

NAVY WARNED OF DANGER IN BLIMP GAS VALVE CHANGE

LAKEHURST, N. J., Oct. 2.—(A. P.)—In approving the gas valve system change in the airship Shenandoah, the bureau of aeronautics at Washington warned those on the ship that the new system was not as "fool proof" as the original installation and that "extreme care should be taken in the operation of the ship."

This was disclosed today before the naval court of inquiry here by the reading into the record of the official correspondence that passed on the subject between Commander Zachary Lansdowne, captain of the ship, and the bureau of aeronautics.

Changes in the valve system first were suggested by Lansdowne as early as September 16, 1924, but finally were not approved by the bureau until May 28, 1925, and then only with a warning from Captain E. S. Land, construction corps attached to the bureau. This warning was renewed on June 13, 1925, in a letter signed by Commander H. C. Richardson, construction corps, by direction of the chief of the bureau.

Captain Land's letter of May 28, said:

"The modified arrangement of valves proposed for the Shenandoah is not as fool proof as the original installation. The proposed arrangements impose an added reason for cautious operation of the ship near pressure height. If for any reason the ship gets out of control and is driven above pressure height consequences will be serious. However, on the assumption that the operating personnel realize and accept the operating practice which is involved and will take the necessary precautions, the re-arrangement of gas valves and tanks as proposed, is approved by way of experiment."

THE DATE TREE

October 2, 1771—154 years ago—Henry Frederick, Duke of Cumberland, marries Mrs. Horton. The lady is described as "a young widow, extremely pretty and remarkable for the great length of her eyelashes, veiling a pair of artful and coquettish eyes." But her beauty made no impression on her royal brother-in-law, George III, who to show his displeasure at his younger brother's mesalliance enacted the Royal Marriage Act providing that no descendant of George II might lawfully marry without consent of the sovereign, signified under the great seal.

WHITE SOX MAY GET IN FOR PART W. SERIES MONEY

NEW YORK, Oct. 2.—(A. P.)—The White Sox today had the mathematical chance of figuring in the players' share of the world's series spoils by tying Detroit for fourth place in the American league. The Tigers, however, are sure of finishing fourth, for the best the White Sox can do is to tie them for that position. Each team has two games to play and the Bengals have a two-game margin on Chicago.

All hope of the Tigers overtaking the Browns disappeared yesterday when St. Louis won from them, 4 to 3. The Browns may now lose their last two contests without relinquishing the third rung.

Chicago's triumph over the Indians, 3 to 0, marked Pitcher Blankenship's 17th victory of the season.

Wingfield limited the Senators to five singles while the Red Sox won, 4 to 1.

In the National league the Phillies tagged a third setback on the Robins.
