NEWTON
 IN STUCCO and half timber gables with wide siding for the first story you have here a pleasing combination and a small home which affords compactness of plan and all modern conveniences now demanded by the average home owner. Extra rooms may be provided in the attic, which is roomy and reached by stairs from the entrance hall. Adequate wall space is provided for the larger pieces of furniture in each room, and there is a good sized closet and bath connecting with the bedroom.

WHAT IS HOME?
 Eight hundred replies came to the question "What Is Home?" The most popular answer was: "Home—The place where we grumble the most and are treated the best."
Make Your Home More Than a Place in Which to Grumble
 An architecturally correct home means economy, convenience and satisfaction—nothing to grumble about. Yet it costs no more than the haphazard kind.
 Hundreds of modern home designs are on display at this office. They are architecturally correct, economical to construct and conveniently arranged.
