Cattle Market Outlook Improves

The beef cattle man may now have his inning at higher prices. While the cattle population of the western range states has decreased, a final liquidation of the surplus may send about as many cattle from that section as last year, and the price trend is distinctly upward, according to P. V. Ewing, director of the Research Division of the Sears-Roebuck Agricultural Foundation. More carcasses of beef received the stamp of federal inspectors in the first five months of 1925 than in the corresponding period of any previous year except 1918 and 1919. Average prices at Chicago are about one dollar higher than in 1924. The average farm price of beef cattle April 15, the most recent report, was $6.55 against $5.82 last year, $5.78 the year previous and $5.53 three years ago. CALIFORNIANS INTERESTED IN SAMS V. PROPERTY

SAMS VALLEY, Ore., Aug. 20.—A flock of land seekers have been viewing this section recently with keen interest. These men have been from California, from where we understand the people have their eyes "set on Rogue river valley," and we know that such a delightful little valley as our own could not help but share in their interest.

At the last meeting of the grange a new master was elected after the resignation of Fred Croft, former master. John Cameron was elected and installed. Some other business of the meeting was the appointment of a committee to investigate the probability of giving a picnic with invitation to all grangers.

Some California buyers are reported to be looking for land that will produce crops without irrigation, and we know Sams valley comes as near as any place in doing that.

An all-day religious meeting will be held at the schoolhouse Sunday with Rev. White of Ashland in charge. All are invited to bring your baskets and attend.

Several from here attended the grange picnic at Rogue River Saturday.

At the Jackson county Pomona organization Tom Pankey was chosen gatekeeper and Mrs. O. T. Wilson secretary.

State Master Palmer was in attendance and was of great help, as well as interest to those present.

Friends of Mr. and Mrs. J. B. Fisher are glad to know they are recovering from their recent illness.

Some of our truck gardeners are exhibiting some very fine melons and other fine vegetables, for which they report there is little sale.

The harvesting of the Bartlett pear crop is nearing completion. Some fine specimens of the fruit have been shown this season.
