MORSE

WHILE especially adapted to northern climates, the steep roof is at present a general favorite. The fireplace and hood arrangement over front entrance is decidedly distinctive. Two bedrooms are usually desired by the average family, and with the large living room and dining alcove there is room enough to last the ordinary family for some time. Good sized attic affords much desired attic space for storage.

WHAT IS HOME?

Eight hundred replies came to the question "What Is Home?" The most popular answer was: "Home—The place where we grumble the most and are treated the best."

Make Your Home More Than a Place in Which to Grumble

An architecturally correct home means economy, convenience and satisfaction—nothing to grumble about. Yet it costs no more than the haphazard kind.

Hundreds of modern home designs are on display at this office. They are architecturally correct, economical to construct and conveniently arranged.
