs, Mr. Hill says. A salmon or trout does not pick this up from the bottom of a pool, as some other fish do, but must depend upon the grit carried in the water itself. Mr. Hill says that the trout fry at the Rock Creek hatchery were dying in large numbers, and he was unable to determine the cause, but one day happened to notice that the deaths in one pool ceased immediately after he had dug a divergency ditch, which caused the water to become roiled. Proceeding upon the theory that the water was lacking in grit, he immediately reduced the deaths in his feeding pools, he says, by shovelling clay into the pools regularly. He now feeds the fish dirt systematically as he provides them with food, and says that losses have been reduced to a minimum. 116*
