SENATORS ARRIVE, PUBLIC BANQUET AT 6.30 TONIGHT

Although arranged for on short notice since yesterday noon, the dinner reception this evening under Chamber of Commerce auspices to the sub-committee of the public lands committee of the United States senate, of which Senator Robert N. Stanford is chairman, promises to be a big civic affair. The banquet begins at 6:30 o'clock in the big dining room at the Hotel Medford, and is open to the public, ladies included. Plates are $1 each, and all now without tickets should phone the chamber for reservations.

The members of the senatorial sub-committee party arrived in the city this afternoon, their special coach being attached to southbound passenger train No. 53. The party was met at the train by a committee of local businessmen headed by Dr. R. W. Clancy, president of the chamber of commerce, and conducted to their hotel, after which the distinguished visitors were given a ride through the valley.

The sub-committee have been on a tour of the Pacific country for some time, looking into the grazing fee situation, and stopped off here en route to Klamath Falls, via Crater Lake, where they will hold a public hearing on Monday. They will spend tonight in Medford and leave for Crater Lake tomorrow morning.

The senatorial committee now on tour include Senators Stanford of Oregon, chairman, Cameron of Arizona, Odde of Nevada, Dale of Vermont, Phil of Washington, Jones of New Mexico, Kendrick of Wyoming and Ashhurst of Arizona.

Representative Sinnott of Oregon may also be in the party. Others in the party are John Holland and George Bowden, counselors of the committee; Ingham Mack, clerk of the committee; L. C. Smears, Washington correspondent of the New York Times, and George Anther, Washington correspondent of the New York World.

Among others accompanying the senatorial party here from Portland is expected to be Colonel W. L. Greeley, chief of the U. S. forest service, and Captain G. Hare, chief of the field division of the United States land office at Washington.

7 DEER KILLED AND 2 OFFICIALS HURT

SAN RAFAEL, Cal., Sept. 5.—(A. P.)—Although seven deer were killed yesterday at the Victor Gun club, near here, two Marin county officials also figured among the casualties. A herd of deer stampeded when hunters began shooting at them, Charles Redding, county treasurer, suffered bruises when knocked down by one of the animals, and J. Ray Keaton, county coroner, received lacerations on the neck when stepped on by a fleeing deer. Keaton "got it in the neck" while sleeping on a knoll near the camp.

CONVICT MURDERER SHOWS NO REMORSE, HAD A HARD TIME

PORTLAND, Ore., Sept. 5.—W. R. Lloyd, ex-convict and confessed slayer of C. F. Baun, Independence garage man, held in the Multnomah county jail following his arrest in The Dalles Wednesday, today showed no signs of remorse.

"I had been bumming around Independence for a couple of days," said Lloyd. "I have an uncle there in the hop fields. I wanted to see my folks, who are working in the hop fields near Springfield, and I asked Baun to take me to Dallas.

"No, I had never seen Baun until I went to Independence. "I left him in the road—didn't even touch the body. I got in the car and drove toward Portland. I didn't know where I was going. I wanted to get out of the country as soon as I could, and then drove out on 32nd street and then drove out the Columbia highway. I ran out of gas near Mosier. I waited there until the express office opened and then sent my suitcase to The Dalles by express. I went to The Dalles. They picked me up while I was waiting in the freight yards to 'hop' a freight."

Lloyd served 18 months in the penitentiary for forgery. He had been sentenced October 16, 1921, from Lane county, but was allowed six months for good behavior. He is 26 years of age and small, weighing about 125 pounds.

"It's tough for an ex-convict and I had a hard time getting work," he said. "I've pitched hay in eastern Oregon and worked at odd jobs, but I couldn't hold a job long. They had me marked, I guess."

Lloyd was brought here by Sheriff T. B. Hooker and District Attorney J. N. Helgeson of Polk county.

A SOLUTION OF FOREST GRAZING PROBLEM LOOMS

SPOKANE, Sept. 5.—(A. P.)—Settlement so far developed in the hearings being conducted by the United States senate sub-committee on public lands "points with favor toward a leasing policy of unreserved public domain with local option privileges," Senator Robert N. Stanford of Oregon, chairman, declared upon the arrival of the committee here recently.

"This generally is in line with the policy of the interior department," he said. "There is no demand for transfer of power over grazing rights from one department to another, but the stock men are highly favorable to the creation of a new commission before which they could present their views."

In formulating any new grazing policy, the public as well as the stock raisers and farmers will be taken into consideration, he continued, and declared that any policy that would tend to raise the price of meat would be unpopular.

Senator Tasker L. Odde of Nevada, a member of the committee, said the eastern interests want the returns to be placed in the treasury.

"They have had their pie and now they want part of ours," Senator Stanford expressed the belief that the Columbia basin project should not be delayed.

"What right has the department of the interior to say when the project shall be built?" asked Senator Ralph Cameron of Arizona, referring to a recent report of a commission of the interior department recommending delay in development.

"That is a question for congress to consider."

"The time isn't far distant when feeding our own people with our own products will be a serious problem," Senator Stanford said. "Why not start now so we shall be able to meet the situation?"
