There will be no welcoming reception at the depot this afternoon for the D. O. K. K. band, as had been planned, as it was learned last night that for the D. O. K. K. convention at Aberdeen, Wash., the delegation of the local temple attending dispersed to come home as individuals when they choose and that a number of the band members are remaining in the northern territory to enjoy vacations. Later on, when all the band members have returned, some kind of a reception will be held to celebrate the band having captured first prize during the Aberdeen convention.

Modern business is replete with overnight "big sellers." And then on the morrow their decline is as rapid.

"Cheaping the product is the answer to the natural question, 'why.'"

Fluhrer's Milk Bread is over two years old, and any grocery man will tell you the demand it has acquired is still growing. There is only one answer to this, "why?"

A quality, uniformly good product day in and day out.
