

AIR GROUNDS A BUSY PLACE NOW, HORSES ARRIVING

With the opening day of the annual Jackson County Fair only a day away, the scene of the big annual festival and exhibition of the county's resources is humming with activity.

Mr. and Mrs. James McCleave and daughter, Miss Madeline May McCleave, arrived this morning with their famous string of twenty-three show horses and ponies. The McCleave horses come here directly from a California State Fair at Sacramento and prior to showing there they exhibited at the San Joaquin Valley Fair at Stockton.

The McCleave show horses, which is a feature of the Pacific International Livestock Exposition in Portland each year, appeared here two years ago at the fair. Miss McCleave an accomplished horsewoman and in addition there are several clever riders accompanying the famous McCleave horses which hold a long list of trophies and honors for jumping and other trick performances.

The merchants' building decoration theme, supervised by Tom Swem, is planning to take shape and the billings promises to present a more attractive appearance than any which has been seen at a Jackson County Fair in previous years.

Many of the booths in the Merchants' building are nearing completion and a large percentage of the work is well under way. Rapid progress is being made, merchants and their assistants working feverishly, in an endeavor to make their 9th present the best and most original appearance.

The U. S. Forest Service exhibit is fully done and will be one of the most educational exhibits at the fair. Prize cattle from several large farms are already situated in their stalls receiving careful care by interested attendants, curly corn and apples and shining coats being much evidence.

Horticultural Hall is being prepared by a large corps of carpenters and decorators, for the exhibit of fishable products which will begin during the various farming tracts tomorrow.

Automobile and accessory dealers and their assistants have exchanged customary wrecking tools for saws and hammers and are busy driving in and fussing with crepe paper, partitions in the automobile exhibit well under way and look attractive.

In addition to the McCleave string, horses from the following stables have arrived: Redsul, Spokane; Cummings, Ferndale, Calif.; Collins, Pullton; Crane, Lakeview; Arant, Klamath, and others. These horses will enter the races, which begin Tuesday afternoon at 1:30.

Amusement features, including the vaudeville, horse show, motor races, stock car races and jockey races and dancing at theillon, to music by Abby Green's orchestra, will continue throughout four days of the fair.

GEORGE ANDREWS BACK ON STAGE AFTER 7 YEARS

Vaudeville of a new type, which is expected to score heavily with the Medford and valley public, will be presented by the George Andrews company at the Jackson County Fair.

Wednesday, Thursday and Friday nights of this week. Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Stewart of Portland, who some time ago located here will be members of the cast and will present an Argentine dancing number that is expected to be one of the strongest features. Mrs. Stewart is an accomplished vocalist in addition to being a specialty dancer. She has won wide recognition in Portland through her musical talent.

The cast of the vaudeville includes about forty local people; among them some interesting opera characters. Rehearsals have been held every night for two weeks.

George and Rupert Maddox have leading roles and Bob Boyle and Fletcher Fish, well known Medford men, will lead humor to the performances.

A number of artistic dancing numbers will be presented by Miss Helen Redolph whose work here has always won much commendation.

Several violin numbers are on the program and a quartet composed of Mrs. Charles Hazelrigg, Mrs. Frank Isaacs, George Maddox and George Andrews will comprise another section of the bill. Wednesday evening will be George Andrews' first public appearance in seven years and local music lovers, with whom he has always been a favorite, welcome his reappearance with enthusiasm.

Back and wing dancing, by new local talent, is another feature of the varied program, which promises to equal the best of metropolitan performances.

A chorus of twenty members, composed of the younger set, is doing some clever work in rehearsal and will come in for a chance to put on a "wow" finish in the section of the bill in which the entire company appears.

SPORTSMEN ENJOY A VENISON BARBECUE

A 240-pound mule-tail deer, shot by Dr. R. W. Boyd of Klamath Falls Saturday night supplied the meat for the venison barbecue held at Crooked River Fish hatchery near Fort Klamath yesterday, which was locally attended by Deputy State Game Warden Roy Parr and W. H. Coleman, master of fish screens.

The barbecue, given by the sportsmen of Klamath county, was attended by 200 people, all of whom heartily partook of the viands as served by the sportsmen's wives.

State Game Warden E. F. Averill of Portland, State Game Commissioner Bauer of Salem, Captain A. C. Burgdoff, ex-state game warden, and W. H. Coleman gave short speeches on various topics relative to game conditions.

After the barbecue was over, Warden Averill and Commissioner Bauer left for the McKenzie River fish hatchery en route to their headquarters.

Bennett, deeply sympathize with the family over the amputation at the Sacred Heart hospital this morning of his left leg at the hip, because of a malignant growth known as sarcoma.

BIG ATTENDANCE EXPECTED TONIGHT AT LOCAL BANQUET

There promises to be a large attendance at the banquet tonight in observance of Constitution day by the combined social clubs of the city at the Hotel Medford, this date having been chosen in order not to conflict with the Jackson county fair, which will occupy the center of interest the rest of the week.

A good dinner will be served at the reasonable price of $1 per plate. During the progress of the banquet a number of entertainment features will be provided, including music by the Craters' orchestra. The formal address of the occasion will be made by Prof. Irving Vining, who has an interesting message on the significance of Constitution day.

Members of the Kiwanian, Rotary, Lions and Crater clubs are uniting to make the event a success. It is anticipated that over 200 people will be present.

G. O. P. NATIONAL COMMITTEE WON'T SUPPORT BOB, JR.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 14.—(A. P.)—Support of the republican national committee will be withheld from Robert M. LaFollette, Jr., in the special senate election in Wisconsin if he is nominated in the republican primary tomorrow.

This declaration was made today by Chairman Butler of the National committee. Whether some other republican candidate will be supported by the national organization, he said, is a matter for the republican senatorial campaign to decide.

Roy Wilcox of Eau Claire, who is opposing Mr. LaFollette as a "Coolidge Republican" candidate, already has given notice that, in event of his defeat in the primary he will run in the general election.

Chairman Butler said that while Mr. LaFollette had availed himself of the regular republican machinery in seeking the senatorial nomination to succeed his father, he could not be regarded as a republican in view of his position as chief lieutenant to his father in the campaign the latter conducted last fall on a platform opposed to that adopted by the republican convention at Cleveland.
