

Local and Personal

For the second time this summer the old city reservoir was cleaned of all sediment, which had gathered there from the water. A very small amount was found in comparison to what was expected. The new reservoir has been cleaned three times, and both are in the very best of condition. Today for the first time during two months they are filled with water, which had not been accomplished before because of the huge consumption by the city.

When the Firemen Ran

In those days, if the call to the volunteers was in your behalf—if your home or your business establishment was in flames you faced ruin.

There was no great organization to spread its protective mantle over you to hold you safe from loss.

Today fire insurance is a great institution reaching from business to the home with protective rates judged exactly to the risk. It stands between a dread element and you.

Fire need never mean a loss if you will insure and be sure.

We care for your every insurance need.
