INJURIES CRIPPLE FOOTBALL TEAMS ON PACIFIC COAST

SAN FRANCISCO, Oct. 8.—(A. P.)—Football is claiming its usual quota of injuries this season. With the curtain barely up for the 1925 play on the Pacific coast, two men were definitely out with broken legs, while many others were laid up through more or less minor injuries.

The University of Nevada found itself minus the services of William "Little Bill" Gutteron, star quarterback. Gutteron, one of the mainstays of the Wolf pack this year, suffered a double fracture of the ankle in the game against California last Saturday.

Jack Scarlett, end on the St. Mary's college eleven, was taken from the field last Saturday with a broken leg.

A gap in the California varsity backfield is temporarily being filled while Captain Tut Imlay is recovering from a sprained hip muscle. He was hurt in the opening game of the season against Santa Clara.

"Hank" Millage, considered the likeliest understudy to Ernie Nevers, captain and fullback of the Stanford team, is out for the season with an injured knee.
