BIDS OPENED FOR COMPLETION T. R. HIGHWAY SOUTH

PORTLAND, Ore., Sept. 29.—(A. P.)—The state highway commission today opened bids for grading the Euche creek Rogue river section of the Roosevelt highway. This is the last section of this road between Coos bay and the California line on which the contract has not been let. The new work extends 10.99 miles. Thirteen contractors bid for this work, which is in Curry county.

Another "last link" is the Crooked river section of The Dalles-California highway, 4.55 miles, in Deschutes and Jefferson counties. When this grading contract is let it will be the last grading to be done on the Fremont trail. Six bids were received.

The commission agreed to hold a meeting at Elkton, Douglas county, in the near future to set the boundaries of the proposed road improvement district to extend from Reedsport to Drain. It is proposed to form this district in order to vote $150,000 bonds for improving the Umpqua highway.

The entire Douglas county court agreed that if the proposed Reedsport-Drain improvement district carries, the county will cooperate with the state on the Roosevelt highway between Reedsport and the Coos county line to the extent of $115,000.

Spencer Hinsdale of Reedsport, who explained the proposed district to the commission, asked that the Umpqua highway receive federal road money, but was informed by Commissioner H. L. Van Duzer that "the state has allowed a very large amount of forestry money to be allotted to this road and that it cannot agree to more being given out of any other federal funds allotted to Oregon."

COMPLETION OF CRESCENT HARBOR PROJECT ENDORSED

The Chamber of Commerce of Southern Oregon in a large and enthusiastic meeting held yesterday at the new Lilia Springs hotel at Ashland, unanimously endorsed the proposition of completing the Crescent City harbor and also passed resolutions for presentation to the rivers and harbors committee of congress, which will visit Crescent City October 7 and 8.

The chambers of Roseburg, Grants Pass, Medford, Ashland and Klamath Falls agreed to act in concert in the matter of sending such a strong southern Oregon delegation to Crescent City to meet the visiting congressmen that there could be no doubt of southern Oregon's position in the matter.

H. R. Saltmarsh, representing the Crescent City Chamber of Commerce, presented the matter and brought out very clearly that unless a strong showing was made by southern Oregon at this meeting there would be little hope of a completed harbor for many years to come. The visiting congressmen will decide to build or not to build largely by the impression made upon them by southern Oregon's interest at the meeting.

Robert H. Boyd, secretary of the local chamber, drew attention to a busy schedule ahead of his chamber and the necessity of a general call in order to properly support this program. All interests of southern Oregon, he said, can see the benefits derived from such a nearby waterway. It is expected that the city will have many representatives at the meeting without interfering with other events planned for October 7 and 8.

The drive to Crescent City is now made from Medford in six hours. Arrangements permit every resident, property owner, organization and association to register for their respective districts with the congressional committee and back up arguments being made to bring ocean rates 200 miles closer to the resources of southern Oregon. Property owners are requested to cooperate with the local chamber.
