

INHERITANCE TAX FORCING NATION INTO SOCIALISM?

PORTLAND, Ore., Aug. 27.—(A. P.)—Estate and inheritance taxes are rapidly forcing this nation into a socialist government. R. A. Vandergrieff of Los Angeles, director of research of the California Taxation Improvement association, declared in an address today before the Western States Taxpayers conference on the "overlap of state and federal income, inheritance and estate taxes."

"The death dues," as he termed the inheritance and estate taxes were most roundly denounced by the speaker. He declared these taxes are driving men of means away from states that impose them to the states that do not. Mr. Vandergrieff said California collects annually $6,500,000 in inheritance tax.

Figures were given showing that the total state and federal total inheritance taxes collected in 1921 were $218,500,000, and in 1924, $184,500,000. He stated a possible case where an American worth $10,000,000 could die and the estate and inheritance taxes that could be levied on his estate would total $15 per cent of it.

"A man will keep his residence where the tax burden is the least," he said.

Fifteen states now have an income tax; this money being imposed in addition to the "annual headtax" produced by the national income tax.

Vandergrieff declared "taxes are a part of the price we pay for civilization—we cannot get away from taxes, no sane man expects to." But, he maintained that "we should be sure the money raised by taxation is needed and that it is economically spent."

He said that last year in the state of New York, $430,000,000 was the total sum collected in state and local district taxation alone, to say nothing of what was paid by New Yorkers into the federal treasury.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 27.—A complete resume of flying operations of the navy airplanes with the MacMillan Arctic expedition was received here today from Lieutenant Commander Byrd by radio, in response to a request from the National Geographic society.

This dispatch shows that the three planes flew an aggregate of 6,666 miles and saw an area nearly as large as the state of Ohio. Only one forced landing was necessary during all the flights.

The dispatch follows:

"My records show that the planes have a total of 75 hours and 50 minutes flying time, which at 30 miles per hour equals 6,666 miles total flown; by NA-1 away from Etah, 2506 miles; by NA-2, 1714 miles; by NA-3, 1672 miles.

"Total miles flown away from Etah by three planes on work accomplished flight mission 5292 miles.

"The only forced landing occurred at these flights. The NA-3 was forced down on the way to Iqoq, Dabouay, a half mile from Etah harbor. Approximately 30,000 square miles was seen from the planes on these flights. Of course many of the flights were made over the same course south and southeast of Etah, extending for at least 75 miles.

"These are mountain ranges and mountain peaks, some of which reach an altitude of at least 7500 feet and mostly covered with snow, except a few comparatively low ranges near Etah.

"These mountain ranges do not show on any charts I have seen. Mountain ranges lie nearly all the way from Sawyer Bay to Canon Fiord and it is thought that this region is unexplored by white men. No mountains are shown on charts in a direction 315 degrees from Sawyer Bay, but there are mountains in that region that extend at least 25 miles.

"There is a lake about two miles long frozen over in the mountains between Sawyer Bay and Canon Fiord about 200 miles from the northwest end of Sawyer Bay.

"The Greenland ice cap reaches an altitude of at least 10,000 feet in a direction 100 degrees from Robertson Bay.

"It is thought that little has been known heretofore of ice conditions around Ellmore Island in the summer period. Nearly all of the many fiords seen by us show them to be filled with ice which occasionally opens up but soon closes in again. Bay Fied and Ellmore Sound, east of Axel Heiberg Island is filled with drifting ice.

"The land in Ellmore Island is too curved to afford a landing place.

"In the territory flown over the Greenland icecap a comparatively warm stratum of air was experienced at 7000 feet, and a bitterly cold one at 11,000 feet."

JAP AMBASSADOR PAYS HIS TRIBUTE TO EDGAR BANCROFT

CHICAGO, Aug. 27.—(A. P.)—Ambassador Tsuneko Matsudaira, the Japanese representative at Washington, came here today to pay his nation's last tribute to the late Edgar A. Bancroft, who died in Tokyo, where he was the ambassador from the United States.

Ambassador Matsudaira became acquainted with Mr. Bancroft while serving as minister of foreign affairs.

"Everyone who knew the ambassador regarded him as a man of fine character," said Ambassador Matsudaira, as he arrived from Washington.

"He endeared himself to all whom he came in contact with. His death was a great blow to Japan as well as to America.

"You lost a worthy representative and we lost a good man.

"So I am here in respect to his memory and to pay a last tribute.

"For many years to come we will feel his loss. He arrived in Japan at a rather difficult time. Although he was there only a short time, the Japanese people will mourn his death for many years."

NORTH POLE PLANES FLEW 6066 MILES, NEW LAND CHARTED

WASHINGTON, Aug. 27.—(A. P.)—The Manchurian bandits who are holding Dr. Harvey J. Howard, American eye specialist of the Peking Union Medical college, for ransom, have evaded the Chinese troops who had surrounded them, and have taken their prisoner by boat up the Hsuehwan river to a point 250 miles from Uchun, in the Manchurian province of Holungkiang. This information was received here in a telegram from Roger S. Greene, general manager in China for the Rockefeller Institute, who adds that Manchurian troops of the Holungkiang forces are pursuing the bandits.

The blood saturated clothing which Mrs. Loren wore when she left the San Francisco hotel on the night of August 19, found scattered about in the El Cerrito swamp, wrapped in sections of Oakland newspapers, later identified by Mrs. Ferguson as her daughter's. It was the first time the mother definitely had admitted the identity of the swamp victim as her daughter, Mrs. Loren.

From a tag found stuffed in a discarded bundle in the swamp along with two bloodstained sheets and the lining of the black traveling bag, investigators learned today that the supposed murderer or murderers drove a Chevrolet automobile when disposing of the dismembered body. They said the tag had been attached to a headlight reflector purchased, they believed, at an Oakland garage or automobile supply house.

Investigators also said they had learned that Mrs. Loren at different times used the names of Mrs. Sidney D'Asquith, Mrs. J. J. Loren and Mrs. Bessie Angel. The mother and Sidney D'Asquith was her daughter's former husband and they were married when Bessie was 15, but later separated. Mrs. Ferguson could not account for the name Loren used by her daughter, nor the name of Angel.

Authorities are convinced the infant's clothing belonged to Mrs. Bessie Loren, Oakland nurse and supposed murder victim. The suit of WASHINGTON, Aug. 27.—(A. P.) The feature of the Anglo-French debt settlement which involves the question of the French ability to pay is regarded here as having an important bearing on the forthcoming Franco-American debt discussion here. Acting Secretary Winston of the treasury said that obviously the amount France has agreed to pay the London government will have to be considered by the American debt commission when it analyzes the capacity of the French nation to liquidate its obligations here.

Mr. Winston added, however, that the relationship of this government to those nations which owe it money is strictly that of a creditor, while the relationship between the allied debtors and creditors is complicated in his opinion, by questions confined strictly to European affairs.

describe the murder about as follows: The pale quivered at a Los Angeles hotel February 21 last. He determined to kill her. He plied her with liquor at his usual office. When they left there to motor to the Beverly Glen suburban cabin he took along a cone of venial gas.

Placed Wife With Liquor. Entrance to the Glen she fell into a drunken stupor. He affixed the cone to her mouth and nose and administered a fatal quantity of the vapor. Arrived at the cabin, he placed Mrs. Young's body in a wheelbarrow and trundled it to a cavern beneath the dwelling. Later he sealed the body in the bottom of the cavern with concrete. The slain woman's unsuspecting son, Patrick Grogan, helped to mix the concrete, content with his stepfather's explanation of what he was doing.

"The sister looks; I'll have to put a new bottom in it."

When the relatives of Mrs. Young demanded an investigation of her disappearance, the dentist produced letters, purporting to have been written by her and indicating that she had gone to Paris to obtain a divorce. In his confessions he explained she had written those at his request while she was under the influence of liquor.

Questioning of Patrick Grogan, heir to $1,500,000, the estate of Patrick Grogan, the "olive king," convinced authorities that Young planned to murder the boy also in order to inherit the estate. He had succeeded in having the boy make a will to him which was destroyed after the arrest and confession.
