RED CROSS AIDS FLOOD VICTIMS IN WENATCHEE

WENATCHEE, Wash., Sept. 7.—(A. P.) With the American Legion, Salvation Army and the American Red Cross on duty, relief is being extended to all those who suffered in the cloud-burst and flood which wiped out twelve lives in upper Squillchuck canyon Saturday afternoon.

While the water has subsided considerably this morning, mud, stones and wreckage is piled high. Box cars and locomotives are buried over their wheels in mud.

While the bodies so far recovered are held in nearby undertaking establishments, arrangements for funerals are being withheld until the remainder of those killed are recovered.

Work early today is in clearing the wreckage from the railroad tracks and highways and intensifying the efforts to recover bodies.

A roaring wall of water, twelve feet high, swept down from the canyon upon the Great Northern railway terminal at Springwater, picked up five dwellings in its 100-yard path, tore them to splinters and hurled the three-story Springwater hotel, a frame structure, sixty feet across the street.

The building crashed into the Terminal hotel, wrecking it.

The disaster came without warning. Occupants of the hotel building heard the sudden roar of the waters and attempted to escape, but many were caught and carried down with the torrent.

For the most part, the victims were occupants of the dwellings. These received absolutely no warning and few were saved.

DELLILA STEVENS, County Clerk for Jackson County, Oregon.
