

50,000 KLANSMEN READY TO PARADE WASHINGTON, D. C.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 7 (A. P.)—A parade of 50,000 robed members of the Ku Klux Klan moving down Pennsylvania avenue from the capital to the White House was promised for tomorrow in final plans made today by headquarters of the organization. The marchers, walking 16 abreast, will start at 2 o'clock and will finish their parade in the parkway near the Washington monument, where telephone amplifiers will be installed to carry the voices of speakers who will take part in the ceremonies to all parts of the crowd expected to gather there. Some officials expect the parade to last until midnight.

Police officials today made elaborate plans to handle the influx of visitors and to prevent disorder. The public has been assured, however, that no disturbance is expected.

The first arrest in connection with the Klan demonstration occurred today when Thomas L. Avcant, who has been violently assaulting the organization in handbills, was taken into custody. No charge was placed against him and he was released.

Klan headquarters declared a large contingent of the visitors would be made up of members of the women's auxiliary. During the parade the women will serve refreshments to the marchers. Automobile trucks have been obtained for conveying the refreshments.

A fiery cross will be burned at the Arlington horse show grounds on the Virginia side of the Potomac facing Washington on Sunday night. The Klan declares it will be the largest cross ever burned by the organization.

BEND MAN BADLY BURNED TRYING TO SAVE BLAZING CAR

BEND, Aug. 7.—In an attempt, by keeping his hand over the open vent of a Chevrolet gas tank while enveloped in flames, to save the car and building, Kurd Hirsch, rancher, living 12 miles from Millican was badly burned from finger tips to shoulder of his left arm early last evening. Herbert Moore, neighboring rancher, in attempting to extinguish the flames enveloping Hirsch, was burned in the same manner on his right arm.

Moore, running short of gasoline visited Hirsch to borrow a small amount. Moore carried a lantern as both men entered the garage to secure the gasoline. After giving Moore his supply, Hirsch, announcing he was going to town thought he would fill the tank of his car. Moore set the lantern down near the car, as Hirsch unscrewed the cap off the gas tank.

No sooner had the fumes from the car tank struck the lantern, than a volume of flames enveloped the garage. No explosion occurred. Hirsch clapped his hand over the tank and remained there in spite of being enveloped in flames.

Both men finally gave up attempts to save the car and each a mass of flames rushed outside rolling over and over in loose plowed ground. The fire on their clothing extinguished, the men then ran to the barn and rescued horses, cattle and livestock. Hirsch also saved his chickens.

The loss included the automobile, garage, all tools, the barn, 25 tons of hay. Hirsch carried on insurance. The two men arrived in Bend this morning, where their burns were attended by a physician.

JUDGE RULES ON CASE BEFORE ALL TESTIMONY IS IN

SALEM, Ore., Aug. 7.—"This fellow will either pay up what he owes on the support of his two children or go to jail."

So saying, Judge McMahan rose from the bench and walked out of the courtroom in the middle of taking testimony in contempt proceedings against John Olson, Polk county rancher, this morning.

"You can go on and let the court reporter take the testimony for the record if you want to," said Judge McMahan, "but I've heard enough. I know the facts and that's all I want to know."

Olson was divorced 14 months ago. At the time the court issued an order requiring Olson to pay $25 a month for support of his two children by his first wife.

According to Olson's own testimony on the stand he had made one $25 payment. Once he had tendered another $10 payment.

At this juncture the judge interfered with the proceedings.

"I have heard enough and know the facts in the case," he declared. "The country is full of fellows running around, able-bodied men, who marry a woman, have children by her and then leave her to support the children.

They then hunt around in new pastures and marry another woman. They are morally irresponsible. This fellow here can either pay up or go to jail."

After a hurried conference agreement was reached that Olson's father would put up the money to pay back expenses.

3 HOLDUP MEN MAKE CLEANUP JUNCTION CITY

EUGENE, Ore., Aug. 7.—Holdup men operated in Junction City early this morning, robbing a man of $96, a restaurant of $25 and a pool hall of $6.

The robbery was committed in the Monogram restaurant, operated in connection with Ben's smoke house and pool room at 4 o'clock a. m. The night cook at the all night restaurant, reported the hold up, saying that three men entered the place, ordered coffee, and paid for it. After drinking the coffee, the strangers bought two cartons of cigarettes. The cook, who is in charge of the cigar counter at night, made change on the other side, turned, and found two of the men pointing revolvers at him.

While the two men held the guns on the cook, the other rifled the cash registers, taking $25 from one, and $5 and $6 in small change from the other. They then went through their victim's clothes, taking away $96 of his own money.

The holdup, reported to night patrolmen of the Eugene police department and later to the sheriff's office was at first connected with the robbery at the Towne Shoppe, as the theft in Eugene was discovered just about the time of the robbery in Junction City.

This theory of the officers was further heightened by the statement that the Junction City robbers left on the Pacific highway, going north in a light automobile.

The sheriff's office is making a careful investigation of the Junction City hold up, and police in towns north have been notified.
